Clicking on the icons below will explore those offerings within Troubled Times that encompass high tech solutions. Those who have the finances or know-how might prepare for the coming pole shift with the goal of retaining a high tech life style. They have protected their technology so that it, too, survived the cataclysms, and are prepared to rig replacement parts when needed. Due to windmills or hydroelectric generators, the lights are on. Communication with other high tech groups is in place via radio or Internet via dishes setup on hill tops. Garden's include hydroponics and are intensive. Sewage is treated and recycled into gardens or fish ponds. The high tech survival group may or may not have domesticated animals, but they will probably include aquaculture as a protein source. Medical treatment may be assisted by an Aftertime Internet, with questions posed to remote doctors and dentists. Homeless survivors or those in settlements may move up to become high tech with assistance from high tech groups, who can disseminate know-how and act as a model.

Troubled Times

Troubled Times believes that a world-wide cataclysm, of massive proportions, will strike the Earth in 2003 or shortly thereafter. The cause of this natural event will be a monster planet, known to the ancients but as yet undiscovered by modern man, which will pass very near the earth as part of its normal 3,600 year orbit around the sun.

■ The ancient's called this monster the 12th Planet, and as this magnetic giant passes by, it will force our North and South Poles to rotate 90 degrees. The shifting poles will drag the Earth's crust with them, ultimately producing a new global map in a matter of hours in a massive cataclysm affecting all life on earth. These events have occurred before, as ancient legends and Prophecies fortell, creating what man interprets to be ice ages, wandering poles and the flood, and have resulted in the extinction of the Mastodon and the sinking of Atlantis.

■ Mankind survived these past cataclysms, some because they were lucky, and others because they foresaw events and took precautions. To prepare for this event, Troubled Times, a volunteer organization, was formed. The Troubled Times mission is to place into the public record a set of solutions for survival into the next century, solutions that are affordable, attainable, and which will produce a healthy lifestyle in the Aftertime. These solutions can be found radiating from The Hub of Troubled Times, which is icon driven to help the public rapidly locate information.

■ Those who wish to join this volunteer organization have but to check out the current ongoing teamwork and join the Membership to enter into the stream of activity and offer their contributions. Where ZetaTalk supports the operation of Troubled Times, the two are separate entities, as is the Nonprofit organization, Troubled Times, Inc. Original works within Troubled Times are owned by the individual contributors, who have granted Troubled Times the right to make this information available to the public. Of interest to people throughout the world, Troubled Times has several Mirror Sites.

■ Lack of preparation for the cataclysms may be worse than fatal, it may leave you and those you care about injured, hungry, frightened, and with no recourse or end in sight!

■ About to Change

The earth's warming trend, stemming from her core, will be noticed and is a general topic of conversation. This is when you should prepare for self sufficiency in a safe location.

■ Prepare for

A few years prior to the cataclysms, a period of crop shortages will be so severe that alternative food production needs to be begun and practiced in earnest. This is when you should become practiced at self sufficiency.

Change

Too late to Change

The earth's rotation will slow within days and stop for several days just prior to the pole shift. This is when you and your loved ones should be situated at your safe location.

Clicking on the icons below will explore those offerings within Troubled Times that address surviving the coming pole shift. Surviving the pole shift is a concern everyone shares, regardless of their Aftertime preparations. Whether aspiring to a high tech lifestyle or simply being able to survive by living off the land, all will be faced with protecting themselves and their loved ones from earthquakes, tidal waves, high winds, and the potential of a firestorm dropping from the skies. All will want to know of a safe location. All will likewise be faced with treating injuries or psychological reactions and dealing with such issues as polluted drinking water immediately after the pole shift. Surviving the shift is a concern all share.

Clicking on the icons below will explore those offerings within Troubled Times that encompass being homeless. People in many countries are accustomed to being rescued after a disaster. Their government, or the Red Cross, or their neighbors eventually arrive. After a pole shift affecting the entire world, governments and agencies will themselves be disorganized and nonfunctional, and neighbors distracted with their own problems. Thus those unprepared for the coming cataclysms may find themselves homeless and roving about. They will likely be living off the land and carry only a few items. They may be forced to drink from streams or eat food raw if they can't start a fire. The topics discussed in this homeless section might apply to anyone, as those who prepared may run into problems, and those living in settlements may have to travel on occasion.

Troubled Times

Clicking on the icons below will explore those offerings within Troubled Times that encompass settlement living. Those who prepare for the coming pole shift will most likely find themselves faced with setting up gardens and temporary homes after the cataclysms, from seed stocks and items like lumber and concrete they have set aside at a survival site. Temporarily they will be living off food stocks, but eventually gardens will be in place and drinking water distilled or boiled. Many settlements will have domesticated animals, or be eating fish, worms, or insect larva as a source of protein. Schools of some type will be operating. Settlements may be forced to be their own doctor or dentist. The settlement may have electricity, but this may be faulty and limited such as from a bike generator. The settlement may have short wave radio communications with other settlements, perhaps powered by crank-up electronics. Those who plan a high tech lifestyle in the Aftertime will use many settlement solutions as a base, or may be forced to fall back into a settlement life style.

Clicking on the icons below will explore those offerings within Troubled Times that present scientific data. Pole Shifts have occurred in the past on a regular basis, referred to as wandering poles or ice ages. The cause of these magnetic, geological and climate changes are the subject of speculation. Evidence that magnetic north and south have pointed in different directions are ascribed to parallel changes in the Sun, the Earth's master. Evidence that wrenching cataclysms occur in 3,600 year cycles, as recently as 3,600 years ago during the Jewish Exodus when the oceans worldwide also dropped an average of 16 to 20 feet, is ignored, as it does not fit any scientific model. Evidence of crustal shifting, where polar land was clearly at one time tropical, is speculated to be caused by ice heavy poles, ignoring the greater weight of the equatorial land masses. Scientific data exists as evidence of past pole shifts and points to the pending pole shift.

Troubled Times

IRC

There was a perpetual Troubled Times IRC channels, #troubled_times, which was robot controlled. The rule was to notify others when coming into the chat, with a simple "hello". This channel is no longer in use, see notice below.

For those interested in IRC, a windows IRC client (mIRC) can be found here, and a Macintosh IRC client can be found here. Contact the Troubled Times IRC Coordinator for assistance.

Note: the #troubled_times channel was from its inception plagued with perpetual debunkers lurking, waiting for newcomers. Newcomers could anticipate being told that there is no Planet X, that it is a fraud, and that other web sites should be visited (these will be willingly provided) and other spokespersons should be considered the experts on all matters. Remember, the Troubled Times message, which is based on facts and geological history, is considered a threat by the establishment. If you wish to meet the snarling opposition to this message, join #troubled_times.

Welcome to Troubled Times, Inc.

Troubled Times, Inc. is a public benefit Nonprofit Corporation dedicated to educating the public on the likelihood of the pending pole shift, solutions on how to deal with such a cataclysm, and solutions for life afterwards.
