Small Planes Crashing

During a 5 day period from June 8-13, 2016 the portion of the N American continent most affected by the bow stress was afflicted by numerous small plane crashes. The bowing of the N American continent pulls the Aleutian Islands toward the tip of Mexico, with the center of the bow near San Diego. Thus, in a swath across the center of the US, small planes were suddenly crashing, with no warning, with no communications from the cockpit in most cases, a clear sign they were afflicted by Electro-Magnetic-Pulse. This onslaught showed up on the Global Incident Map for aviation.

One of the most publicized incidents was the spinning crash of a small plane in Houston on June 9. The pilot reportedly made repeated attempts to land the plane, aborting each time due to his lack of control over the planet. It appears the pilot had also lost communications. Then in a final fatal spin, the plane crashed, killing all on board. The plane had flown from Oklahoma to Houston, crashing at its destination.

Plane Spins, Drops from the Sky

NTSB: Pilot Tried to Land 3 times before Houston Plane Crash

June 10, 2016

<http://www.cbsnews.com/news/ntsb-pilot-trying-to-land-for-3rd-time>The pilot of a plane that crashed near a Houston airport halted a third attempt to land just before it plummeted to the ground, killing all three inside. It's unclear whether the pilot made a distress call just before the crash that happened. The plane was in a flat spin before it plummeted to the ground nose-first.

Not a day later near Hawthorne, California, a small plane dove into an apartment complex. No distress signal had been relayed, no communications whatsoever. Unless the pilot had a heart attack, the clear answer is yet another incident of Electro-Magnetic-Pulse disabling the electronics on the plane.

Cessna Plane Crashes into Apartments in Hawthorne, California; 2 Dead

Hawthorne Municipal Airport is less than two miles from the crash site. The Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board will investigate the crash.*

2 Dead After Plane Crashes Into Townhouse Complex Near Hawthorne Airport

June 11, 2016

<http://ktla.com/2016/06/10/light-plane-crashes-into-residential-building-near-hawthorne>The plane went down around 5:12 p.m. in the 4600 block of W. Broadway killing two people on board. The aircraft slammed into two townhouses in the complex. The aircraft, described as a Grumman American AA-1B, crashed two miles west of the airport under unknown circumstances.

Other incidents include a crash near Batesville, Indiana on June 8 which was blamed on an unexplained "mechanical problem". Investigation ongoing. Another on June 10 crashed into May Lake near Bismark, N Dakota which is being blamed on the youth of the pilot. Investigation here also ongoing. Then on June 11 the pace picked up with a crash in Santa Rosa, California where the plane ended upside down in a field. The aircraft had reportedly been making "odd sounds" and the pilot, who survived, was having problems with the throttle. Another near Collegedale, Tennessee during a failed landing. Apparently, there were no communications and no survivors.

Pilot Airlifted to Hospital after Small Plane Crashes near Batesville Airport
June 8, 2016

<http://fox59.com/2016/06/08/pilot-airlifted-to-hospital-after-small-plane-crashes>

The crash occurred near Three Mile Road and Enochsburg Road around 11:45 am. An initial investigation determined that the plane was a homemade ultralight single person aircraft. The pilot took off from the airport and soon experienced a mechanical problem. The aircraft then went down in a heavily wooded area not far from the airport. The investigation into the crash is ongoing.

Small Plane with Young Pilot Crashes, Killing all Onboard

Personnel from the Bennett Valley Fire Department could hear a plane flying low in the area making an odd sound around 10 a.m. A short time later, the department received a report of a small plane crash in a vineyard near 6500 Jamison Road. Emergency responders arrived on the scene to find the biplane aircraft upside down in the vineyard. The pilot had been flying in the area when he realized there was a problem with the plane's throttle, causing the aircraft to idle.

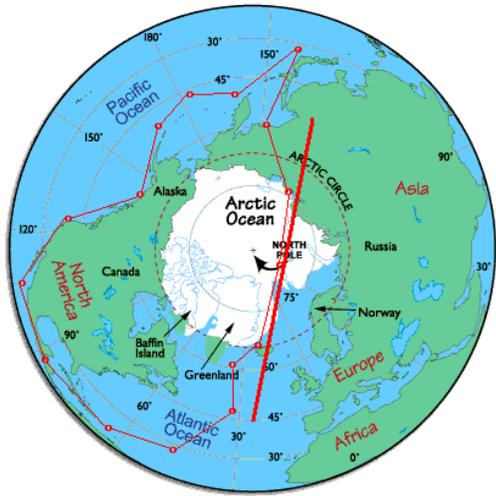

Official says 2 People Dead in Plane Crash in Tennessee

June 11, 2016

A single-engine plane crashed around 12:50 p.m. at the Collegedale airport. The plane was coming into the Collegedale airport when it crashed. She said she did not if anyone else outside the plane was injured or if there was property damaged in the crash. Collegedale is a city about 20 miles east of Chattanooga.

What's causing this increase in Electro-Magnetic-Pulse (EMP) on the N American continent? The N American continent is a flat top, unable to roll, and thus as the Atlantic expands and the Pacific shortens, Mexico pulled to the west, there is unrelieved diagonal stress on the N American continent. This is resolved when the New Madrid rips open, but until this occurs the rock is screaming. Compression in the rock squeezes air out of pockets in the rock, allowing electricity to rise unimpeded through the rock layers and arc to the charged tail of Nibiru. Booms are back with a fury in 2016, and dramatic blackouts occurred along the East Coast in 2015 as did a derailed Amtrak train in Philly.

ZetaTalk Prediction 2/10/2006: The giant plates of N America and Eurasia are locked against each other, unable to rotate against each other due to their shape. But the primary drama preceding the pole shift will be the ripping action that a plate unable to move must endure.

ZetaTalk Prediction 1/10/2015: We have consistently warned that electro-magnetic pulse, the arcing from the electronic screech in compressed rock to the charged tail of Planet X, will be on the increase. This brings down the grid, as surge and brownout destroy electronic infrastructure and electronic grids are designed to protect themselves thus. Blackouts, electronically damaged airplanes, and interference with mankind's satellites will be on the increase.

ZetaTalk Prediction 5/28/2016: We have stressed that airplane travel will get increasingly risky, due to EMP which is already taking planes down in dramatic fashion.

Bilderberg 2016

What changes have occurred during this past year, to affect the focus of the Bilderberg attendees? A year ago, in Bilderberg 2015, the focus was on the failing western banking system and the threat of immigration and riots.

ZetaTalk Report 7/13/2015: It is clear that the banking system is increasingly shaky, the west's IMF ability to strangle the world via debt is also disappearing. Control of rioting and secure borders – these are the focus.

Exclusive: Bilderberg Planning to Trigger Financial Collapse
June 10, 2016

<http://www.infowars.com/exclusive-bilderberg-planning-to-trigger-financial-collapse/>

For the second time in the space of ten years, the powerful Bilderberg group is plotting to trigger a financial collapse, with elitists already positioning themselves to profit from the next economic meltdown. As we reported back in 2006 during the Bilderberg Group's meeting in Ottawa, Canada, leaked information from an American delegate revealed that insiders were preparing for the housing bubble to burst and a global market crash. Over the course of the next two years, that exact scenario played out, culminating in the collapse of Lehman Brothers and a worldwide recession.

Bilderberg 2016: US Election and Refugees top of Agenda at Secret Invite-Only Conference
June 11, 2016

<https://www.rt.com/news/346253-bilderberg-conference-2016-germany/>

Often cited as "evidence" is Bill Clinton's attendance at the 1991 conference as a largely unknown governor from the small state of Arkansas a year before he became president of the United States. Hillary Clinton's chief adviser Jim Messina stopped by last year, just in time for a gig as head of the Democratic Party super PAC Priorities USA. More than a dozen attendees this year have close financial ties to both Clintons.

Does Bilderberg Really Run the World? One Chart to Help You Decide
June 11, 2016

<http://www.zerohedge.com/news/2016-06-10/does-bilderberg-really-run>

Here is a chart laying out the linkages and various connections - financial, political, statutory and otherwise - between the handful of people who comprise the Bilderberg core and the rest of the world.

ZetaTalk Report 6/18/2016: In the year that has passed since Bilderberg 2015 the elite have been grieving over the slow rolling announcement on Nibiru's existence - the multi-prong'd press releases ongoing since January, 2016. Any hope of preventing this has vanished, though they are still loading the media with disinformation as to the causes of the Earth wobble (an ice-free N Pole) and sinking land along the Southeast coast of the US (mantle erosion). They hope to delay the connection between Nibiru's approach and the obvious appearance of a wobble and weather extremes and the earthquake increase since 2003. They hope the public will be confused.

Meanwhile, the western banking systems are rapidly collapsing. Wall Street is pumped high, as it was going into the 2008 housing bubble collapse, and savvy Hedge Fund owner Soros is again betting on another collapse. General Dunford, at the helm in the US, has over this past year assumed full control of the US Federal Reserve, confiscating huge amounts of illicit funds kept there via double bookkeeping, and the Panama Papers has resulted in confiscation of funds being laundered in Europe and the Caribbean and South America.

Where the 1% are not yet collecting food stamps and standing in soup kitchen lines, many frankly fear this will in essence be the end result. Poverty is relative, and for the elite to find themselves in the middle class is a devastation. Where the elite attending Bilderberg are primarily allied with the West, the strength of the West seems to be shaky, from NATO's stand against Russia to Erdogan's ambitions to the brutality of ISIS while trying to take over the Middle East and even Europe. They fear the Euro will collapse, European alliances be dismissed, and a need to bow and scrape to China and Russia in the near future.

Where the Bilderberg consider themselves to be in control of the world, the Bilderberg 2016 conference has this group frantic as the reins of power keep slipping through their fingers. A Bush or Clinton was supposed to ascend to the White House, so that war profiteering and Wall Street fraud could continue, but now Bush is firmly out of the picture and Clinton seems likely to be challenged by Dunford on her many self-serving crimes as Secretary of State. Public corruption and failing to protect national secrets will hardly get her elected by the people. How to make a deal with Trump, the deal master, is thus much under discussion.

Suburban Gardens

Suburban lawns are noted for their acres of green grass, stretching forever. At a minimum all this grass could feed herds of sheep or goats, which could provide milk and cheese and meat, but the lawns just enslave suburban households into their weekly chore of mowing. Fleetfarming has an alternative. Turn those urban and suburban lawns into gardens. Fleetfarming stresses growing vegies for sale locally, and reducing the carbon footprint further by sending out fleets of gardeners via bicycle. What Fleetfarming would call grow-pedal-sell the Zetas might call grow-teach-barter. Start your gardens, encourage your neighbors and share seed, and barter your produce for whatever else you might need.

Florida Lawns are being Transformed into Edible Farms

Gary Henderson can eat his lawn.

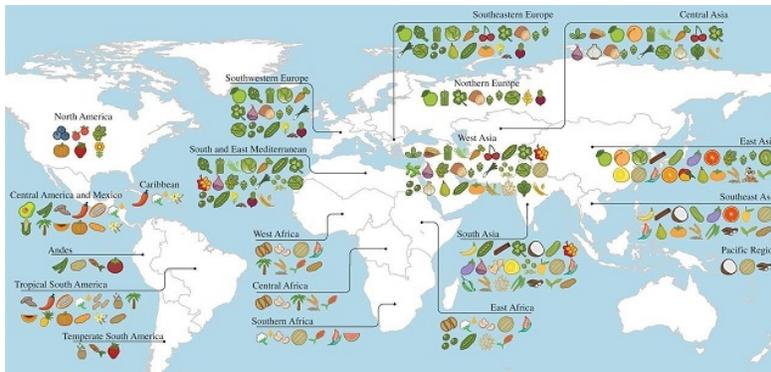

Row upon neat row of tomatoes, carrots, sweet lettuce and arugula are growing in the front yard of his home in Orlando, Florida. Volunteers regularly visit his home to maintain his bountiful vegetable garden. Henderson can keep a portion of whatever grows there for free. The rest is sold at local markets and 100 percent of those sales go back into the organization, covering the costs of such needs as irrigation, compost and seeds. It's estimated that the average American meal travels about 1,500 miles to get from farm to plate, according to the Center for Urban Education about Sustainable Agriculture.

Grow Food, Not Lawns!

<http://fleetfarming.com/>

Fleet Farming strives to reduce the environmental impact of food production through a pedal-powered, hyperlocal urban farming model that creates a culture of health and vibrant ecosystems by: teaching an intergenerational fleet of volunteers how to grow their own food, activating and re-engaging the community through biweekly Swarm Rides, and creating a breathe free and biodiverse environment through emissions-free, organic farming.

Fleetfarming points to a National Public Radio article showing how far our food travels. Food distribution is a global affair. Not only is this expensive, increasing the price of food, it also burns fuel. None of this will be available in the Aftertime. Fuel will be unavailable after the Pole Shift where wells and refineries and distribution lines will explode and be consumed in fires. Roads will be torn up and train tracks will zig and zag, and any cars not tossed about by the earthquakes will lack fuel in any case. Food grown locally will be the only choice!

A Map of Where your Food Originated may Surprise You

June 13, 2016

<http://www.npr.org/sections/thesalt/2016/06/13/481586649/a-map-of-where-your-food-originated>

More than two-thirds of the crops that underpin national diets originally came from somewhere else — often far away. And that trend has accelerated over the past 50 years.

From the start of the ZetaTalk saga, the Zetas have been encouraging local gardens. Urban gardens, such as the urban gardens Growing Power in Milwaukee achieved, are possible as is container gardening on every porch. When earthworms are allowed to feed on green compost, they create nutrient rich soil. And the earthworms themselves are very nutritious, 82% protein. These steps should have been taken by city and suburban residents yesterday! Don't wait!

ZetaTalk Warning 7/15/1995: As we described earlier, going into the cataclysms the weather will become unpredictable, with torrential rainstorms where not expected, and droughts likewise where not expected. Where today the world balances these situations, shipping produce around the world, during the years coming close to the time of the reappearance of Planet X, all parts of the world will experience extremes. Backyard gardens, tendered carefully by watchful eyes, will survive. But the large cash crops that supply crowded population centers will find little to market, and the prices will go up accordingly. At first, stores put up against such times will be tapped. After a bit, these stores will run down, and governments will get nervous. Helping handouts, from countries better off to those in desperation, will stop. Those groups who have prepared, and are relying on themselves and their own carefully tended gardens, will not find themselves pinched between starvation and hostilities. Fortunately, the easiest produce to grow is that most economical as foodstuffs. Humans have but to return to their recent past and relearn these lessons.

Chickens and Goats have long been espoused in our newsletter. Combined with gardens that can provide calories and lysine rich vegies, this is self sufficiency. One can eat bugs for protein and fat and weeds for calories and even get all your vitamins from bugs and weeds. Or one can step up a notch to domestication. One can eat bugs or the chickens can eat bugs and provide eggs and meat. One can eat weeds or the goats can eat weeds and provide milk and cheese and meat. The Gates Foundation agrees. A family that raises chickens has something to barter.

Keep Chickens if you want a Better Life, Billionaire Bill Gates tells Poor People
June 9, 2016

<https://www.thesun.co.uk/news/1256098/keep-chickens-if-you-want-a-better>

You'd be forgiven for thinking it's fowl play for him to be dishing out financial advice to the poor people of the world. But Gates has decided to tell people living in extreme poverty that the solution to their woes lies in raising chickens. Gates is worth a whopping $76.6 billion and earns an estimated $20 million every single day. The Gates Foundation, a charity run by Bill and his wife, has launched a drive to help 30 per cent of people in rural sub-Saharan Africa keep hens and roosters.

Why I Would Raise Chickens

June 7, 2016

<https://www.gatesnotes.com/Development/Why-I-Would-Raise-Chickens>

Through my work with the foundation, I've met many people in poor countries who raise chickens, and I have learned a lot about the ins and outs of owning these birds. It's pretty clear to me that just about anyone who's living in extreme poverty is better off if they have chickens.

ZetaTalk Prediction 12/15/2001: We predict that long before the shift, a barter system will be replacing the current paper money system. The value of the dollar, in all countries, will be falling, such that in any transaction one or both parties will feel they are getting a fair deal only if a thing, not a representation, is given or received. This is a common practice in countries where the dollar is falling, and a natural migration as the thought occurs readily to mankind, the barter system being recent in their cultural evolution. What will this mean for the common man, and what will it mean for the rich? The common man will find they are pleased with themselves if they have had the foresight to secure goods of value, such as seeds or tools or dried food. The value of appliances that are dead and not able to run, even of cars unable to run over broken roads, will be zero. The value of items that can increase worth, such as a needle and thread which can repair clothing otherwise worthless, or a shovel that can create a garden otherwise a weed patch, will balloon. The rich will of course whine endlessly. If you are an accountant, and cannot translate this skill into becoming a tailor or herdsman or cook, your skill is useless!
