Mass Hysteria

It's on the increase around the world. The term is used to cover both the psychological aspect of a shared fear and physical symptoms such as vomiting or hyperventilating until faint.

Mass Hysteria

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mass_hysteria

Mass hysteria — other names include collective hysteria, group hysteria, or collective obsessional behavior — in sociology and psychology refers to collective delusions of threats to society that spread rapidly through rumors and fear. In medicine the term is used to describe the spontaneous manifestation of the same or similar hysterical physical symptoms by more than one person. A common manifestation of mass hysteria occurs when a group of people believe they are suffering from a similar disease or ailment. Sometimes referred to as mass psychogenic illness or epidemic hysteria.

Some recent examples show the pattern. Primarily affected are women or girls, who have less control in most cultures, and in countries where poverty entraps or where social pressure cannot be avoided.

'Mass Hysteria' Hits Bangladesh Garment Workers

June 18, 2013

<http://www.foxnews.com/world/2013/06/18/mass-hysteria-hits-bangladesh>

Hundreds of Bangladesh factory workers who fell sick in recent weeks could have been struck down by a mysterious illness described as a type of "mass hysteria". Garment workers at several factories fell sick with stomach pains and vomiting, leading officials to initially suspect contaminated drinking water at their workplaces as the cause. But doctors and microbiologists investigating the illness said they found nothing wrong with the water supplied at one of the factories where up to 600 workers fell ill earlier this month. The condition appears highly contagious -- as soon as one or two workers fall sick, others are immediately struck with similar symptoms.

Afghan Schoolgirls Mystery Sickness: Poison or Mass Hysteria?

July 6, 2012

http://www.thestar.com/news/world/2012/07/06/afghan_schoolgirls

Hundreds of schoolgirls have been wailing, vomiting and fainting in northern Afghanistan over the past few months. No one has died from the mysterious illness and most recover within a day or two. This is the fourth straight year the illness has afflicted Afghan girls in the northern provinces although there has been a dramatic spike in 2012 — 858 cases reported in the first five months alone compared to 119 last year. The provincial governments and Kabul say the girls are being poisoned by the Taliban, or Pakistani spies, because they are attending school — something that was forbidden during the Taliban rule in the 1990s. The radical group has denied any involvement. But the World Health Organization believes it has found the cause: mass hysteria, or, in medical parlance, mass psychogenic illness (MPI).

'Psychic Attack' at Japanese School Sends 18 to Hospital

June 29, 2013

<http://intellihub.com/2013/06/29/psychic-attack-at-japanese-school-sends-18-to-hospital/>

Last Wednesday at the well-known prep school Kamig?ri High in Hyogo, Japan, emergency services were called out and a reported 18 girls were taken to two separate hospitals after what was described as a bizarre, hour long "state of panic" during which dozens of teen girls began hyperventilating.

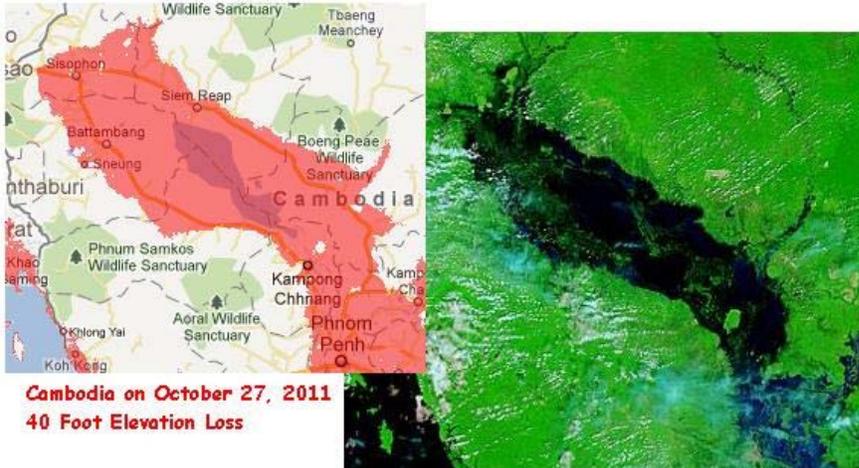

Per the Zetas, it is due primarily to the increasing Earth changes, which the establishment and media refuse to recognize.

ZetaTalk Insights 7/6/2013: Mass hysteria occurs where there is a combination of a stressful situation combined with social pressure not to react to the situation. There have been horrific fires among garment workers in Bangladesh recently. Being burned alive is extremely painful, for the short time the person is conscious, and this is well known. Who has not been burned at one point or another in their life, if only from a flying spark? The human instinct, as with any animal, is to flee, but the Bangladesh workers are told to remain calm and return to their jobs. Due to poverty they have no choice but to do so. The extreme anxiety they feel finds an outlet, which allows them to leave the workplace, if only temporarily.

In Afghanistan and Pakistan the Taliban are violently opposed to woman and girls becoming educated. A much publicized case involved a young girl, an activist, being shot in the neck, barely surviving, as she rode on the school bus. She survived (with the help of benign aliens) and was taken to the UK for treatment. How are young girls attending school then in Afghanistan to feel? At ease? Their animal instincts are to flee, but their desire to learn and become educated pushes them forward. They are encouraged by their parents and by society to attend school. Becoming sick gives them an out, in this conflict, so they can return home, if only temporarily.

In Japan children are under extreme pressure to achieve. The suicide rate is high among children, and adults die from stress, as is documented. In Japan, there is nowhere for a young girl to go, to escape the pressure which affects all society there. Hyperventilating is a reaction to stress, and indeed can cause one to faint. Will mass hysteria increase as the Earth changes increase? As long as the establishment attempts to keep the populace in their jobs and in their coastal homes, rather than moving to safety, this will certainly be on the rise.

Notably, the sinking of the Sunda Plate, with steady flooding denied by the establishment, has created mass hysteria in the populace. Cambodia was almost consumed in flooding in 2011, a matter the establishment casually dismissed as due merely to rain. Phuket is on the sinking edge of the Thailand/Malay peninsula, on the coastline. The children see the coastline disappearing, with no explanation from their governments except to blame the rains.

What's Causing 'Mass Faintings' at Cambodian Factories?

September 20, 2011

<http://www.time.com/time/world/article/0,8599,2093516,00.html>

In the past three months, at least 1,200 workers at seven garment and shoe factories have reported feeling dizzy, nauseated, exhausted or short of breath, and hundreds have been briefly hospitalized. No definitive explanation has yet been given for these so-called mass faintings.

22 Phuket Schoolkids in Mass Hysteria Outbreak

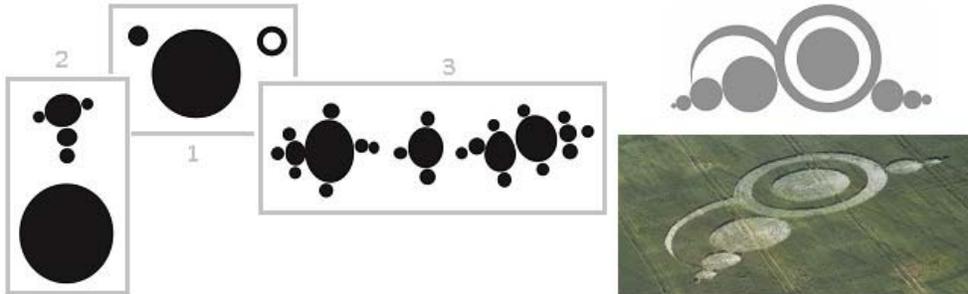

July 1, 2013

<http://www.thepuketnews.com/22-phuket-schoolkids-in-mass-hysteria-outbreak>

One boy and 21 girls had been affected. At the hospital staff calmed them down, though some of the more serious cases, suffering from anxiety, seizures, muscle spasms or hyperventilation, were given Valium to calm them down. After their outbreak of screaming there, they had to be taken to hospital in Phang Nga but all appeared to recover quite quickly.

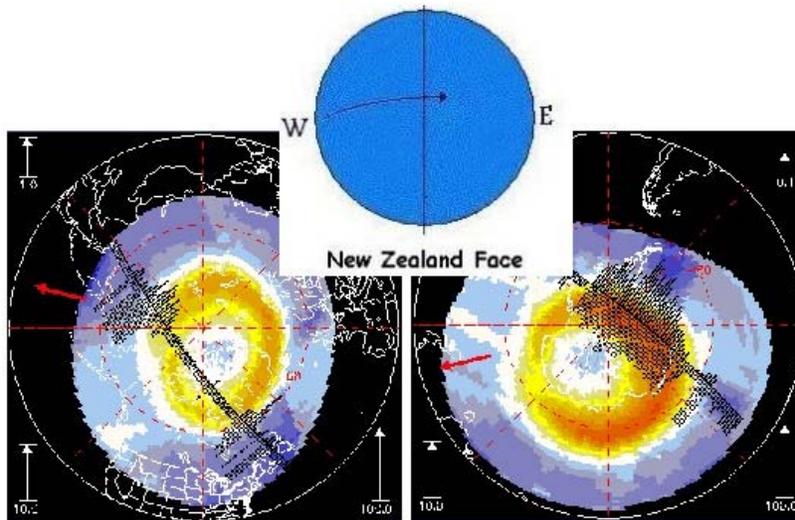

Wobble Focus

The field of Crop Circle designs has been so cluttered with hoaxes and makeovers that it seemed the legitimate circle makers had given up. But this year, in 2013, there were a couple that were obviously genuine - one in France, at Imling near Sarrebourg, laid on July 4, 2013 and another in Holland, laid on May 21, 2013 in three different locations. Per the Zetas, they were both wobble related.

ZetaTalk Analysis 7/13/2013: Both these crop circle designs are genuine and both depict the Earth wobble. In France, the design shows the Sun's magnetic field in the center. This is mirrored, in the vicinity of Earth, as Planet X comes closer, becoming more dominant as it is closer to the Earth. When Planet X is not present, only the Sun's magnetic field is dominant. For Holland, the 3 separate designs depict stages in the wobble. The first shows both the Earth and Planet X in their relative sizes. The second show the wobble developing. The third shows the contortions of the Earth wobble. One can almost feel the Figure 8 sway as the eye travels from left to right.

The wobble has gotten stronger the past few months. One keen eye'd Pole Shift ning member noted that the Auroras flux during the daily Earth wobble, and provided a video documenting this. The satellite images are taken from a NOAA site where they are provided to the public. The white map outlines are superimposed on the globe, so are not a precise indication of where these land masses lie, though they are a guide. The satellite goes over the polar regions, every few minutes, with the path indicated by a black line. Comparing images taken approximately every 6 hours during July 6, 2013, we can see that the Polar Push, where the N Pole of Planet X shoves the N Pole of Earth away, clearly shows the exposed S Pole aurora stronger while the N Pole aurora turns pale.

<http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/pmap/html/201307060056S18.html>

ZetaTalk Explanation 12/21/2007: Planet X has turned in place so that it is now pointing its N Pole out toward Earth. The wobble has consequently become more severe because the interaction between Planet X and the Earth is driven by a N Pole push. Each day, when the Earth's magnetic N Pole comes over the horizon so that it is facing the Sun and the bully magnet Planet X, the Earth receives a shove from Planet X, pushing her magnetic N Pole away.

When the Sun is over India or Italy, the Figure 8 wobble swinging from side to side, the auroras appear equal in strength.

<http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/pmap/html/201307061244N15.html>

During the bounce back, when the N Pole flings toward the Sun and Planet X in reaction to the prior Polar Push, the aurora over the N Pole appears stronger than the S Pole aurora.

White House Down

Obama has dealt with several assassination setups over the past few months, but what does this have to do with the focus of a couple 2013 movie releases? First, there were two episodes in March as outlined in Issue 342 of this newsletter. Obama's bullet-proof limo broke down in Israel when someone filled it with diesel instead of petrol (which would have forced Obama to change cars on the highway). And Obama's chef was not allowed to follow procedure at the Republican luncheon, wherein Obama's tableware would have been washed and the food preparation supervised by the chef. Per the Zetas, neither of these incidents were accidents. Then there was the suspicious fire in the West Wing of the White House in May, and repeated ricin laced letters delivered to the White House.

Media Evacuated from White House after Smoke Odor, Alarm

May 11, 2013

<http://www.politico.com/politico44/whiteboard/2013/5/>

An electrical transformer near the West Wing malfunctioned and set off a smoke alarm in the West Wing. The transformer problem was quickly resolved. Electricity and personnel access to the West Wing has returned to normal. The First Family was unaffected.

ZetaTalk Comment 5/18/2013: Is this matter as the press is reporting, merely a malfunctioning electrical transformer in a utility closet in the West Wing? It was a warning, to Obama. The cover-up crowd has notably attempted several assassination attempts against Obama, and there are more than the public has sensed. If threatening Obama himself has not canceled the planned announcement on the presence of Nibiru, aka Planet X, then the cover-up crowd is now threatening the family. The rigged wiring and timer will be traced and the perpetrators dealt with quietly, but none of this will affect the outcome of the announcement. If anything, these threats have made Obama grimly determined to proceed.

Then there was the oddly timed shootout in Santa Monica in June, when Obama was in California to meet with the Chinese President Xi. Per the Zetas, this was to create confusion, opening an opportunity for a sniper to strike Obama. Per the Zetas, a known homicidal mental patient had his medication switched and was bombarded by remote viewers, the type employed by the CIA. Coincidentally, the 2nd in command at the CIA abruptly retired after this incident, a man identified as the one who set Susan Rice up during the Bengasi brouhaha.

Gunman in California Killing Spree had Brush with Law
June 8, 2013

<http://www.reuters.com/article/2013/06/08/us-usa-shooting-california>

Obama had been attending a fundraising event at the Santa Monica home of former News Corp President Peter Chernin at about the time of the shooting and had just finished his remarks. He made no mention of the incident. Obama's departure from Los Angeles was rerouted to avoid the scene.

Santa Monica Shooting: New Details Emerge About Gunman
June 8, 2013

<http://www.hollywoodreporter.com/news/santa-monica-shooting-new-details-565028>

The suspect had been treated years ago in a mental health facility because he had talked about harming other people. Neighbors say they heard gunshots and saw the suspect emerge from the burning home. He hijacked a Mazda hatchback and ordered the car's driver to take him to Santa Monica College. He fired rounds with a semiautomatic weapon into the neighborhood, and on the way to the college fired at a city bus, shattering the bus' windows and injuring two passengers. He fired at a red Ford explorer, killing a man. The suspect proceeded to the Santa Monica College library, where he exchanged fire with police officers, fled, and shot a woman near the building's entrance.

ZetaTalk Revelation 6/15/2013: The gunman was known to have homicidal urges, having been hospitalized years prior. Where not a Manchurian Candidate programmed like a robot to follow instructions, he was bombarded by remote viewers who suggested to him that he go on a rampage and the nature of the rampage. Telepathy is a two way street, suggestions made as well as information gathered, and that emotions are sent and received as well. By creating a disruption in Santa Monica when Obama was in transit, the police force would be distracted, Obama rerouted or caught in the melee, the Secret Service suddenly switching plans, and the potential for a sniper to hit Obama thus made more likely. Remote viewing is a rare talent, with only dozens of individuals able to effect a person's emotional state to the degree the gunman was affected. They can be traced, and those responsible identified, and then those who ordered the melee can be identified.

Deputy CIA Director Michael Morell Retires
June 12, 2013

<http://www.politico.com/story/2013/06/michael-morell-cia-retirement-92671.html>

Morell, a 33-year CIA veteran, leaves a month after the White House released emails showing he was the one who removed al-Qaeda references from the much-debated talking points, which United Nations Ambassador Susan Rice later delivered on the Sunday talk shows.

What does all of this have to do with two recent 2013 releases – Olympus has Fallen and White House Down? Per the Zetas, where this appears to be a case of “life imitates art” the opposite it true, as the fact that Obama's enemies want to kill him is no secret.

Olympus has Fallen

http://www.rottentomatoes.com/m/olympus_has_fallen_2013/

When the White House (Secret Service Code: "Olympus") is captured by a terrorist mastermind and the President is kidnapped, disgraced former Presidential guard Mike Banning finds himself trapped within the building. As our national security team scrambles to respond, they are forced to rely on Banning's inside knowledge to help retake the White House, save the President and avert an even bigger crisis.

White House Down

http://www.fandango.com/whitehousedown_156653/moviereviews

The guys who take the White House include a right winger and a white supremacist, because according to the Hollywood those are kind of the same thing. At the end, the Republican politician turns out to be the villainous mastermind who did all this evil to be president and help his buddies in the defense industry.

ZetaTalk Comment 7/6/2013: It is just coincidence that Obama has had to dodge several assassination attempts this Spring, at a time when the release of two different movies with a White House Down theme occurred? This would almost seem to be a case of "Life Imitates Art". The real-life plots preceded the Hollywood release, but the mindset of Obama's enemies was no secret. The loss of the 2012 election was a bitter pill for the Republicans. Taking Obama out, under whatever ruse, is frequently muttered in some circles. All this preceded Obama's decision to admit the presence of Nibiru, aka Planet X, which only aggravated those intent upon seeing a change in the White House. Box office profits are often dependent upon what the public subconsciously senses is a real-life agenda. Thus the focus on a vulnerable White House being the target of the military-industrial complex, Israeli sympathizers, and NAZIs.
