

The ZetaTalk Newsletter

Issue 316, Sunday October 21, 2012

Weekly news and views from around the world and beyond.

New ZetaTalk Focus Groups

Earth Changes

Announcements

Signs of the Times

The announcement was deferred on the weekend of September 15 due to the embassy riots, which ranged from the Netherlands to Sydney. As detailed in Issue 313 the announcement was also delayed repeatedly on the next weekend of September 22 as Heads of State, alerted during the week that an announcement had been planned, began calling in with requested changes until it was too late, running into Sunday afternoon with the markets again opening for the week. As detailed in Issue 314 the announcement was attempted on the last weekend of the month, September 30, via the Emergency Alert System, which was then discovered sabotaged at so many points that it again ran into Sunday afternoon when the markets were due to open for the week. As detailed in Issue 315 the announcement was again pressed forward, this time for the weekend of October 6, avoiding the Emergency Alert System but instead using the Oval Office Address route. This route likewise met sabotage and legal challenges until the attempts found themselves at Sunday afternoon, with the markets about to open. By the following weekend of October 13, the blocks to an Oval Office Address had been effectively rooted out, but the Romney bounce from the first Presidential debate now had the Obama campaign frantic. Could they risk losing the election, with scant time to recover from any adverse reaction? As a last check, focus groups were assembled and tested, settling the issue. No announcement would be made until after the election.

ZetaTalk Comment 10/14/2012: During the week going into the second weekend in October, the Obama campaign could not contain their anxiety about what the announcement might do to Obama's chances. There seemed not enough time to counter any trend or backlash. It would clearly be seen as an October surprise, even if backed up by NASA facts. There would be that lingering suspicion that it was all made up, to trip the election in Obama's favor. Romney's bounce after the first debate lasted for at least a week, just now turning around to favor Obama again. Would they achieve the announcement but lose the election?

How would that benefit the world? These were the arguments in heated debates within the administration.

It was decided to hold focus groups, who were given a "theoretical" situation, posed as fiction, of what an October surprise that looked suspect might do to their voting preferences. First the focus group was polled as to their preferences. Then they were presented with an actor posing as Obama, relaying the actual words Obama planned to use in his Oval Office Address. Then the focus groups received a brief lecture, a film from a NASA spokesperson. At no time were they told this was the truth. Then they were polled again as to voting preferences and a significant number suspected it was all a hoax. It seemed so unbelievable! If this were the truth, why is this the first they heard about it?

This puts the announcement on hold until after the election. Just what the Council of Worlds decides to do, in the meantime, is unknown at this time. They have declared war on the cover-up, but cannot fault Obama for trying. He struggled for a month during sabotage by professional cover-up artists. Disasters within the US, which Obama addresses well and with compassion, would not hurt Obama's chances, and in fact would likely enhance them. Thus the S American roll with some sinking of Caribbean islands, extreme N American bow tension and early New Madrid quakes might occur, as all of this is well behind schedule. Signs in the skies are beginning to be seen without filters, worldwide, and this trend is likely to increase so the Earth changes are connected to this presence.

Disbelief indeed can be expected among those who have held the belief that the government would tell them if a threat were approaching. Per the Zetas, denial will be rampant even when the passage is obvious and Planet X visible in the sky for all to see. The range of reactions will be broad.

ZetaTalk Prediction 3/13/2004: Governments will get reclusive, be less available to the public, not respond to phone calls or demands for briefings except in a limited manner, and in general try to avoid the hard questions. As disasters happen, those arms of the government or volunteer units tasked with responding will rise to the occasion, tents erected, meals served, and the message that it is important for each and every citizen to do some planning on their own. In that most families live from paycheck to paycheck, and have nowhere but home to go, the public will continue to report to work and children kept in school. The familiar comforts, routine keeps the mind off worry, and until a crisis hits home and moving is imperative, moves will not be made.

We have predicted that many will party into the pole shift, choosing to ignore danger as they have made a decision to die in comfort rather than adjust to a harsh new life without toys. Others, ill or aged, will made similar decisions out of realism, knowing they will be unlikely to do well when displaced, or not wanting to be a burden on others. But those who have determined to survive, taking their loved ones and others into a new life, can plan. Discussions and shopping trips, arrangements to send the wife and children to the farm well ahead of any crisis, plans and alternate plans and what to do if separated with the phone lines dead. All to the good, as all can make their peace with what is coming, all have an opportunity to say their good byes in loving times, and the best possible outcome for all will thus result.

One predictable reaction is for the paid debunkers, and those who shrilled against the truth out of fear, to disappear when the announcement is made. If Heads of State canceled their trips around the world on the weekend of September 22, anticipating the announcement that weekend, one debunker who attacked the ZetaTalk message with gusto, denying the existence of Planet X, is on the run, quickly slipping from the scene.

It's Not Worth the Death Threats

09/27/2012 by Dr. Astro, Unofficial official GLP "astromoner"

<http://www.godlikeproductions.com/forum1/message2001954/pg1>

Yesterday I learned that death threats were being made against me on Flickr by a new user who registered under the screen name "astromutmustdie." I've decided that enough is enough. As much as I have enjoyed being here, as much as I have enjoyed debunking astronomical nonsense, and as much as I have appreciated the friends I've found here, it's not worth the death threats, especially when people I call friends are getting hit by it too.

Costa Rica Plate Shift

Earthquakes along fault lines or plate borders routinely affect one or more plates, but seldom reach out beyond the immediate plates affected. But the 7.9 (quickly downgraded) striking Costa Rica September 5, 2012 registered changes in the plate position from Australia in the west to the Atlantic in the east. Aftershocks rattled the region for days. The quake occurred at the point where the S American roll forces the Caribbean Plate over the Cocos Plate and the tiny Panama platelet touches. A three-way crunch for that point, thus.

13-SEP-2012	05:46:13	4.1	GUATEMALA
13-SEP-2012	00:22:32	4.7	NEAR COAST OF VENEZUELA
12-SEP-2012	06:29:35	4.8	OFF COAST OF COSTA RICA
12-SEP-2012	05:23:17	4.5	NEAR NORTH COAST OF COLOMBIA
12-SEP-2012	04:10:52	4.4	OFF COAST OF COSTA RICA
12-SEP-2012	02:13:03	4.6	COSTA RICA
12-SEP-2012	01:13:26	4.6	OFF COAST OF CENTRAL AMERICA
11-SEP-2012	19:24:59	4.9	SOUTH OF PANAMA
10-SEP-2012	22:03:31	4.3	MONA PASSAGE
10-SEP-2012	11:31:16	4.8	OFF COAST OF CENTRAL AMERICA
09-SEP-2012	21:37:36	4.3	COSTA RICA
09-SEP-2012	18:59:39	4.7	NEAR COAST OF GUERRERO, MEXICO
09-SEP-2012	11:08:44	4.4	OFF COAST OF CENTRAL AMERICA
09-SEP-2012	09:50:02	4.2	OFF COAST OF CENTRAL AMERICA
09-SEP-2012	05:14:52	4.8	NEAR COAST OF GUERRERO, MEXICO
08-SEP-2012	20:29:32	5.6	COSTA RICA
08-SEP-2012	12:01:10	4.3	COSTA RICA
08-SEP-2012	09:50:22	4.5	COSTA RICA
08-SEP-2012	02:27:20	4.2	OFF COAST OF CENTRAL AMERICA
07-SEP-2012	19:12:25	4.7	OFF COAST OF CENTRAL AMERICA
07-SEP-2012	07:52:13	4.3	NORTHERN COLOMBIA
07-SEP-2012	05:46:17	4.3	OFF COAST OF COSTA RICA
07-SEP-2012	03:26:24	4.4	OFF COAST OF COSTA RICA
07-SEP-2012	01:21:27	4.5	COSTA RICA

06-SEP-2012	23:30:03	4.3	OFF COAST OF CENTRAL AMERICA
06-SEP-2012	11:38:56	4.4	OFF COAST OF CENTRAL AMERICA
06-SEP-2012	09:07:44	4.9	NICARAGUA
06-SEP-2012	06:47:34	4.9	OFF COAST OF CENTRAL AMERICA
06-SEP-2012	04:44:17	4.1	COSTA RICA
06-SEP-2012	04:40:36	4.1	COSTA RICA
05-SEP-2012	22:46:34	4.6	COSTA RICA
05-SEP-2012	22:11:25	4.5	COSTA RICA
05-SEP-2012	22:07:56	4.0	NEAR COAST OF GUATEMALA
05-SEP-2012	15:58:41	4.4	OFF COAST OF COSTA RICA
05-SEP-2012	15:12:39	4.5	COSTA RICA
05-SEP-2012	14:42:08	7.6	COSTA RICA

Buoys reflected the widespread plate movement from the eastern side of the Indio-Australia Plate off the coast of Australia all the way through the Caribbean Plate and up along the East Coast of the US, and even up along the West Coast to Alaska! Thus the N American Plate and the Pacific Plate were involved in plate adjustments as well as the Caribbean and the Cocos plates!

The continuous pressure of the S American roll also caused the Fuego volcano in Guatemala to violently erupt on September 14, 2012. This point in Guatemala also lies on the edge of the Caribbean Plate where it is being pushed over the Cocos Plate. Per the Zeta, Central America is most definitely in harm's way during the 7 of 10 plate adjustments.

ZetaTalk Warning 12/11/2010: Where have we failed? We have used words like fractured, crumbled, crunched, experiencing great trauma, dragged along, or ground up. In addition to what will happen to the land mass, we have mentioned exploding volcanoes very near at hand, and water rushing completely over such lowlands as the Yucatan and Panama. How have we failed to relay what is coming? If total destruction does not occur during the 7 of 10, it will during the hour of the pole shift if not before that time. We have described the 7 of 10 as moving the top of S American Plate 250 miles to the west. Not all this movement involves S America, due to adjustments elsewhere, but nevertheless Panama and Costa Rica will be crushed during the 7 of 10 by the grinding movement of the hump as the great S American Plate grinds over it.

South Sea Worries

Beyond the worries of rising seas washing over low-lying islands, there is the worry of atolls used for atomic bomb testing spewing their poisons into the oceans. Mururoa, an atoll at the end of the Society Islands, was used extensively by the French for such testing in the past, which has come back to haunt them.

Nuclear Fears over French Polynesia Atoll Collapse
August 10, 2012

<http://www.radioaustralia.net.au/pacific/2012-08-10/nuclear-fears-over-french-polynesia-atoll-collapse/996942>

The issue was detailed in a leaked report from the Ministry of Defense to the French government dated March 2010. Radioactive material could be released into the Pacific Ocean if the atoll were to collapse. France has done altogether 193 nuclear test explosions in Mururoa.

ZetaTalk Comment 8/25/2012: Mururoa is at the end of the Society Island chain, which is at a point where three different Pacific plates touch. Thus shifting ground is inevitable, and has only begun to be evident. Will this send radioactive soil into the sea, to be washed about? Absolutely. After all the tests done primarily by the French, it was expected that the atoll would hold radioactive material until it degraded. Surprise! These tests were done prior to the discovery in 1983, via the IRAS balloon, that Planet X indeed existed and was in the neighborhood! The radioactive dust will dissipate, though beaches may retain a portion in places. Just as the Hawaiian Islands will rise during the compression of the Pacific, the Society Islands will likewise rise, slightly more radioactive, but still livable.

Then there are the drowning islands, as the Pacific plates compress. What to do about drowning residents? The residents of the South Sea island of Rarotonga have New Zealand citizenship, and can look forward to a swift rescue when the waves finally wash over their former homeland. Others will not be as lucky.

Cook Islands Prepare for Hillary Clinton Visit
August 17, 2012

http://www.nzherald.co.nz/nz/news/article.cfm?c\_id=1&objectid=10827713

The South Pacific island chain, home to just 10,000 people, is buzzing as it prepares for the expected visit of the US secretary of state. Clinton is expected to attend the Pacific Islands Forum, an annual meeting of Pacific leaders that begins Aug. 27 on the main island of Rarotonga.

ZetaTalk Comment 8/25/2012: The Cook islands are in an unfortunate position as they ride on a portion of the Pacific plates that will slide under the Indo-Australian Plate as the Pacific compresses. The Tonga Trench is the point of shear. We have stated that the islands of New Zealand will not tear apart during the plate movements, as both the North and South islands cling to the Indo-Australian plate, despite any fault lines that might lead one to think differently. The islands of the South Pacific that share the Indo-Australian advantage, such as West Samoa, can expect a major boost in elevation during the Pole Shift, but the Cook Islands are not among them. Since the Cook Islands belong to New Zealand, the residents there can expect rescue from New Zealand, and this is under discussion with US Secretary of State Hillary Clinton. New Zealand has asked for US assistance, logistically, should an emergency evacuation be required. US ships may be positioned closer to the Cook Islands, which at first glance might seem to be a push-back against China aggression and an alliance with New Zealand, but due to the continuing cover-up over the expected impact of the plate movements we have predicted, the real reason for any such presence is being denied.

Boars and Bears

What do they have in common? They both have been known to eat people and they both can be eaten by people. Wild pigs can be vicious and as the movies have shown us, will eat people as readily as truffles. Bears likewise are omnivores, and man eaters will emerge in the Aftertime. Per the Zetas, it will be man against bear in Alaska until the winner is established. The Zetas have predicted that wildlife will be hunted almost to extinction near population centers after the Pole Shift.

ZetaTalk Alaska: Beware the bears, who will have their habitat invaded. Alaska after the shift will be a war between man and bear, with one eating the other.

Grizzly Bear Kills Backpacker in Alaska's Denali National Park
August 25, 2012

http://articles.cnn.com/2012-08-25/us/us\_alaska-bear-attack

A lone backpacker was killed in a grizzly bear attack while hiking in Alaska's Denali National Park.

Deer Hunter Kills Hogzilla

October 19, 2011

<http://blog.newsok.com/outdoors/2011/10/19/deer-hunter-kills-hogzilla/>

Early last week Winston Brown took his crossbow and climbed up into a tree stand near Rush Springs in hope of harvesting his first deer of the season. Instead he came home with 760 pounds of wild hog. It took three arrows from Brown's crossbow to kill the beast, which is perhaps the largest feral swine ever killed in Oklahoma.

Man Eaten by Hogs at Oregon Farm

October 1, 2012

<http://www.kptv.com/story/19688341/oregon-man-eaten-by-hogs-body-%20found-in-several-pieces>

An Oregon man trying to feed his 700-pound hogs was eaten by the animals, and sheriff's deputies are trying to determine what led up to his death.

Led by Children

Seeing beyond traditional solutions will be required, something children excel at. The Zetas have predicted that in many cases survival communities will be led by children, though they may not recognize this when it occurs.

ZetaTalk Prediction 1/15/2002: Survival groups, stunned by what has happened and in despair over being abandoned and lied to by their governments, in shock over the adjustments to their prior lifestyle and depressed over the adjustments that must be made, will be led by children, who will see resources and avenues not apparent to their parents and caretakers. They will find each other, and communicate, and create bonds between groups that the adults would not think possible. They will be the visionaries of the future, among human survival groups, to a degree that would stun their parents now. Children have ways of influencing their elders which the elders scarcely take note of, but an analysis of the process shows that the child is leading.

A Finegan Fine chapter called New Leaders weaves together this concept of being led by children along with the suggestion that pig farms might need to be re-established after the Pole Shift from wild pig stock.

The wagon master is a young girl about 11 years of age. She is barefoot, wears bib jeans with a t-shirt underneath, and has her hair in braids on either side. She secures the reins and hops off the wagon seat, pulling a board nailed onto a stake from the wagon bed. On the board, in red paint, are the words "Wild Piglets". She walks over to a clear area near the barbeque pit, reserved for her display, and hammers the stake into the ground there, tossing the hammer into her wagon. One of her two men picks up a covered bucket of barbeque sauce from the wagon bed and returns to baste the now roasting pig. The other comes to help the girl unload the piglets in cages. The piglets are young, only about a foot long, and protesting, squealing. After they offload the piglet cages, she immediately turns on her heel and comes over to the shoeman, who says, "Howdy Matilda." Matilda says, "They ate another pair." The shoeman smiles and says, "You gotta stop kicking at them beasts."

Matilda comes up to a woman who looks like she is about to cry, talking to a man getting red in the face. The woman says, "But you owe me a hen. You promised. We ain't had meat ta home for a month." The man is fuming. "They're all sitting eggs, I tell you. Cain't you wait a couple weeks?" Matilda is looking from one to the other, saying nothing. Finally, she sees a break in the argument and says to the woman, "How big did you say that old coop you got on your place is?" The man and woman stare at each other for a moment, suddenly realizing a solution. Both talking at once almost on top of each other. He says, "You got a coop? I'm outta space and with the new'uns coming. Ya know, chicks take to a new coop like its home after a day er so. They free range, just let 'em out in the morning and call 'em back at night." She says, "Big as the house, but the hen's er all gone now since Earl passed. He did the chickens en all. We got no feed, used corn during Earl's day." Matilda is walking away, smiling to herself. Finegan is again standing in amazement that a young girl is apparently in the running in a campaign, and taken seriously. He says, under his breath, "But she's a girl!"

A tall, muscular man is standing on the wagon addressing the crowd. He is wearing suit pants and a vest, with a long sleeved white shirt on under the vest, rolled up at the sleeves. He is wearing a tie, but this has been loosened at the neck, his shirt collar open a bit as the day has gotten warm. He is showing a 5 o'clock shadow. From a distance one can hear his pitch. "Build roads" The crowd seems lukewarm, only a half dozen furiously applauding. The first candidate nods and takes a slight bow, and then steps off the wagon. The second candidate is a stocky woman in a voluminous dress. Her hair has been piled on top of her head and she is bedecked with costume jewelry. Rings are stuffed over her plump fingers. She is helped up onto the wagon by a couple backers who stand under her ample buttocks as she heaves herself up the step. She straightens up and clears her throat. "The rule of law must be our first concern. There are simply no guidelines. I've taken the initiative of drawing up statutes that give clear guidelines."

Finegan is still trying to get his head around the idea that a little girl could be in the competition. "Her father ran a pig farm, and they all escaped when the troubles hit. Ran off into the swamp. Well they go wild after a time. But she got 'em back, is breeding 'em tame again. OK, so she's got guts, I'll give her that". Finegan is shaking his head, muttering to himself. "I watched her. It's not what she says. It's what she gets other people to do. I dunno. I dunno, but they're fretting and fussing. Then comes Matilda. Then when she leaves they're set to go off to do somethin. But I never hear her tell them what to do. She points to this or that one and asks a question. That's it. Huh." Now Matilda is jumping up on the wagon, to thunderous applause. "Clem says I'm the jell in the jello, and my dad always said I brung his mind to a focus, but to my way of thinking it ain't me. It's you. It's you come up with what to do, and it's you who do it. But we rounded up the pigs now and I've got more time. If this is what you want me to do, then I'm happy to help." With that, Matilda hops off the wagon and continues to work the crowd on the edge of the seating area. Finegan is still dumbfounded. "Huh.

---