

The ZetaTalk Newsletter

Issue 442, Sunday March 22, 2015

Weekly news and views from around the world and beyond.

New ZetaTalk

Earth Changes

Announcements

Signs of the Times

Mars Seas

In 1999, at the start of the ZetaTalk saga, the Zetas were asked about Mars, whether it had once or does now hold life. The Zetas went on record stating that Mars indeed had developed primitive life to the extent of supporting moss and bugs and worms, and had indeed held water sufficient to sustain an atmosphere. But the Annunaki sent the water underground while washing their Gold, and thus the atmosphere thinned to the point where the Annunaki could no longer live on its surface.

ZetaTalk Explanation 7/15/1995: Mars today is a dead planet, but in the recent past this was not the case. Some life bearing planets have a stronger footing than others, being closer to the warmth of a sun, for instance, and more particularly being a water planet like the Earth. Mars has little of that precious substance, and was a life bearing planet only where the freezing point had not trapped the water. The atmosphere surrounding a water planet can rebuild quickly, particularly in the components that support life. On a dry planet the atmosphere is fragile, and each rebuilding takes away more of the precious water. In the past, Mars sustained life to a level not unlike our home in Zeta Reticuli - moss and insects and worms. On such worlds there is not enough food in the food chain to support animals above that level, and setbacks occur repeatedly. A bug-eating reptile might get its start, only to die off during lean times, time and again. Thus such planets plateau.

Mars met its demise as a result of visitors from Planet X, who set up mining operations on Mars in preference to Earth where large carnivorous mammals roamed about in great numbers. Planet X has no such carnivores on land, and as large and muscular as these giant hominoid visitors are, they quaked at the thought. Where the atmosphere on Mars was thin, it was ample, so the visitors set about using what water resources they could muster to wash the ore they were after. In so doing they sought to control the run-off on the relatively flat surface of Mars, and did so in a thoughtless manner by directing waste water down a culvert. Thus precious water increasingly was sent underground, and a chain of events was set in motion that could not be reversed. The surface of Mars cooled as the atmosphere thinned, and the freezing surface accelerated this process.

NASA and the ESA admitted water on Mars in 2008, providing images of water washed gullies.

Incredible Pictures of Mars

July 16, 2008

<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/sciencetech/article-1035440/Incredible-pictures-Mars>

Ever since Victorian astronomers pointed their telescopes towards Mars and wrongly believed they had discovered canals, mankind has been obsessed by the red planet. Now these astonishing new images - captured by a European spacecraft in orbit around Mars - are helping to fuel that fascination. They show in astonishing detail a network of giant valleys, vast plains and towering waterfalls carved into the surface of our neighboring planet, millions of miles away. The latest images show the Echus Chasma, a vast valley just north of Mars equator around 62 miles long and six miles wide. The feature is cut into a high plateau and its steep-sided cliffs - some 12,000 feet high - bear a striking resemblance to the canyons of North America. Thunderous waterfalls may have once plunged over these cliffs, from the high Lunea Planum plateau that surrounds the Echus Chasma, on to the valley floor below.

Then increasingly NASA provided not only proof of water on Mars, but signs of the Annunaki on Mars in the past. In 2008 the NASA rover images also revealed an obvious stick of wood. By 2011 NASA was admitting that water on Mars occurred "in the past", adopting the ZetaTalk explanation that the water had been run underground. By 2012 the Mars rover images released showed a mouse on the run and the skull of a sheep or goat. In 2012 the Mars rover images released even revealed evidence of the Annunaki on Mars in the past – a toy doll with Annunaki head dress. By 2013 the rover images revealed desert hawks and gold dust on the sleuth paths used by the Annunaki in the past. And in 2014 major media was abuzz about a rock on Mars that apparently moved between photo shots. Per the Zetas, this was a mouse nest that had been dropped by a hawk. Then in 2015 we had an atmosphere plume in the media and now, scientific proof that Mars has vast seas, as large as the Arctic Ocean.

Mars Once had a Vast Ocean Covering One-Fifth of its Surface, New Research Suggests
March 5, 2015

<http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2015/03/05/mars-ancient-ocean-nasa-video>

New research suggests that the Red Planet was way wetter than scientists thought. In fact, it seems that large portions of the Martian surface were flooded under a vast ocean--and that seems to have increased the odds that Mars was once habitable. There were long-standing bodies of water: lakes, deltas and perhaps even seas. It seems to me that we have excellent evidence that Mars was once habitable, though whether it was ever inhabited is not clear. Mars must have lost an ocean's-worth of normal water, as the normal water would have evaporated into space while the heavy water would have been trapped in the planet's water cycle. The scientists estimate that the total volume of water on the planet was once roughly 6.5 times greater than the amount of water found in the polar ice caps today. The paper was published online March 5 in the journal Science.

Mars Once had more Water than the ARCTIC OCEAN - Enough for Life to Thrive on the Red Planet
March 6, 2015

<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/sciencetech/article-2981519/Mars-water-ARCTIC-OCEAN>

Scientists have provided the best estimates yet, claiming it once had more water than the Arctic Ocean - and the planet kept these oceans for more than 1.5 billion years. The findings suggest there was ample time and water for life on Mars to thrive, but over the last 3.7 billion years the red planet has lost 87 per cent of its water - leaving it barren and dry. It is thought that while 87 per cent of the water has since been lost to space, owing largely to the planet losing its atmosphere, the remaining 13 per cent resides in the ice caps. But in the past, the ocean would have covered about 20 per cent of the planet's surface area.

Strong Water Isotopic Anomalies in the Martian Atmosphere
March 5, 2015

<http://www.sciencemag.org/content/early/2015/03/04/science.aaa3630>

Our atmospheric maps indicate that water ice in the polar reservoirs is enriched in deuterium to at least 8 VSMOW, which would mean that early Mars (4.5 billion years ago) had a global equivalent water layer at least 137 meters deep.

Still unwilling to fully embrace the ZetaTalk explanation on where the water went, NASA et al are claiming the water must have simply evaporated into space. After billions of years, it suddenly decided to evaporate. Yeah sure. This is clearly Zetas Right Again! Come on, just admit it.

NASA Assassinations

How many people have died to seal their lips, keeping secrets the elite do not want revealed to the public? Per the Zetas – hundreds.

ZetaTalk Insight 3/7/2015: Working on projects that are either dealing with national security secrecy issues or under an ongoing cover-up has always been risky. The cover-up over the existence of Nibiru, its arrival in the inner solar system in 2003, and its pending passage has resulted over the years in the death of hundreds of astronomers or those who worked in the astronomy community. Hastings was killed to silence him on these matters. Those at the helm of the Global Warming fraud have murdered scientists likely to reveal the fraud.

NASA scientists are certainly aware of the cover-up over the alien presence and the approaching passage of Nibiru. How could they not? In that a number of Earth's billionaires (Elon Musk and Sir Richard Branson) are trying to fly to the Moon or Mars to evade the pending Pole Shift, and often working hand in hand with NASA on these privately funded projects, NASA scientists are certainly aware of the elite's attitude toward the common man. They, the elite, are privy to information on the pending passage, but the common man must remain ignorant as the elite do not want their messy panic. In late 2013 the savage stabbing death of Carol Ambruster, an astronomer likely to reveal this attitude on the part of NASA was, per the Zetas, a warning.

Retired Professor of Astronomy Carol Ambruster found Stabbed to Death in her Philadelphia Apartment
December 13, 2013

<http://www.sott.net/article/270243-Retired-professor-of-astronomy-Carol-Ambruster>

The Germantown apartment building where a retired Villanova University professor was found stabbed to death was not easily accessible to outsiders, suggesting that the woman might have known her killer: visitors had to use a call box at the main gate to contact tenants and that a tenant must come outside to the gate to let visitors in. The scene indicated that there had been a violent struggle. Blood was spattered in several rooms. Ambruster, a tenured professor in the department of astronomy and astrophysics at Villanova, retired in 2011, a university spokesman said. Her former colleagues said she was the author of about 80 published papers on astronomy. Ambruster worked often in her garden and refused to use chemical weed killers, preferring to spend the time to pull the weeds herself.

ZetaTalk Insight 12/21/2013: Was this an assassination? Yes. Clues to this as an agenda were left at the scene, so there can be no doubt in the minds of those it was to influence. Her field included cool stars or brown dwarfs, which is the category Planet X, aka Nibiru falls within. She was likely to be sought for comments after the announcement. Ambruster was a person of integrity, who complied with the cover-up over the presence of Planet X because it was covered under Reagan's Executive Order on the matter, a National Security Directive. But she knew more than the simple fact of the cover-up. She was aware of players in the game, who plotted to take advantage of the public's ignorance. When the public learned at the last minute (or so they hoped) that living on the coastlines would not be safe, there were billions to be gained by having land in safe locations and stocks of seeds and medicines in hand. The longer they could maintain the cover-up, the bigger the financial gains to be had. Ambruster was aware of people within NASA and associated circles that were joking about these issues, and they feared she would be too open on any interviews she granted or was enticed to give. Her brutal death, stabbed repeatedly while chased from room to room in a setting considered a gated and secure home, was to stand as a warning for others.

Now another highly suspect death has occurred, Alberto Behar, an experienced pilot, died in a small plane crash almost immediately after takeoff. Behar worked extensively on NASA and JPL projects for the past 23 years, on projects related to water on Mars, and would have been well versed in the billionaire's plans to go to Mars while leaving the common man behind on a devastated Earth. Per the Zetas, once again this was an assassination of someone who knew too much, and was deemed likely to blab.

NASA Scientist who Helped Prove there had once been Water on Mars Killed in Small Plane Crash
January 12, 2015

<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-2905123/Pilot-killed-small-plane-crash-NASA-scientist.html>

Alberto Behar, 47, of Scottsdale, Arizona, died instantly when his single-engine plane nosedived shortly after takeoff Friday from Van Nuys Airport. Behar worked for 23 years at JPL in Pasadena and also held a research professor post at Arizona State University. He worked on two Mars missions and spent years researching how robots work in harsh environments like volcanoes and underwater. The cause of the crash remains under investigation.

ZetaTalk Insight 3/7/2015: Certainly NASA is at the center of many secrets involved in extensive cover-ups. The reality of the alien presence and the reality of Nibiru and its pending passage are not the threat, as these issues are being disclosed at present or in the process of being disclosed. What the elite fear is that their personal plans to abandon the common man and escape to other worlds such as Mars or the Moon will be revealed. This is all disguised as the wealthy funding space exploration, but their motives will be obvious when the announcement occurs. NASA scientists have been involved in these discussions and plans, even promised safe passage if they participate. Instead, their cooperation only ensured their assassination.

7 of 10 Progress

Two years ago, on February 2, 2013 the Zetas described the progress of the 7 of 10 plate movement in percentages. The 7 of 10 plate movement had started a couple years ahead of that, at the start of 2011, but had been slowed and modulated by the Council of Worlds who were attempted to give Obama more time to inform the people of the world about the pending passage. This slowing is still in effect, but per the Zetas the foot cannot be on the brake for long.

ZetaTalk Percentages 2/2/2013: Where we are currently waiting for the 7 of 10 plate movements to complete, the stress on the plates is apparent. The sinking of the Sunda Plate and the folding of the Philippine and Mariana plates is approximately 70% complete, but the final moves will occur in conjunction with further progress on the S American roll. Though the cover-up has found it necessary to kill almost all the buoys on the Nazca and Cocos plates, the S American roll has barely begun, perhaps 13% of the overall changes expected. And the African roll is barely twitching, at present, perhaps 5% into the process. The chaos that has already been experienced is thus only a hint of what is to come.

Now the Zetas have provided an update.

ZetaTalk Percentages 3/7/2015: The sinking of the Sunda Plate is now perhaps 93% complete (up from 70% two years ago), with regions inundated by sea water still excused as broken dykes or levees or excessive rain. The populace has long been moved from those regions, or has learned to live in raised housing and switched from agriculture to fishing. Proper reporting on these trends has been brutally suppressed by the governments in the region. Australia likewise has brutally suppressed immigration, sending those attempting to land to New Guinea, where they have a Commonwealth arrangement. Social adjustments to the sinking of the Sunda Plate can thus be considered essentially complete.

The Pacific Plate has steadily compressed, with major quakes in Japan evident and the S American roll progressing to an estimated 27% at the current time (up from 13% two years ago). Since the USGS has downgraded earthquakes by almost 2 magnitude points, the true impact on lands along the spine of the Andes is not evident, and any loss of elevation in the Caribbean is denied. Flooding in Trinidad, which will be torn apart, is evident, however. The African roll has barely started, now at an estimated 12% (up from 5% two years ago), with the strongest indication of progress above the Mediterranean where support of the Eurasian Plate is lost by the roll, though a new lake developed in Tunisia.

The N American Plate is under extreme bow stress, as booms and flashes and crevasses demonstrate. Significant quakes, where US cities along the New Madrid fault line are shattered, have not started but this will start within this year. That this is related to the approaching Nibiru passage will be denied, with the usual pointing to the past as evidence that these things happen periodically. At present, the New Madrid adjustment is perhaps at only 2%, but as the 7 of 10 movements will accelerate, this will now rapidly change. As we have stated, any tsunami striking Europe will be vastly reduced by the slowed pace of the New Madrid adjustment.

In 2012 James Cameron went down to see for himself that the Mariana Trench was closing, as reported by the Zetas. Now we have another of the elite taking a peek, but needing an excuse. Billionaire Paul Allen went sniffing around the Philippine Islands looking for a sunken ship.

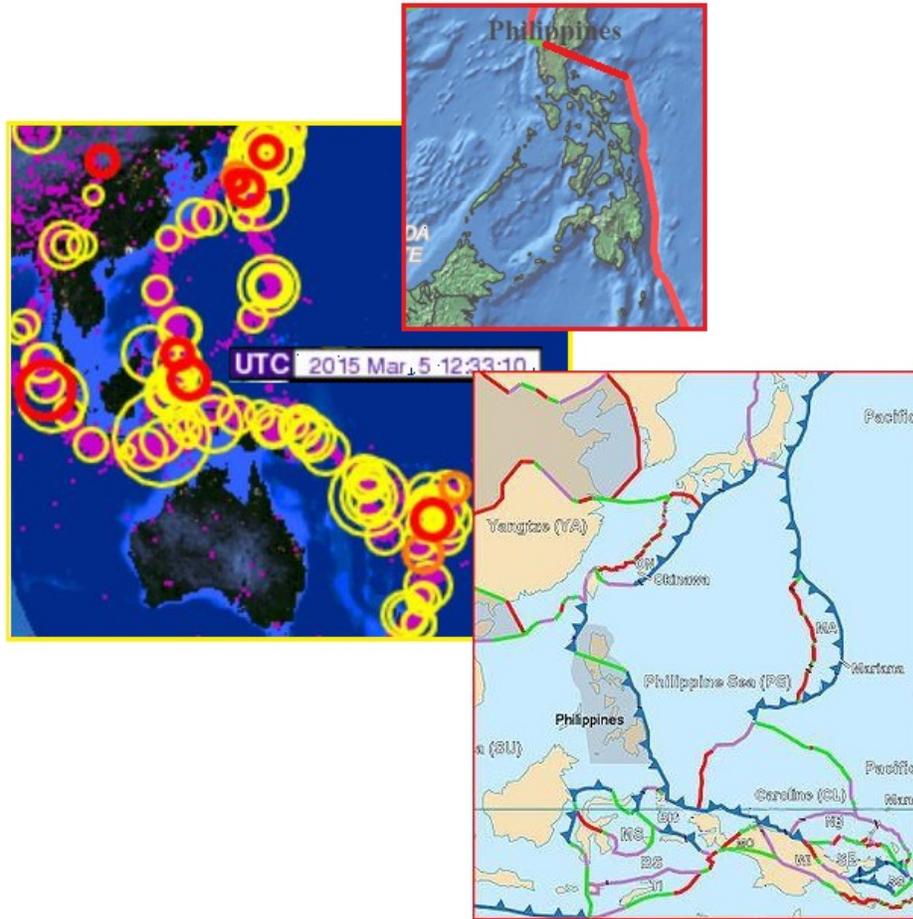

Microsoft Billionaire finds Wreck of Legendary Japanese Battleship Musashi

March 4, 2015

<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-2978855/Legendary-Japanese-battleship>

For Seattle-born Allen, 62, who founded Microsoft with Bill Gates in 1975, the discovery of the Musashi is a thrilling moment. Allen, the 51st richest person in the world with a net worth of $17.5 billion, according to Forbes Magazine, is known for his love of history - and also his generosity with the Octopus to help other exploration missions. Director James Cameron has used it, for a seven-hour solo journey to the earth's deepest point back in 2012. The American is also working on a project called Stratolaunch, which aims to put 'cost-effective' cargo and manned missions into space. He launched SpaceShipOne, the first privately built craft into suborbital space in 2004.

ZetaTalk Percentages 3/7/2015: Was multi-billionaire Paul Allen really on a hunt to find the Musashi, a World War II Japanese boat sunk in the Philippines? Hardly. Is he Japanese? Is there any doubt where it went down? Is Allen part of the ultra-wealthy looking to escape the Earth during the forthcoming Pole Shift? Clearly. James Cameron's dive to the bottom of the Mariana Trench resulted in ZetaTalk commentary, as it came after the much publicized ZetaTalk 7 of 10 predictions that the trench would be closing up during the Mariana and Philippine Plate folding. Cameron's dive ended abruptly, cut short by hours, as it was indeed not as deep as expected.

What was Paul Allen seeking, in the deep amidst the Philippine islands? As the Philippine Plate tilts, only the northern half of the northmost island, Luzon, is pushed down by the tilt. The rest of the Philippines lie on the Sunda Plate, and are in fact rumped upward and toward the west during the Philippine Plate tilt as they ride atop the Philippine Plate as it shoves under the plate border. If Cameron went to check on the Mariana Plate tilt, Allen has gone to check on the Philippine Plate tilt, as it is clear from earthquake charts that this region is being battered. On the excuse of looking for an old sunken ship, the submarine could cruise all around, and did so extensively.

O'Reilly's Lies

Unless Fox News disciplines Bill O'Reilly the way NBC did Brian Williams, after clear evidence that these talk show hosts had regularly confabulated their personal history, then we can only assume that Fox News agrees with the perception that news in the form of a lie is OK. In other words, they should change their name from Fox News to Fox Lies. O'Reilly has published a book called the No Spin Zone, and purports to be reporting the news. Neither appears to be true.

Bill O'Reilly

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bill\_O%27Reilly\_%28political\_commentator%29

After Harvard, he was hired by Roger Ailes, chairman and CEO of the then startup Fox News Channel, to anchor The O'Reilly Report in October 1996. O'Reilly's life and career have not been without controversy. Progressive media watchdog organizations such as Media Matters and Fairness and Accuracy in Reporting have criticized O'Reilly's reporting on a variety of issues, accusing him of distorting facts and using misleading or erroneous statistics. A November 2008 poll by Zogby International found that O'Reilly was the second most trusted news personality, after Rush Limbaugh.

O'Reilly has been accused of lying for years, and is known for being a bully, continually interrupting his guests. After the Brian Williams exposes, O'Reilly's many lies became a focus of the media. But unlike Williams, who apologized and unlike NBC which suspended Williams for 6 months without pay, Fox News and O'Reilly have done neither.

Bill O'Reilly's Cavalcade of Lies: a Handy (and Graphic) Collection of the Damage So Far
March 3, 2015

<http://www.dailykos.com/story/2015/03/03/1368156/-Bill-O-Reilly-s-Cavalcade-Of-Lies>

ONE: O'Reilly's claim to have been "on the ground in active war zones" during the Falkland Islands war with the United Kingdom. TWO: O'Reilly also claimed to have been outside the Florida home of George de Mohrenschildt where he said that he heard the shotgun blast that marked his suicide. THREE: On another occasion, O'Reilly told a story about how he "saw nuns get shot in the back of the head" in El Salvador. FOUR: O'Reilly spoke of his visit to Northern Ireland. While there he claimed to have witnessed bombings, however, when challenged Fox News issued a statement similar to the one about El Salvador that said he had merely seen pictures. FIVE: O'Reilly was covering the riots in Los Angeles sparked by the acquittal of the police officers who beat Rodney King. He claimed to have been the target of attacks by rioters, however, his associates covering the story deny that any of them were assaulted or injured.

Bill Maher: Bill O'Reilly is a 'Blatant, Bald-Ass Liar'

March 7, 2015

<http://www.ringoffireradio.com/2015/03/bill-maher-bill-oreilly-is-a-blatant-bald-ass-liar/>

Bill O'Reilly is caught in his lies but why isn't the mainstream (supposed 'Liberal') media going after him with the same ferocity that they have attacked Brian Williams. After all, Maher says, it's obvious that O'Reilly is not a journalist and nothing more than a 'blatant, bald-ass liar'.

---