Council of Worlds Wins

The Zetas have recently stated that the war against the elite who were blocking Obama's announcement admitting the presence of and pending passage of Nibiru had been won, with the announcement now back on the schedule. But given the devious and gaspingly greedy nature of the elite, can they be trusted to stick with the bargain, or might they backslide and regress? One visible part of the war has been the elites plan to escape to and ride out the Pole Shift on Mars. A recent firm reminder that they will not be allowed to escape occurred when Elon Musk's latest shuttle to the ISS blew up. The Space X shuttle had been repeatedly successful, so this was a surprise, and per the Zetas was making a firm statement.

ZetaTalk Insight 7/4/2015: Space X has had success in resupplying the ISS, though has floundered on landing on a floating ocean platform. Resupply of the ISS is OK, reuse of their launch equipment so as to help the elite escape, not OK. The message now is that the elite should not expect to get into space at all. No escape. The message here is to take all hope away from such plans among the elite. They are to remain on Earth with the common man, and to the degree that they block the common man from preparing for survival with strong survival camps, they damage their own chances of survival.

But the really dramatic message to the elite, showcasing the strength and reach of the Council of Worlds, occurred days later on July 8, 2015 when China's stock market was closed to prevent a plunge, the New York Stock Exchange closed for hours, the Wall Street Journal website was unable to function, and United had to ground all their planes worldwide. All this on the same day.

China Stock Market Crash

July 7, 2015

<http://www.vox.com/2015/7/7/8910293/china-stock-market-crash>

More than 1,400 companies — representing a majority of all companies traded on the mainland's two major exchanges — have halted trading in an effort to stop the previous days' slide. The amount of officially sanctioned margin trading in the Chinese stock market ballooned from 403 billion yuan to 2.2 trillion yuan. Experts estimated that another 2 trillion yuan or so of borrowed money has flowed into the markets using vehicles designed to skirt official limits on margin trading. The government cracked down on vehicles designed to skirt the margin trading rules in April. The government's toughest measures came on June 12, when China's securities regulator announced a new limit on the total amount of margin lending stock brokers could do, while also reiterating the curbs on illicit margin trading. The stock market has been in freefall ever since.

NYSE, WSJ and United Down: Coincidence?

July 8, 2015

<http://www.techzone360.com/topics/techzone/articles/2015/07/08/>

The New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) suspended trading today at 11:32am ET due to a "technology glitch". Investors can still perform trades, just not on the NYSE. Around the same time as the NYSE shutdown, the Wall Street Journal began experiencing technical issues. When attempting to access WSJ.com, the Wall Street Journal Homepage, resulted in a 504 message. The third incident from today was an apparent "automation glitch" that caused United Airlines to ground flights for an hour. The International Business Times has reported the Wall Street Journal outage was due to slow server activity in processing HTTP requests. The 504 error that visitors were receiving was a result. United Airlines blames its grounded flights on what it calls a "router malfunction."

Automation Problem led to Ground Stop for United Airlines

July 8, 2015

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/local/trafficandcommuting/faa-says-all-united-airlines-flights>

Stranded passengers are probably wondering why United had to ask the Federal Aviation Administration to abruptly ground all its planes at 8 am and kept them grounded until 9:49 am - an almost two-hour delay that grounded 4,900 flights worldwide and caused big delays in United hubs in Chicago, Denver and Houston. The airline said a router malfunction was to blame, but it wouldn't elaborate.

While the simultaneous downtime raised eyebrows, what was even more intriguing was that Anonymous had warned this would happen just the night before – on 10:45 pm on July 7. Per the Zetas, none of this was a coincidence, and it was all at the hand of the Council of Worlds. Just don't get cocky, is the message to the elite, and try to regress.

Has Anonymous Hacked the New York Stock Exchange?

July 8, 2015

<http://www.mirror.co.uk/news/technology-science/technology/anonymous-hacked>

A malevolent tweet from the hacker collective Anonymous seems to hint at something more sinister. "Wonder if tomorrow is going to be bad for Wall Street.... we can only hope." 10:45 PM - 7 Jul 2015

NYSE Resumes Floor Trading after more than 3-Hour Halt

July 8, 2015

<http://www.cnn.com/id/102806720>

Homeland Security Secretary Jeh Johnson noted the glitch that caused the trading halt and an earlier computer problem that grounded United Airlines flights appeared unrelated. On Tuesday, hacker group Anonymous tweeted a suspicious statement about potential problems on Wall Street. Separately on Wednesday, The Wall Street Journal website experienced an apparent outage that was resolved by roughly 1 pm ET.

ZetaTalk Comment 7/11/2015: China is considered the world's strongest economy at present, and its newly affluent citizens are doing more than buying cars and electronics. They are playing the stock market. In a country not familiar with capitalist gambling markets, China is still establishing controls. Its recent bursting bubble, wherein their stock market lost 30% within weeks, is a learning curve and not a fatal blow. Such market crashes are familiar to the West, from the 1929 crash to the more recent 2008 housing bubble crash on Wall Street. Was the shutdown of the NYSE a reaction, a protective maneuver known as Plunge Protection? Yes, despite claims that it was a computer crash. Panic trading is stopped in these instances.

What raised eyebrows was the apparent nexus in timing for other outages. United Airlines halted all flights earlier in the day for two hours, claiming a computer glitch. The Wall Street Journal crashed, simultaneous to the NYSE down time, reportedly due to the rush of the public to read the latest during the market closures. If a DDOS attack can disable a server, certainly a rush by the public can create delayed service, but is there more to this story? Amid all this was a tweet from Anonymous suggesting on July 7 that Wall Street will have a bad day on July 8, which then resulted.

Though seemingly separate issues, these well publicized outages not only have a common nexus, they were caused by the same hand. As we stated after the elite caused Obama to miss his October 20, 2014 date for the announcement, the Council of Worlds has gone to war with the elite. We have stated that this war has been won and the announcement will now proceed, but given the nature of the Service-to-Self individuals prevalent among the elite, they are being given some last minute reminders on just who won this war. They should not expect to recoup or rally. The sudden demise of a Space X shuttle to the ISS, after many successes, was such a reminder to Elon Musk and his cronies.

China is a partner during Obama's announcement, but the China stock market was clearly headed for an adjustment, and thus the timing of the Council's warning. Speculators in China will be reined in sharply by China, unlike the criminals on Wall Street who were never really disciplined after the Wall Street crash in 2008. Margin traders in China, hedge funds on Wall Street, deceptive derivative packages by mortgage bundlers, and the hallmark symbols of these crimes the NYSE and the Wall Street Journal. Anonymous of course is a human working closely with the Council on these matters.

What did the down time for United Airlines have to do with this sharp warning to Wall Street and wealthy speculators worldwide? The United downtime occurred the same day, but earlier in the day. The elite, who dearly want to prevent Obama from making his announcement, rely on modern day electronics to enhance their wealth. Beyond being able to make transactions around the world in a blink of an eye, the symbol of their elevation to the status of gods, in their eyes, is air travel. They can cross borders, evade prosecution, go to pleasant climates, and no one can stop them. Please note, this can be stopped with a wink of the Council's eye.

Pluto as Space Port

Recently the Zetas have confirmed that Comet 67P was emitting radio signals because it had a space port. It came under NASA attention because of these radio signals, and thus the Rosetta probe was sent to make contact. The Zetas explained that the port was a Service-to-Self alien port, as Service-to-Self aliens visiting Earth in 3rd density are not allowed to switch back to 4th density as they do this poorly. Something akin to the mess depicted in the movie The Fly results. The Service-to-Self don't do teamwork well.

ZetaTalk Confirmation 11/22/2014: 67P was chosen because radio and other signals had indeed been traced coming from 67P, signs of intelligent alien life. Rosetta was sent forth as an exploratory probe, to make contact with aliens that might be amenable to saving the elite, as their prior arrangements with Service-to-Self aliens to be taken to the Moon or to Mars were being ignored. As can be seen from abandoned space ports in Antarctica, the dome shaped cap next to a cavern can remain long after the port is inactive. That the landing has suffered mishaps is yet another message to the elite. You will not escape the Earth during the forthcoming cataclysms.

The Zetas also confirmed that the asteroid Ceres had light cities which were space ports and residences of aliens in the Service-to-Self.

ZetaTalk Confirmation 2/28/2015: The mystery of the lights on Ceres, which are indeed indicative of an alien space base, will not be resolved, as the public will never be told the truth. As with the Rosetta asteroid radio signals, where the public was only provided air brushed images so the space port was not discernable, the images and evidence provided by the Dawn probe will be altered and withheld. Why then are teasers provided to the public? There is ambivalence about fully admitting the alien presence, and also a desire to brag. Space programs are always under threat of being underfunded, and providing teasers ensures enthusiasm in the public, or so the thinking goes. Contact with this space port on Ceres would not be allowed, the Dawn probe meeting with an accident if this were attempted. Whatever the eventual excuse provided for the lights, it will not include the truth.

Now the New Horizon's probe, sent ostensibly to take a close look at Pluto and its moon Charon, has run into trouble. Per the Zetas, New Horizon has run into radio signals, which discombobulated the probe as it communicates with NASA back on Earth via radio signals. Oops, another planetary body within the solar system housing Service-to-Self aliens!

NASA Engineers Assess Glitch aboard Pluto-Bound Probe

July 4, 2015

<http://www.cbsnews.com/news/engineers-assess-glitch-aboard-pluto-bound-probe/>

NASA's New Horizons probe, nine-and-a-half years outbound from Earth and less than two weeks from a historic flyby of Pluto, went into protective safe mode Saturday afternoon after experiencing an on-board anomaly, the space agency reported. The spacecraft's autopilot, as programmed, switched over to a redundant flight computer and began transmitting telemetry to Earth to help engineers troubleshoot the problem. An anomaly team was assembled to analyze the glitch but given the probe's enormous distance -- it takes radio signals nine hours to make a round trip -- it likely will take "one to several days" to restore normal operations. NASA said the anomaly team was working to return New Horizons to its original flight plan. New Horizons is expected to pass within 7,750 miles of Pluto on the morning of July 14. Following a pre-programmed sequence of commands that were uploaded last week, the spacecraft will aim itself and its instruments at Pluto and its large moon Charon for the first close-up looks at the distant worlds. Because of it takes radio signals four hours and 25 minutes to cross the 3-billion-mile gulf, real-time commanding is not possible and New Horizons must carry out its observations autonomously.

ZetaTalk Confirmation 7/4/2015: *Almost a decade into its journey, the New Horizons probe is faltering. Why? Poised to make a close pass to peek at Pluto, the probe's mission seems innocuous enough. If comet Rosetta housed an alien base that operated via radio signals, and the Ceres asteroid contains several well lit space ports, might Pluto likewise be home to aliens in the Service-to-Self? The Service-to-Self are forced to remain in 3rd density by their masters, as they do not do teamwork well and something akin to the movie The Fly occurs at times. Visitors from the Service-to-Other are adroit and slip into 4th density between work stints.*

If radio signals are used by these aliens in the Service-to-Self, and if NASA's New Horizons probe uses radio signals for communication with NASA back on Earth, is this an inherent conflict? Why would it not be? New Horizons is receiving radio signals from more than one source. Signals from an alien base on Pluto confused New Horizons, and the likelihood of NASA getting through to their probe without static and interference is slim. They might manage to fix New Horizons, only to find it quickly discombobulated again.

The Zetas have declined questions about what kind of aliens are living at these space ports. What do they look like, and whom are they visiting on Earth? The reason is that to detail these Service-to-Self visitors and their lifestyle and agenda would be to engage, to start an engagement, which is how aliens above 3rd density interact, by the rules. This takes time and energy, which the Service-to-Other Zetas supporting ZetaTalk feel is best spent elsewhere.

Jamaica Sinking

The S American roll is progressing, a point made on July 3, 2015 when the sea rolled inland in Jamaica and the Caribbean Plate was peppered with quakes along its western border, as can be seen from the July 8, 2015 IRIS earthquake chart. The Shearer Heights area of Jamaica is on the southern coast of Jamaica, which rides on the northern edge of the Caribbean Plate. Per the Zetas, it will experience a tilt during the 7 of 10 plate movements, the S American roll. The northern side may rise slightly, but the southern side will lose elevation, which is what is happening in Jamaica! Zetas RightAgain!

Sea floods Rocky Point Community

<http://jamaica-gleaner.com/article/news/20150703/photos-sea-floods-rocky-point>

Residents in Rocky Point, Clarendon, are now on edge as water from the sea has flooded the community. This morning residents woke up to flooded streets and yards as high tides caused huge volumes of water to flood the entire Shearer Heights area. She said the drains are flooded and the situation is getting worse each day. The affected residents said they have been experiencing the effects of this high tide for the last six weeks and fisher folk have been unable to venture out to sea.

ZetaTalk Prediction 1/15/2010: The hump of the S American Plate intrudes into the Caribbean, and as it moves to the west it will push the Caribbean Plate above Colombia down forcefully. The larger islands along the northern part of the Caribbean Plate could be assumed to gain elevation except that the entire Caribbean Plate is losing, overall. Thus the southern shores of these larger islands will experience some elevation loss, where beaches may emerge on the northern shores.

Nepal quake reaction in Japan and the Philippines. Atlantic is pulling apart, land off Europe and East Coast drooping as evidence below waves shows. Caribbean sinking too, roads under the waves, as S America rolls west pushing Caribbean down. Land bridge to Australia sinking too, due to push under India plate. Widening Atlantic allows Africa to roll too, sinking Mediterranean and Red Sea and causing African Rift Valley. N America as flat top plate cannot roll so diagonal pull causes New Madrid and Seaway rips.

The Zeta Report 67, June 13, 2015 on YouTube - In 1997 ZetaTalk provided coordinates, RA and Dec in the sky, for the inbound Nibiru complex. Nibiru was tracked along this path from 2001 to 2003, and now is found on Google Sky at the very RA and Dec predicted 18 years ago! Zetas RIGHT again!

The Zeta Report 68, June 15, 2015 on YouTube - In 2008 the Google Sky black box was blocking Nibiru at Declination -6, where it equated to the Zeta predicted coordinates. And that ZetaTalk predicted this path in 1997 is true. But any video on the Internet claiming Nibiru at Declination +22 is a fraud.

The Zeta Report 69, June 16, 2015 on YouTube - By tracking Nibiru according to the Zeta coordinates, it was located in 2001, 2002, and 2003 precisely where predicted. No surprise that Google Sky showed it also, along the predicted path. Zetas right again!
