

The ZetaTalk Newsletter

Issue 327, Sunday January 6, 2013

Weekly news and views from around the world and beyond.

New ZetaTalk
Brilliant Brazil

Earth Changes

Announcements

Signs of the Times

Astonished Brazilians saw what they could only speculate were reflections of the sunset, warping almost halfway around the horizon, on December 17, 2012. Where the sunset reflects off clouds close at hand, these supposed reflections were beyond the reach of the Sun! What were they?

VIDEO: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bOfk1CeBHec>

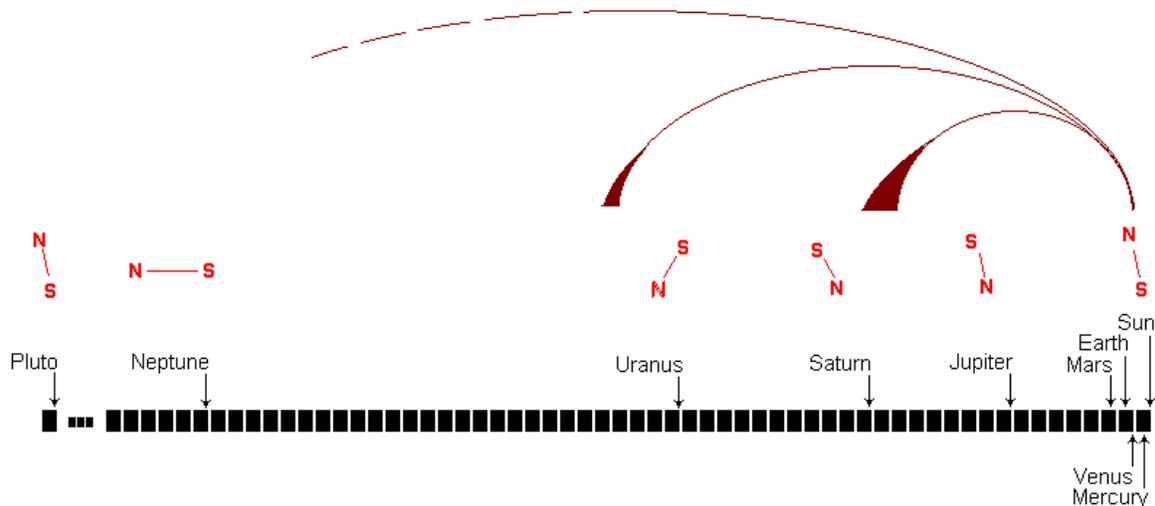

In a late afternoon something very strange occurred, reflecting the sunset through the clouds caused an effect of reflector on the horizon as we see in the footage. The video was recorded near Palotina, and it was day 17/12/12.

The astonishing brilliance of these Moon Swirls is accentuated by the cloud cover that day, else they might have been lost in the glare from the Sun. In the Southern Hemisphere, such as Brazil, everything is reversed from the view from the Northern Hemisphere. Thus where Alberto's Red Filter photos show the tail wafting to the left, toward the 8 o'clock direction, in Brazil they would be wafting to the right, in the 2 o'clock direction. The Ecliptic also rises sharply upward in this view from Brazil, so the Moon Swirls are below the Ecliptic. The Planet X complex has not yet pierced the Ecliptic during its passage through the inner solar system.

ZetaTalk Explanation 12/29/2012: As is known, the view of the Sun in the Northern Hemisphere, and what lies either to the right or left of the Sun, is reversed in the Southern Hemisphere. Thus what Alberto recorded in his Red Filter photos, the wafting tail of Planet X to the lower left of the Sun, will appear to the right of the Sun in Brazil. Here, in the video capture from Palotina, Brazil, are the Moon Swirls that Alberto and others have been recording and even seen naked eye as light orbs around the Sun. These light orbs are particularly brilliant in this Brazilian video because the clouds blunt the glare from the Sun. Take Alberto's photo taken during this time and reverse it horizontally and vertically to see where the Moon Swirls would be expected in the Southern Hemisphere. The world is noticing, and this visibility will only increase until NASA admits that Nibiru has arrived.

Jupiter/Saturn Tilting

The gaseous planets – Jupiter and Saturn – are normally tilted in opposition to the Sun's magnetic alignment, which means they have their S Poles up, allow the magnetons flowing along the Sun's N Pole to flow through them. Jupiter and Saturn are not magnetic planets, they are conduits, offering the least resistance they can to the Sun's magnetic field. The Zetas addressed this during the 2001 sci.astro debates.

ZetaTalk Explanation 2001: Probes sent to measure the magnetic field of a gaseous planet find their test magnets swinging into alignment, both the south pole of the gaseous planet and the test magnet lined up to act as a conduit for the intense flow of magnetic particles on the move. The fact that there is no actual field about the gaseous planet, no return from the north pole of the gaseous magnet to its south pole, is not noted.

In 2003, as Planet X was arriving into the inner solar system from the direction of the constellation Orion, a tilting of Jupiter and Saturn occurred. Planet X was coming inbound toward the S Pole of the Sun, leading with its N Pole (as magnets prefer to go end-to-end) and hosing magnetons, the magnetic particle, out its N Pole. These traveled through the Solar System to hit Jupiter and Saturn, who were on the opposite side of the Solar System. In March, 2003 this was the topic of discussion on the Surfing the Apocalypse message board.

Take a look at the four visible moons circling Jupiter [Mar 22]. Over the last few years I have seen Jupiter and it's four visible moons many times here in Washington State. But I cannot recall ever seeing them like they were tonight. Normally they are lined up in a row and in line with the bands that circle the planet. Usually, there is one moon on one side and three on the other. From earth they look as if they are positioned at 9 o'clock and 3 o'clock respectively. The entire nine yards, including Jupiter itself, was tilted at an incredible angle! The moons were lined up from the 7 o'clock position on one side of Jupiter to the 1 o'clock position on the other side of the planet. Now, I am here to say that I have never seen that before. Just last week I took a look at Jupiter and its moons and they were in the usual horizontal position that I have always seen them in. [and from another] This pic was taken approximately 22h10 GMT+1, 23.3.05, from southern France. [and from another] I don't ever recall seeing the moons at such positions away from the equator regions of Jupiter [Mar 23]. But if you look even closer the stripes on Jupiter are skewed also. Why are we seeing Jupiter at such highly tilted angles? Similar to how Saturn and its rings being so visible now. [and from another] I look at Jupiter quite often and the moons are always in a straight line. That is when there are clear skies over Kentucky.

Then, while Planet X was nosing its N Pole into the Sun's S Pole while it passed the Sun, Jupiter and Saturn returned to normal. Now the tilt is back! Denise Chavez-Goforth and her team have photographed Jupiter and Saturn with their amateur astronomy equipment, and via observatory equipment, and are proving their case to the world. On December 16, 2012 Denise noted that Jupiter seemed to be upside down while another observer on their team noted that Jupiter tilted 150° by this date, and on October 29, 2012 had already tilted to 116°. On December 19, 2012 Denise and her team provided evidence that Saturn too was tilted on its side. Denise points out that Stellarium and other programs showing the Solar System are using staged images, photographs, and live images, as her team is providing, are required. Naturally, any observatories offering this to the public suddenly developed cover-up flu and were taken offline.

Normal Saturn Positions

All this went viral on the Internet, discussed on various forums such as the David Icke forum, GodlikeProduction forum, in print in the Examiner, and of course on the Pole Shift ning

Pole Shift has Begun on Outer Planets and Chavez-Goforth Needs Help to Prove It
December 20, 2012

<http://www.examiner.com/article/pole-shift-has-begun-on-outer-planets>

Denise Chavez-Goforth needs your help to confirm that the Pole Shift has indeed begun with the outer planets in the solar system. Planet X has flipped Jupiter and tilted Saturn. On Dec. 16, 2012, Denise Chavez-Goforth, of Nibiru Chronicles, posted a video (shown below) that indicates the pole shift has begun, starting with outer planets. Jupiter has flipped so that the underside of the planet can be seen. Chavez-Goforth also shows a picture of tilted Saturn. If these outer planets have flipped and tilted, could the inner planets including Earth be next?

The Zetas explained that as Jupiter and Saturn stand behind the Earth at present, and somewhat to the right, the hosing from the N Pole of Planet X as it completes its first 270° roll is blasting Jupiter and Saturn, as it did once before in 2003.

ZetaTalk Explanation 12/22/2012: Why have Jupiter and Saturn returned to tilting at this time, when Planet X has been in the inner solar system since 2003? Planet X is involved in its first 270°, and has been steadily swinging its N Pole in a horizontal manner away from the Sun's S Pole and outward into space. Swinging this N Pole in a retrograde manner, clockwise, it first points out toward Jupiter and Saturn, before directly hosing the Earth as it will do in the Last Weeks. Jupiter and Saturn now have more than the Sun's magnetic field lines to deal with, as they are also receiving a blast from the side. Thus conflicted, they are shifting about trying to accommodate both magnetic fields.

Medvedev Disclosure

Was he joking? When Medvedev described to reporters the secret files on aliens that a new president of Russia receives, was he joking? When he stated that the plethora of aliens visiting Russia looks like a scene from the Men in Black, was he joking? Per the Zetas, he was carefully and cleverly disclosing!

Dmitry Medvedev Muses on Aliens and Vladimir Putin's Lateness

December 8, 2012

<http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/vladimir-putin/9731278/Dmitry-Medvedev-muses>

Along with the briefcase with nuclear codes, the president of the country is given a special 'top secret' folder. This folder in its entirety contains information about aliens who visited our planet, Mr Medvedev answered playfully. Along with this, you are given a report of the absolutely secret special service that exercises control over aliens on the territory of our country. More detailed information on this topic you can get from a well-known movie called 'Men In Black'. I will not tell you how many of them are among us because it may cause panic, he says.

Secret Files on Aliens: Extraterrestrials Living in Russia Jokes PM Medvedev

December 10, 2012

<http://www.christianpost.com/news/secret-files-on-aliens-extraterrestrials-russia-jokes-pm-medvedev>

Each new Russian president is given two secret files on aliens, Prime Minister Dimitry Medvedev told a journalist. He said the folders are "top secret" and contain information on extraterrestrials that are currently living on Earth. Russian PM quickly indicated that his comment was a joke.

ZetaTalk Explanation 12/22/2012: One way to get the truth out is to say "just kidding" at the end of an outrageous statement. Was Medvedev kidding? In that he was describing the process by which a new president becomes initiated into the Russian government's awareness of the alien presence, he was telling the truth. In that he was describing the array of intelligent alien life forms that Russia, as a member of MJ12, was privy to, he was telling the truth. Medvedev suggested that the movie Men in Black could be used as a guide, and the array of intelligent life forms in reality certainly moves beyond that as to form and species. Intelligent life visiting Earth are not primarily hominid.

Is disclosure around the corner? The US is certainly the country most reluctant in this regard, as the CIA was at the helm of the cover-up over the alien presence. They hold bodies from the Roswell incident. Both Russia and the US hold film of various visitors, as the Skinny Bob tape shows. Many countries have been moving toward full disclosure over the past decade, both because UFO displays can no longer be denied and because those in leadership have become convinced that the public will not panic. Like the cover-up over the near presence of Planet X, the cover-up over the alien presence has become a burden, and threatens to make the governments look irrelevant. Thus there is likely to be more such kidding around, in future.

This is not the first time Medvedev has encouraged disclosure about the alien presence or the presence of Planet X. On October 4, 2009 (during the Medvedev presidency), in Issue153 of this newsletter, we presented a TV broadcast in Russia. This broadcast discussed the pending passage of Planet X and even predicted that Planet X would be seen with greater visibility in 2011. Meanwhile, NASA in the US was violently denying Planet X, aka Nibiru, existed and bashing Nancy Lieder every chance they got. Russia is no stranger to the alien presence. Their officials openly admit that Crop Circles in Russia are laid by aliens, and their cosmonauts also openly admit the existence of the alien presence and Russian contact with aliens.

Crop Circles Mystify Russian farmers

June 24, 2000

http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/world/monitoring/media_reports/804079.stm

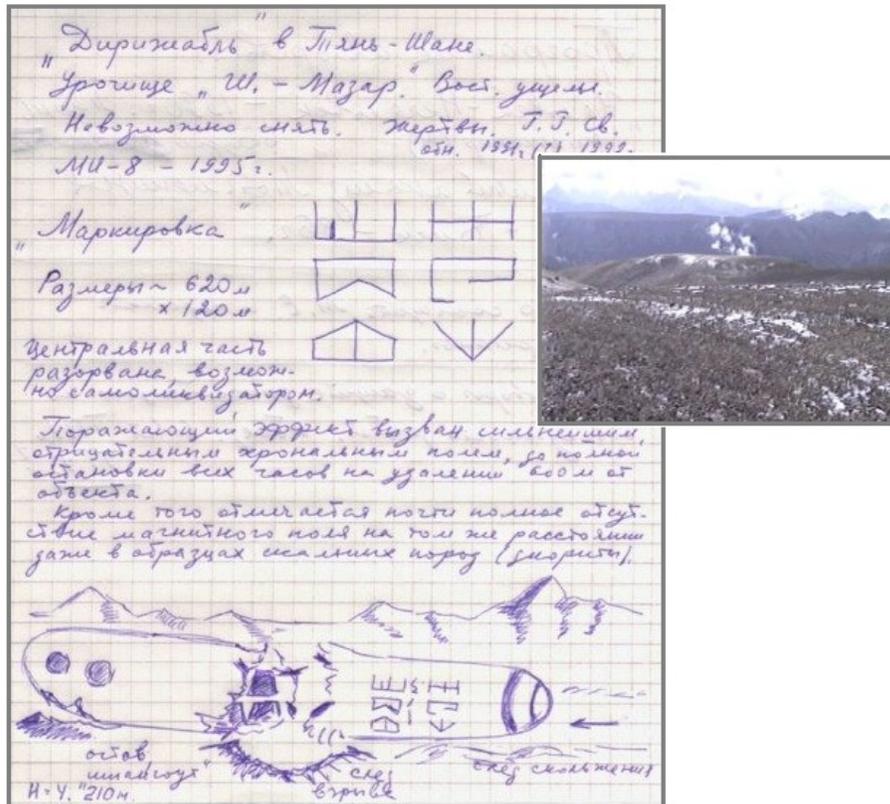

Officials found eyewitnesses in a neighbouring village who said they had seen a UFO landing in the field. Vasily Belchenko, security council deputy secretary, was inclined to believe them. "There is no doubt that it was not man-made, that somebody was playing a practical joke," he said. "An unknown object definitely landed there. It obviously used an unknown landing principle. Eyewitnesses say that the landing was very quick and the take-off was immediate."

Russian Alien Encounters

<http://www.aliens-everything-you-want-to-know.com/RussianAlienEncounters.html>

In 1990 Colonel Marina Popovich held a press conference in San Francisco at the Russian Consulate. During the conference she showed amazing photographs of cigar-shaped alien craft in space that were each, fifteen miles long. Popovich knows her stuff. Besides being a colonel in the Soviet Armed Forces, she is also the wife of famed cosmonaut Pavel Popovich. Pavel Popovich was head of a Soviet Committee on UFOs.

The Russians have also had their own crashed ships, though not holding passengers of the good sort as happened in Roswell. There is, for instance, the famous Shaitan Mazar UFO crash on August 28, 1991. Per the Zetas, this was an incident where Service-to-Self aliens, who do not conduct teamwork well amongst themselves due to their self-focused nature, had a technology failure.

1991 Russian Crash and Retrieval, "Grave of the Devil"

October 11, 2004

<http://www.ufocasebook.com/Russia.html>

An extremely large object approximately 600 meters long, and 110 meters in diameter appeared over the Caspian Sea. Two MIG 29 fighters were diverted from a routine mission, and two others were scrambled from the peninsula. When they reached visual range, they were shocked to see a gigantic, elongated, metallic gray object. As the MIGs closed in on the craft, the pilots noticed two port holes toward the front of the object, and green symbols composed of a language unknown to any of the Russian pilots. As the pilots squeezed their triggers there was no response from their controls! None of the electrical system worked. The cockpit controls were dead, and then the engines began to sputter. The object began to pull away from the MIGs. Approximately 45 minutes after the sudden appearance of the UFO, it simply vanished from radar screens.

At least one group would succeed, and bring back the invaluable evidence they sought; evidence that an alien spacecraft had crashed into the Tien Shan Mountains. The group was well trained and ready to make the journey to the crash site in June of 1992. The immense object had come to rest on a plateau and in the process had broken into two pieces. At the distance of 1,000 meters, delicate electronic instruments malfunctioned. The group could feel electricity around them, like humid, thick air. The electromagnetic field of the UFO was so intense that all compass needles were drawn directly to the object, while other types of measuring instruments simply went dead. The researchers could now determine that the craft, after hitting the cliffs above them had skidded on its belly for a distance of 5,000 feet before coming to rest. The nose was dented from the impact, and the mid section explosion had blown out the metallic cover, bending it outward.

Unfortunately, the members of the expedition was not able to approach any closer than 800 meters before the energy field stopped them. No sign of alien bodies could be seen from their vantage point. The strange, green symbols were large enough to be studied, and they were copied exactly by Nikolay Subbotin. All agreed that the symbols did not represent any known language, but they confirmed without a doubt that this craft was one and the same as the four MIG jets had chased. Some of the crew members received radiation burns at a distance of 800 meters. Video tape was also ruined. Only a few months after the second expedition had ended, plans were already underway for a triumphant third journey to the crash site. They did make the site, but the UFO was gone.

ZetaTalk Comment 11/10/2012: With an abundance of official documentation, this UFO incident can hardly be dubbed a hoax. Where UFOs are not known to crash, accidents do happen. The exceptions are the famous Roswell case, and the Brazilian Roswell crashes, where benign aliens were trying to make contact with the military of the region. It should be noted that the crashed ship had symbols on the exterior of the ship, a certain sign that this was not a ship of those in the Service-to-Other, who do not need to communicate via lettering as they use telepathy as the mode. This thus dubs it to be a ship of aliens in the Service-to-Self, who are, as we have stated, more clumsy with technology as they are not, frankly, interested in what the other is doing or thinking or noticing, being focused on the self by preference.

The visitors use manipulation of gravity and magnetism to hover, as we have stated, and thus crashed the housing was cracked and control over the flood of sub atomic gravitons and magnetons and electrons was lost. This control was lost even before the crash, as noted by the Russian MIGs who were chasing the ship. Their electrical equipment became overwhelmed and shut down. In that the Element of Doubt prevailed in this instance, the Service-to-Self aliens responsible for this mess were required to quickly clean it up, so no trace now exists. Rumors of crashed ships to the contrary, the establishment does not possess them.
