

ZetaTalk: Last Weeks Countdown

written August 14, 2010

9 day Severe Wobble

4.5 days static Lean to the Left

2.5 days progression toward 3 Days of Darkness.

3 Days of Darkness

6 days of Sunrise West

18 day of Slowing Rotation

6 (5.9) days of Rotation Stoppage

What starts the process of the last weeks, with all their extreme gyrations, is a threshold being crossed. The dithering we have been describing - where Planet X, the Earth and the other planets caught in the cup (Dark Twin and Venus) are all bouncing around, reacting to movement in another, to crowding of magnetons or other particles - reaches an explosive point. During this time Planet X moves to the right as far as possible, to evade the ever increasing particle crowding, but is still outbound, steadily. Thus, visibility is enhanced, and Second Sun sightings are common. This is the start of the 7.3 week period we described, where it would be unmistakably visible to all on Earth. Venus escapes the cup. The Dark Twin escapes the cup. And the dance of many becomes a deadlock grip by Planet X on the Earth. It is no longer an issue of the Earth wobble or temporary leans to the left of into opposition sufficing. This is twitching about, compared to the last weeks. If the years and months of the Earth wobble were the wrestlers positioning themselves at the edge of the mat, then the last weeks are full contact, and neither can let go of the other. In this, of course, Planet X wins.

When Venus and the Dark Twin escape from the cup, the particle crowding is suddenly eased, allowing Planet X to come forward toward the Earth. The Earth's first evasion is to tilt her N Pole away from the oncoming Planet X to such a degree, and so violently, that she leans all the way over to the left and then rebounds as a reaction all the way to the right. This is the severe wobble, for a length of 9 days, as a recent crop circle has depicted. Finally, the rebound is repressed, for a lingering lean to the left of 4.5 days or so. Then a progression where the N Pole of Earth is pushed away from the Sun and the approaching Planet X, until the point where 3 days of darkness is unmistakable. This progression is another 2-3 days in time. Then the 3 days of darkness and the 6 days of sunrise west, which is a momentum and turnaround for the swing into the 3 days of darkness.

Then the Earth rights herself, side by side with Planet X, and begins her rotation slowdown. It is during this time that the Earth is drawn toward Planet X, so that Planet X quickly increases in size in the skies and is the writhing monster of legend. Slowing rotation is not a linear matter, but exponential as the Earth is pulled closer to Planet X. The Earth moans, groans, and complains as the core pulls at the crust but the crust is gripped, increasingly, and held by Planet X. The slowing is a lurching matter too, as when the Atlantic Rift is exposed, the grip slows the rotation, but when hidden, rotation tries to return. All this causes earthquakes and stretch zone accidents. Emergency management teams are beyond exhaustion, government services are in disarray, and travel has become almost impossible.

The last weeks include, counting backwards, a week of rotation stoppage, some weeks of rotation slowing, 6 days of sunrise west, 3 days of darkness, a lean to the left, and a severe wobble.

ZetaTalk: January 12, 2008

We have previously stated that the Planet X complex would be seen in the skies, undeniably, 7 weeks before the shift. Nancy has computed the whole sequence

During the last weeks, the Earth changes from being in an end-to-end alignment with Planet X to being in a side-by-side alignment. It is during the end-to-end alignment, when Planet X is pointing its N Pole directly at the Earth, that the lean to the left and 3 days of darkness occur.

But as Planet X continues in its retrograde orbit, its N Pole is no longer coming from the right, but is located to the left of the Earth, and the Earth to be approximately 7 weeks, and this is accurate enough.

ZetaTalk: March 22, 2008

We have stated that Planet X will be visible to all some 7.3 weeks before passage.

ZetaTalk: February 20, 2010

We have not put a time period, a day or week length, to this severe wobble but here you are given it - 9 days.

ZetaTalk: July 31, 2010

adjusts by slinging its N Pole to the right. Thus, during the 6 days of sunrise west, the Earth still has its N Pole tipped away from the Sun and the approaching Planet X, but rather than a lean to the left, it has a lean to the right.

It is at this point that the Earth switches from being in an end-to-end alignment to being in a side-by-side alignment with Planet X. When Planet X is just at the Ecliptic, it stands upright in alignment with the Sun. As it switches from pointing its N Pole at Earth the Earth follows suit.

ZetaTalk: September 12, 2009

LAST TRIMESTER - PLANET X VISIBLE

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
SEVERE WOBBLE - 9 DAYS
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
		STATIC LEAN TO LEFT - 4.5 DAYS				2.5 DAY
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
PROGRESSION		3 DAYS OF DARKNESS			6 DAYS OF SUNRISE WEST
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
			SLOWING ROTATION - 18 DAYS
29	30	31	32	33	34	35
36	37	38	39	40	41	42
43	44	45	46	47	48	49
		STOPPED ROTATION - 6 DAYS
50 POLE SHIFT	AFTERTIME

Source: <http://poleshift.ning.com/forum/topics/last-trimester-event-timeline>

ZetaTalk Chat Q&A for July 31, 2010

New interesting crop circles in Czechia. It will be useful to hear any comments from Zetas about this formations.

<http://www.cropcircleconnector.com/inter2010/czech/radejov2010a.html>

<http://cropcircle-archive.com/archive/index.php?>

Radejov,
South Moravia

Radejov, Vysocina

Both these crop circles have different meanings. The first, in South Moravia, indicates by the black and white flipping a rapid change. This crop circle is describing the severe wobble that precedes the static lean to the left. We have not put a time period, a day or week length, to this severe wobble but here you are given it - 9 days. The Egyptians described this time as the Earth "spinning round like a Potter's Wheel", meaning flopping from side to side. It finally flops to the left and there stays until the N Pole of Earth moves away into the 3 days of darkness. For those looking to pin down the time frame during the last weeks, this is another piece of the puzzle.

Vysocina is showing a series of eclipses, where one planetary body eclipses another. The first, in the central circle, shows the size of Planet X as a Second Sun seen from the northern hemisphere as the Earth and Planet X draw closer. The radiance of the Sun is eclipsed by this. What lies behind represents an earlier stage, when Planet X is less visible in the line of sight as viewed from Earth.

My basic Q is how the Zetas and Nancy's bluntness and courageous honesty has impacted human cultures, particularly contactees and ZT readers? I think this was briefly mentioned in the Cultural Exchange writeup (and perhaps its been addressed in more detail but I cannot find it in ZT and do not readily recall), but I feel it is pertinent particularly now with the poleshift looming. Are a lot of people, STO-leaning or STO, seeing Nancy and Zetas example of being blunt and honest rather than sugar coating (like Sylvia Brown, for example) and seeing that it is more effective in approaching not just the poleshift but life in general? I would hope those fostering the cover-up who have a conscience takes this example to heart. I realize this influence is probably more apparent in the STO or STO-leaning, but they will (hopefully) be the leaders in the aftertime and I hope the Zetas and Nancy's inspiration prevails among the STO-leaning in the Aftertime when hard split second decisions will have to be made.

Also, I realize that the Zetas were chosen to be so involved with humans due to a similarity in physiological background and hemoglobin blood type, and some similarities that are concurrent with mammalian culture (the tendency to destroy our world when given the power in 3rd density). But I was thinking about how much of a well fit the Zetas blunt and honest approach is given the unusual human brain tendency (unusual in terms of lifeforms throughout the universe) to be able to repress information and deny and escape reality. No offense to any other STO E.T. cultures, but I couldn't imagine one that is more prone to sugar coating things and avoiding uncomfortable realities being in the role that the Zetas are in. Was this compatibility a big component in the Council of World's allowance of the Zetas as having the role they have in Earth at this time?

Man has dual brains, the conscious which is selective in what it wants to remember and can repress emotions, and the subconscious which remembers and is aware of all. This is not true of lifeforms elsewhere in the Universe, and is the exception in the extreme. We, the Zetas, do not have this duality. Man can fool himself as to his motives, deny and ignore reality, or twist reality into a version that makes him feel comfortable. Thus, man can see the Earth changes and pretend what he saw does not exist, can see the Moon in a part of the sky far outside of where the Moon travels, and simply dismiss this from his mind. When we speak to mankind through ZetaTalk, we are speaking to the subconscious of man, the part of the brain that does not repress or forget or twist facts. We are speaking to the whole man, his whole essence, and not a surface cover that only allows certain facts to be on the table. We work well with Nancy because she also has this approach, and does not play games with reality. She has faced the hard facts and determined that she wants to help the innocents who will be hit the hardest by the cover-up and by mankind's tendency to deny the unpleasant. This takes courage, which she has in almost boundless amounts. Would we like to see survivors take this approach, in setting their priorities in the Aftertime? Absolutely.

Did the failure this week of DARPA's Falcon HTV-2 experimental space plane have anything to do with potentially dangerous tail elements or properties of Planet X interacting with earth's atmosphere? Along with the recent worldwide news about earth's atmosphere suffering an unexplainable collapse, are these signs of an increasing push and interaction of the tail elements and properties of Planet X? [and from another] <http://www.washingtontimes.com/news/2010/jul/22/test-vehicles-flameout-may-end-space-weapon-plan/> Plane's Flameout May End Space Weapon Plan [Jul 22] In the language of Beltway defense wonkery, the results of this year's test launch of the hypersonic unmanned U.S. aircraft designated Falcon HTV-2 might be called sub-optimal. In plain English, it appears certain that the experimental space plane - a key element of U.S. efforts to develop a conventional weapon that can strike anywhere in the world in less than an hour - disintegrated and burned up in the upper atmosphere in a failure that casts a question mark over the program's future. Contact with the Falcon was lost about nine minutes into the half-hour flight on April 20. The test flight was a part of a research program involving two Falcon vehicles, the second of which was slated for launch early next year before April's failure. [and from another] <http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/38270609/> Earth Atmosphere Collapse Puzzles Scientists - A recent contraction of the thermosphere was the most intense in 43 years

Why did the April 23, 2010 launch of the Falcon HTV-2 appear to burn up? Certainly NASA and the Pentagon are familiar with the high atmosphere environment, as the Shuttle passes through this on its way to the ISS, and back. There was nothing wrong with their plans, nor was there anything in the upper atmosphere they were unaware of. The difference between the ISS and the Falcon HTV-2 is intent. The ISS is ostensibly viewing Earth and sharing this data, doing scientific experiments and with international cooperation. The Falcon HTV-2 is to provide the US military the ability to intimidate anyone, anywhere, in the world. They would rule, and none could stand up to them. The Council of Worlds would not allow this, as it disrupts the balance between Service-to-Self and Service-to-Other on Earth, and thus allowed an interference. The test flight was shot down, in short, as will all future such endeavors from those who would be kings in the Aftertime.

I took this picture while camping is it what I think it is?

Note this recent photo underwent extensive examination to determine if it was a PhotoShot job, and it was determined it was not. Digital images are encoded, and if worked in an application such as PhotoShot include a color palette. There is other evidence, such as dissonance in the pixels, when changes to dpi are done, for instance. Here are the comments made during this analysis, and the examination results provided. Below is the enhanced version, which invariably shows doctored and does not, and the 4-bit conversion, likewise sailing through as an undoctored photo:

Don (Analyst 2) "Jezz, you didn't take this with a digital camera, did you? I too noticed, after Waveguide (Analyst 1) pointed it out, that it references Adobe Photoshop C3..... and no camera name, model #, etc. Also, it's saved at 72 dpi, which indicates it probably was not shot with a digital. The 10-day time frame would account for developing the film and then scanning it. Am I right? I do know that some folks might look askance at the info in "Properties", as Waveguide points out." [and from another] Jezz

(Photographer) The photo was taken with a non digital 15 year old 35mm camera. I took them to drugstore developer to be made into a disc. My husband uploaded it for me, I have no idea how to that. He said he ran the pics through photo shop to reduce them in size, red eye reduction and what not. Does that help any?" [and from another] Morris (Analyst 3) "This analysis has converted the photo to 4-bit and shows the consistency of the photo."

This is a genuine capture of Planet X on film, in the Monster Sun category. This is absolutely captured on film, as occurred in 2003, and is also visible naked eye.

According to ZT Safe Locations about Nevada (href="http://www.zetatalk.com/inf/tinfx047.htm"), NV's climate will be the same after the PS. Also on a ZT Deserts page (../poleshft/p154.htm) arrows are pointing to Nevada being closer to the equator. Is Nevada to be more 'tropical' or a 'dry desert area' like the African Sahara of sand and wasteland? Planning for seed growth in the After-time, will tropical plants flourish in Northern Nevada, or will more desert succulents like Prickly Pear Cactus and the like grow better? Grains and weeds will likely flourish whatever climate Nevada has afterward because that's what grows there now? If rain will fall everywhere after the PS, what will a Nevada 'desert' be like with rain falling on the desert constantly for cultivating plants? I am speaking about the timeframe of when rain falls to when it becomes a full-out desert area again like it is now.

The Deserts diagram, showing prevailing westerlies curling around in keeping with the Coriolis effect, does not indicate that the high deserts of Nevada or Arizona will have rain. Rather it shows that when these winds pass over the vast flooded expanse of what is now northern Canada they will provide rain for the lands in the Midwest, including Nebraska and Kansas. We have stated that the deserts of Mexico will eventually bloom, as they will get new moisture coming directly off the Pacific. But Nevada has the blockage of the high Sierras to prevent this, as they do today, so will continue as today to be a high desert.

Planet X for a long time already is between the Earth and the Sun. Orbit of PX is extended elliptic, now it is close to perigee. Means PX has the maximum kinetic energy accordingly the maximum speed. Why it yet has not reached the Earth? Why it moves slowly? Repulsion Force? What Zetas can tell about it?

Planet X has a sling orbit, orbiting two foci instead of one as all the other planets in your solar system do. It set upon this sling orbit from the start, when your solar system and the nearby regions came out of the last Big Bang. Where it does have some of the characteristics of a comet, slinging in and then past the Sun and then outbound, this is where the similarities end. Man computes the trajectory of the tiny dirty snowballs that whisk past the Sun periodically, picking up speed as they approach the Sun and being held away from the Sun only because of the solar wind. The dynamics are completely different for Planet X. It is massive, a heavy planet 23 times the mass of Earth, where the dirty snowballs are a nat. Being heavy, it invokes the Repulsion Force which keeps planets from smashing into each other and from going into the Sun. Being massive it also has an intense gravity attraction to the Sun, zooms in at a speed far greater than the dirty snowballs, even approaching the speed of light in early 2003, and then putting on the brakes in a manner dirty snowballs simply do not exhibit. It thus creeps past the Sun, due to this gravity/anti-gravity play that the Repulsion Force represents. Thus man cannot compute the trajectory of Planet X, nor its speed, nor the twists and turns that it will make as it proceeds. Only ZetaTalk has been able to give the establishment any clues to this, by our descriptions and predictions. It is for this reason that ZetaTalk is de rigor reading for those assigned to make predictions for their masters in the establishment, as they hope to increase their accuracy.

Two new CCs in England, Wiltshire. Reported 25th July. Any comments of the Zetas, if there is something considerable?

<http://www.cropcircleconnector.com/2010/whitehorse/whitehorse2010a.html> The similar anchor CC has been commented by the Zetas in a chat on June, 26th. Any new message has appeared?

If the Anchor crop circle was showing the Planet X complex as it retreats, White Horse is showing it as it approaches. The minor Moon Swirls that composed the tail of the Anchor are very distant and hardly visible. The two main Moon Swirls will be seen on either side, flaring back. And the crowding of magnetic particles in front of Planet X as it points its N Pole toward the Earth is shown, so that Planet X itself is almost repulsed by this crowding, pushed back in this cloud of magnetons, so is moving slowly!

When it comes to disclosure about aliens, the Z's have said that the ppl they are worried about are those who would "assault" the contactee. How would these ppl react should the govt disclose that aliens exist or release their (U.S.) UFO files, revealing convincing evidence? Or if an increase in UFO sightings and there on significant media coverage took place?

If sudden disclosure occurs, as you describe, where the US government releases evidence of the alien presence and/or admits the alien presence is real and/or that contact with aliens has occurred and the rumors about MJ12 are true, there would be little damage to contactees. It is the situation where there is a gray area, so that those who fear or resent the alien presence can feel justified in attacking those who claim they are contactees - banned from the church community because they are talking to demons, fired from the job or refused promotions because they might be mentally unstable, divorced from a spouse who does not want the children drawn into a controversy. But if full disclosure occurs, to the degree that those who would punish a contactee no longer have their rationale or reason to fear association with the contactee, then little punishment potential remains. The church may still try to ban a member, or a spouse may still want a less contentious partner, but being fired or passed over for promotion will likely stop, and trying to protect the children is likely to be a thing of the past. In fact, those who have had real contact and have inferred this in the past may become very popular for awhile!

I was wondering if the Zeta's could give a summary on the proceedings around the world at the moment, the wonderful people here on the ning have been providing details on specific events in their areas as they occur but it would also be good to have a voice bring these events together and explain them as there is probably a lot happening that we are only guessing about or have overlooked certain details on or don't know what questions to ask.

A summary of proceedings around the world could include the Earth changes, where we have inferred a 7 of 10 would arrive by the end of 2010. Rising from a 2-3 at the start of 2008 and arriving at a 5 by the end of 2008, this scale is clearly not linear. We are currently at a 6 and our statement is that a 7 of 10 would "shock the world" and be unmistakable. Such a move on the scale would involve either a roll of the S American Plate to press islands in the Caribbean down, or do likewise with the Indonesia tongue to press Sumatra and Java and the Malaysia peninsula down, or rip the New Madrid fault line. We have declined to say which of these events would occur first, or when, but can only say that at least one of them will occur before the end of 2010.

Meanwhile, the Earth is in a daily wobble which involves pushing the magnetic N pole of Earth away daily when it comes up over the horizon. This wobble has been complicated lately by an occasional and temporary lean to the left or lean into opposition. So the N Pole of Earth has also been pointing away from Planet X to the left or toward Planet X on occasion. All of this makes where the Sun rises and sets very erratic, so extremes are noted. This trend is not going to change or go away, though other variations on the wobble may emerge. About this we can say no more as we prefer to keep the establishment discombobulated. All this dither has on occasion placed Planet X into an optimal position to be viewed as the Second Sun.

Meanwhile, back at the cover-up, panic is rising. The favored excuses to explain the Earth changes the public is increasingly becoming aware of have failed. Global Warming was discredited when it was revealed that the data was cherry picked, by none other than the UN spokesperson. Al Gore is in hiding. The fond hope that the Sun would progress to a solar maximum so that solar activity could be touted as the cause of electromagnetic disturbances has died as the Sun refuses to wake up. The hope of blaming increasing earthquakes and shifting ground on solar activity is hopelessly dashed. As an object next to the Sun, evident to everyone, becomes a real possibility, they can only plan a quick dash to their bunkers or hope for early retirement to be granted. They have no plans for how to explain the matter, as they know the public will be enraged.

Meanwhile, UFO activity increases, and telepathic warnings are sent to those below who see these displays. Flood dreams, a sense that one needs to move to higher ground or migrate to a different region are common reactions to such telepathic messages. The common man increasingly senses something is terribly wrong, especially if they see the Moon out of position or the Sun rising an hour early, with no mention of this in the media. They seek their prophets, as every culture has them, and research history and folklore, and quietly resign themselves to the possibility that cataclysmic changes might be in their near future. Beyond that, they plod through their life, as most can do no other if they expect to feed themselves and their loved ones. Those with the resources or opportunity to make changes in their lifestyle so that they might survive what they sense is coming often do so. But just as many, if not more, simply deny any unpleasant thoughts.

New crop circle reported 26th July. It reminds me "8" figure but with some additions. Any comments from Zetas as always will be nice to see!

*<http://www.cropcircleconnector.com/2010/Eastfield/eastfield2010a.html> At Chalk Pit, near Westbury:
<http://www.cropcircleconnector.com/2010/chalkpit/chalkpit2010.html> I think that this CC shows us collision of magnetic fields of the Planet X and the Earth. It already not the first CC which shows us collision of fields at this time. Possibly there is something new in this? [and from another] So what was* that "something" that happened around the 20th of July? The change in a character of the Earth wobble or what else? Because we have the 29th already. Please, give at least a brief answer.

Woolaston, July 18, 2010

Eastfield, July 26, 2010

Chalkpit, July 27, 2010

As with Woolaston, this crop circle, which is almost identical, is depicting the current state of particle crowding and bumping action around the Earth of late. Earth has been wobbling since 2004, tilting her magnetic N Pole away from Planet X and then, when it is protected by the horizon, allowing it to bounce back. The larger circles represent that wobble, which has allowed the Earth to deal with the magnetic approach of Planet X since its arrival into the inner solar system. The larger circles represent these two postures of the Earth, forward and back, the daily wobble. What appears to be lettering on each half of Eastfield represents the various changes in this wobble, which at first was a S Pole tug, then a N Pole push, and has varied in strength and shape as the wobble years have passed.

To either side are smaller circles, which as we mentioned during Woolaston represent the temporary lean to the left or into opposition. These are superimposed on the regular daily wobble, and persevere for days. These are larger in Eastfield than they were in Woolaston, because the frequency and severity of these temporary leans is increasing. Of course, the Moon hardly knows where to position itself, and the Moon's orbit will be increasingly erratic because of this. This is represented in the center of the Eastfield diagram. What does Chalkpit represent? By moving the side circles, which represent the temporary leans either to the left or into opposition, it shows an intrusion into the daily wobbly. Instead of being pushed this way or that, in turn, it will be the daily wobble being rattled. If you pick up a box and move it from place to place, perhaps gently and then even with more force and shoving, you would likely not break the contents. But if during picking it up and moving it you rattle it, you are going to break those contents. We have predicted plate movement starting, major plate movement. What would cause this? Certainly not the gentle wobble that has been in place since early 2004. Something different has to occur!

A question concerning UFO sightings. Do they hang around the sun, just to the point of not being able to see them because of the brightness. A few of my most recent pictures has me wondering if I caught one. Is it black ops, earthly produced?

This issue came up when the moons of Planet X were spotted in images provided by the Stereo Ahead and Stereo Behind satellites. Those in charge of the cover-up quickly circulated rumors that these were UFOs, hiding near the Sun. We scarcely need the glare of the Sun to hide our presence, as we have explained in the body of ZetaTalk. Our motherships are right overhead, concealed by the bending of light rays around these motherships so what you see is what is above the ship, not the ship itself.

Will there be any relocation of innocent Bigfoot before pole shift activated worsening of Hanford, Washington nuclear plant radiation during/after pole shift? Regarding ZT contact issues, is the "Element of Doubt" rule in place for Bigfoot? Does ZT project Bigfoot communities to survive after the pole shift, or die out over a 100 year period, similar to humans? Will Bigfoot make any spiritual transition during/after the pole shift? The Hanford, Washington nuclear power plant is located only about 50 miles from Walla Walla, Washington and 75 miles from the heart of the Umatilla National Forest, just east of Walla Walla. Walla Walla is the origin of a footprint casting that ZT infers belongs to Bigfoot. Now, the Hanford nuclear power plant currently represents two-thirds of the United State's high-level radioactive waste by volume, and without extraordinary assistance, one may presume that the Pole Shift will bring about much more dreadful levels of radiation and contamination within a 50 to 75 mile radius of Hanford, WA. Indeed, ZT has recommended that, prior to and after the Pole Shift, humans keep a 100 mile radial distance from the Hanford nuclear site. Bigfoot did nothing to bring about or use the nuclear power plant in Washington state, and indeed, has tried to commune with nature and mind his/her own business therein. Is there a plan afoot to help relocate Bigfoot away from any dangerously close habitats within 100 miles of the Hanford nuclear power plant?

Since Bigfoot will be transferred to another compatible world prior to the shift to 4th density, the expectation is that a transfer sooner rather than later would be appropriate. Why decimate their limited numbers during the pole shift to struggle in the Aftertime? An earlier transfer is already in process.

I posted a blog about what I saw happening with the moon, <http://poleshift.ning.com/profiles/blogs/something-happened-to-the-moon> and was curious as to what it is that I witnessed. Any and all info about that incident will be appreciated. I've never seen this before, and need confirmation that both; I saw what I saw, and that it's not normal! In between 8:45 and 9:00pm (US Central Time) I was driving to the gym and noticed the moon east/slightly northeast rising in a crescent phase bright red no clouds, just right there like this about 30 degrees above the horizon. I only had my camera phone with me, and when I stopped and looked through the viewfinder you could barely make the image in it. So I was like "screw it" and went in the gym, not without giving it another look before I went in. When I came out of the gym at 10pm the moon was full! And it's right there sitting full right now. Something had to have been obscuring the moon. You just don't go from crescent to full in one hour! These are stock photos of what I saw, because I didn't have my camera with me at the time.

Looking almost directly east at a Full Moon, you would be seeing the Moon with full sunlight on it, unobstructed. The sudden obstruction was from a body between the Moon and the Sun, and larger than a shadow of Venus would appear. Planet X is to the right of the Sun, and looking east you are likewise finding the Moon to the right of the Earth. Planet X occulted your Moon, briefly, as the distance is great and any slight movement of the Moon freed it from this shadow.

Is this a legit UFO sighting? http://www.youtube.com/v/_NsVHe-cek8 Uruguay had been a hot spot for UFO activity over the years. Recently a commission was formed that includes military and civilian members to study secrets archives released by the government. During the street celebrations of this country's national soccer team reaching the world cup semi finals after 40 years, two UFO's were photographed above the crowd of thousands. What message was relayed to the people, and is disclosure about to accelerate in this country? <http://www.youtube.com/v/pQmwjoE-jg4> and <http://www.youtube.com/v/1lC1m6hth-w> [and from another] http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Geography_of_Uruguay The remaining two-quarters of the country is a rolling plateau marked by ranges of low hills that become more prominent in the north as they merge into the highlands of southern Brazil. Even these hilly areas are remarkably featureless, however, and elevations seldom exceed 200 meters.

Poor Montevideo, Uruguay. It is in one of the worst positions possible for the pole shift. We have described a rush of water coming toward this part of the S American coastline during the shift, due to the tipping up of the Antarctic Plate to form new land between the tip of S America and South Africa. Uruguay is lowland, and with tides 500-600 feet would suffer even without this added rush of water. Situated on the leading edge of land facing this onslaught, Montevideo will drown, utterly, in the aggressive and relentless tide. All who wish to survive must be into the highland well away from the coast, with an added buffer of land. This puts them, frankly, outside of the borders of Uruguay.

This article of black African parents giving birth to a truly recessive white baby in London defies explanation (if true) and is viral on the net. Could there be something else amiss like egg implantation from white parents into the black mother? Or is the birth of this baby naturally another sign of the effects of Planet X as it relates to albinism due to planet X presence in simulating an increase in heretofore unknown subterranean rays which is causing an increase in albinism in animals at this time? [and from another] Black Nigerian Couple Gives Birth To White Baby: A Nigerian couple in London have defied genetics, and astounded researchers by giving birth to a blonde hair, blue-eyed baby!!! Check out the pictures and read the amazing story. Baby Nmachi Ihegboro was born at Queen Mary's Hospital in Sidcup, Kent. At first it was believed that baby Nmachi was an albino, but doctors ruled out that possibility. Neither of the parents have any mixed race family history, which is why the case is rare. "She doesn't look like an albino child anyway - not like the ones I've seen back in Nigeria or in books," father Ben Ihegboro told The Sun. "She just looks like a healthy white baby." The father, also ruled out any possibility that the baby was not his. "Of course, she's mine. My wife is true to me. Even if she hadn't been, the baby still wouldn't look like that," said Ben. Professor Bryan Sykes, head of Human Genetics at Oxford University, claims that in mixed race humans, the lighter variant of skin tone may come out in a child - and this can sometimes be startlingly different to the skin of the parents.

We have spoken to the issue of recessive genes, and what lies in mankind's DNA. All is carried forward, but if a gene is not a winning gene assisting survival it becomes a recessive gene and often a rare recessive gene. Thereafter, it is forgotten as it does not express and show itself, so lies latent. In this child's lineage there are white genes, whose origin is long forgotten. Did white men and women not travel to Africa in the past? If a white woman had a child by her man servant, it was most certainly not raised in the home but sent to live with the father's relatives. Did white men, alone in a vast continent, not seek sexual comfort with black women?

Father's Day weekend - from June 18 to June 20 this year - when 54 people were shot in Chicago. Ten people died, including a toddler. But no leads due to the "no snitch code", a street code, reinforced in rap music, that no one tells anything to police. Can the Zetas comment on how this, and gangsta rap, might be related to any STS alien counseling or life on STS planets?

Certainly a rule that inhibits citizens from seeking protection and relief from the police when they or their loved ones are threatened smacks of the Service-to-Self rules that the brutal shall rule the weak, with no recourse. The basis of such rules is to keep law enforcement from doing their job, so that gangs can conduct what is in essence leveling wars designed to establish who is the most brutal and thus entitled to leadership. We have described these leveling wars as something the Service-to-Self do when encountering each other. Collateral damage of small children, relatives of antagonists, or neighbors or shoppers just walking down the street is considered justified, as he who would be king thinks of himself and his agenda as the top priority. Right from the rule book on Service-to-Self planets, yes.

Obviously off camera, going about their daily routine with their peers, do the people that work at the Weather Channel or Accuweather have conversations and opine with each other about the obvious abnormal weather patterns they are seeing? Or do they just not bring it up at the risk of sounding crazy?

The are obsessed with the subject and when they are certain the other is aware and under the same restrictions not to reveal their knowledge, they arrange such meetings and go to great lengths to conceal them from co-workers and family. Many have been accused of having affairs and even been divorced for these activities. Prior to any first meeting, and certainly prior to any group meeting, those who have been warned to keep their mouth shut have watched for worried faces or signs of stress such as pill popping or excessive drinking. Vague comments are made at the vending machine or while walking out to the parking garage, always in a context that could be taken many ways but with body language indicating otherwise. If confirmation is given, they arrange for a beer or a mutual jogging session and there continue to broach the subject carefully until finally one has the courage to address the issue openly. Most warned are not aware of the full truth, but only a piece of the puzzle. Therefore, the more pressing issue for these people is to see the whole picture, which they try to puzzle out for themselves.

The latest commercial for the new television series The Event is quite interesting. It starts out with one person saying, "the President is getting ready to tell them." and someone else says, "He can't." Then the first person asks, "but shouldn't we tell them - to give them time to prepare?" It was quite eerily similar to ZetaTalk concerning the coverup, and the those seemingly in control. Where the short-lived series Jericho was an excellent portrayal of people being cut off from technology, neighboring cities, food supplies, etc., it is possible that this new series is a fanciful step toward disclosure?

The trend in disaster movies, whether in theaters or on TV, has been moving gradually from extreme examples of world disasters to the reality that will be presented to the common man. Movies in the past have shown the Earth's core stopping (The Core), having to be restarted by a team of intrepid scientists traveling down through molten magma. Or scenarios such as a volcano erupting in the middle of LA (Volcano), or New York City crushed by massive earthquakes (Aftershock). If the Earth is threatened by approaching asteroids (Armageddon), a NASA team will fly up there and save the day. Always, some group of scientists or arm of the government rescues the world, else the theme of the movie is that no one will be saved except the elite in arcs (2012) or a dozen children rescued by benign aliens (Knowing).

At times the theme of a coverup is presented, such as when a black president withholds information until before announcing a lottery (Deep Impact) to a remarkably calm populace, or more realistically, only announcing when the Earth is already fracturing (2012). A parallel theme has been what the populace must deal with - a group finding itself stranded and having to determine who gets to stay or must leave the group (Survival), or civilization thrown back, technologically (Postman), or massive flooding with the whereabouts of dry land unsure (Waterworld). Brutal gangs have been shown to be the strongest survivors (Mad Max) or only temporarily in charge (Book of Eli) or resorting to cannibalism (The Road), but the day to day existence in the Aftertime is best presented in a work of fiction not yet produced (Finegan Fine).

Will you ask the Zetas to comment on NASA's new pronouncement that the Themis http://www.nasa.gov/mission_pages/themis/main/index.html project has discovered precursors to the conjecture that jetliners are piercing the magnetosphere causing "space quakes" that somehow find the effect reaching the Earth's surface. According to NASA, this "could have a noticeable effect on Earth" and also are suggesting it is also causing: "Ground current surges (that) can have profound consequences, in extreme cases bringing down power grids over a wide area." (gimme a break) I'm guessing this another in a series of failing attempts to explain Earth Changes to date. http://science.nasa.gov/science-news/science-at-nasa/2010/27jul_spacequakes/ [and from another] NASA is now suggesting that "Space Quakes" might cause earthquakes, magnetic anomalies or similar phenomena on Earth. Is NASA reading ZT re July 20 or Violent shifts soon to come? How much more ridiculous and silly will NASA get with their bizarre theories in the future? This is just plain stupidity on their part in terms of a cover up it seems.

Having failed with Global Warming and solar activity, they are desperate for any cover story. The Global Warming story was supposed to cover earthquakes as well as rising seas, because, the theory went, heavier oceans would make the plates shift. But this apparently did not sail well among the scientific community, especially given the quake patterns and the slight rise in sea level, only inches at most. Their fond hope was that the Sun would allow them to exaggerate solar activity, but the Sun is asleep and trying to invent activity when amateur scopes and the myriad solar wave reports would say otherwise has not proved an easy task. Thus blaming the Sun must be put aside to explain the Earth changes they anticipate - earthquakes, electromagnetic disturbance, and signs in the skies! Will this latest excuse fly? If jet liners can do this, why is the effect only now becoming apparent? Precisely how can a mere jetliner disturb a magnetic field to the extent that it "quakes"? Can this be produced in the laboratory? If such a thing happened, that the Earth is affected by this disturbed magnetic field, then how is it that the jetliner manages to escape without injury? This is beyond ludicrous, and will only further make NASA the laughing stock it has become.

What will cause the human race to die out one hundred years after the shift? Will the Zeta's sterilize the remaining humans? Its in our genetic makeup to reproduce and we have done that after prior passages of PX and rebuilt the population. So why will this time be different?

What is missing from this perception is the Service-to-Other mindset, which does not wish for one's child any but the best and which is capable of putting ego aside. Your population reproduction on Earth involves careless sex where unwanted babies are conceived, parents who see a child as an extension of themselves and reject any baby that does not have their genes, and large families as a source of labor power and brute strength during confrontations. Service-to-Other individuals do not think like that. Imagine that every babe born after the pole shift will only have a Service-to-Other soul. Those who are alive today will die out in 60-70 years, or certainly within 100 years. Their children will be Service-to-Other, if the child survives at all in the Aftertime environment. Those children that do survive will likely be encountering the hybrids or other visitors, if not already in contact pre-birth. If and when they desire children of their own, they will be aware of the hybrid program. They may even be intermarrying with hybrids. And if genetics from both human parents is desired, they are highly likely to request assistance so that the child can in addition have hybrid genetics that will allow the child to be a peer of those in the community, and not be given a virtual handicap by being merely human. The instance where fully human offspring propagate and are present at the 100 year point will be rare and fleeting, as their offspring would likely have a different opinion on child bearing.

My question is why such extreme cold in South America? (Mariaelisa's recent post says a lot of cold air from Antarctica) so is the magnetic south pole region being stimulated to extreme by PX and the wind dragging that air almost totally to South America - and barely affecting other Southern Hemisphere lands.

The heat waves in the northern hemisphere are mirrored by cold waves in the southern hemisphere. The heat is caused by the globe tilting its N Pole too far toward the Sun, like an extra hot summer, so of course the S Pole is getting too little sunlight which makes the southern hemisphere's winter extra cold.

Could you perhaps provide an update on the position of the Dark Twin, with respect to the Earth? [and from another] http://helios.gsfc.nasa.gov/ace/ace_mission.html ACE orbits the L1 libration point which is a point of Earth-Sun gravitational equilibrium about 1.5 million km from Earth and 148.5 million km from the Sun. From its location at L1 ACE has a prime view of the solar wind, interplanetary magnetic field and higher energy particles accelerated by the Sun, as well as particles accelerated in the heliosphere and the galactic regions beyond.

The Dark Twin has come up behind the Earth in their shared orbit, and there stopped, halted like the Earth. Because of the increased crowding in the field in front of Planet X, which is moving steadily toward the three planets trapped in the eddy flow cup, it has dropped slightly behind the Earth's orbit. If one were to look down upon the solar system one would see coming out from the Sun first Planet X, then Venus, then the Earth, and finally the Dark Twin. Planet X is coming outbound from the Sun. Venus is being pushed back and forth in front of Planet X to simulate her orbit in the view from Earth. The Dark Twin is somewhat further from the Sun and to the side of the Earth, behind the Earth in their shared orbit. The Dark Twin on occasion is captured on film as a dim monster when light rays which have been bent out are returned to Earth, distorting the original size. These photos are taken after dusk, pointing out into the night sky toward the west, which would be where one would expect to find it. The exact coordinates can be surmised from these photos, but this changes about because these planets are all in a dance with each other. The Dark Twin intermittently shows up on the magnetosphere simulator, because the ACR satellite taking space weather measures drifts about between the Earth and Sun, and when at the right angle captures the magnetic field of the Dark Twin as well. Note the angle invariably puts it behind the Earth, confirming our words. This first came to the attention of the public on May 3, 2010 when the Dark Twin's magnetic field was evident on the 2D image. It has now reappeared on the images as a dual object. Why this dual image? This indicates movement in the Dark Twin, who has freedom to bob about as it is on the perimeter of the particle crowding in the cup. The ACE satellite is taking a type of long-exposure image of the space weather, and thus captures both positions.

The Zetas have stated in "The Lift" that "during the cataclysms, when the Earth's crust has shifted and stopped, a great many humans will need to be located and lifted, simultaneously. As we have stated, most in the Service-to-Others have declined this offer so as to be with their loved ones during the time of greatest need". As it is known to ZT readers, after PS, STO will be separated from Undecided / Young Souls. The Q. is: even if one is qualified for 4th Density STO life, can one refuse it in order to stay with their loved ones, and follow them anywhere.

Service-to-Other humans are not going to be separated from other humans during the pole shift, or after the pole shift, except if they walk away from these other humans, deliberately. There is no scenario as described in the book series "Left Behind" where some leave and the others are bereft, left behind. Since the Earth of the future is to be a Service-to-Other world, those who qualify, being fully Service-to-Other, are given the offer of a lift. What this means is that they can be prevented from dying during the hour of the pole shift, so as to be there for their families and neighbors afterwards. Most decline this offer because the hour of the shift will be the time of greatest terror.

We have described, and our emissary Nancy has witnessed, some extremely rare instances where in today's world highly Service-to-Other humans would otherwise be killed or would go missing and their bodies not be found. The example Nancy witnessed, and participated in to understand the process, was a group of political prisoners being walked off a cliff. It was assumed by the executioner that they would die and since the crevasse was deep and dark, no one checked. Those political prisoners in that group who were Service-to-Other were snagged and taken to our dome cities, where they are hard at work as teammates with the hybrids and ourselves. Nancy also participated in the rescue of young children sold into sexual slavery, as here too the Element of Doubt was maintained because the slavers assumed the children either escaped or were stolen by a rival gang.

Many people have illusions about the Lift, confusing this with the Biblical ascension whereby the faithful will be saved from harm and taken to Heaven early, or confusing this because they have a personal desire to be rescued or to be special. This is not the purpose of the Lift, which is extremely temporary during the hour of the pole shift only. Those humans who will be living with us after the pole shift are those who are already working with us as teammates. As we stated earlier, outside of our emissary Nancy, who has risked her life hundreds of times to produce our ZetaTalk, we decline to name them. We have often stated that if someone claims to be Service-to-Other, they likely are not, and it is likewise true that if someone is claiming to be a teammate of ours qualifying for such an offer, they also likely are not.

The Zetas said that the soul should have at least 1000-1200 (or more) terms of embodiments for definition of the orientation. Also, the Zetas said that just STO souls will be embodied on the Earth after the pole shift. If the soul is inclined to the STO and has been embodied less than, for example, 1200 terms of lives, such soul also will be moved to the 3d water world (together with not confident souls) for termination of definition of orientation, i.e. till it will not be the STO definitively? Or not, inclined souls to the STO will remain on the Earth also?

You are asking where the line is drawn, as in human graduation where a student may go to summer school to catch up on their math in order to graduate with their class. If one misses the graduation, during a Transformation, because they were not quite ready, this does not doom them to an eternally long time on another 3rd density world. There are periodic harvests of souls on 3rd density worlds where those ready to graduate are taken. However, many prefer to linger with other souls they have become acquainted with, soul mates, in order to travel together. Those humans who do not qualify for Service-to-Other graduation when their current incarnation ends will not find life on a water world a step down. You would be surprised to find how pleasant and enticing such a world can be!

I am hoping for some detailed information about the area of Northern CA during the moment of the shift. It is said that most valley's will be inundated and that the mountains to the north may have some safe locations but if understand correctly no where under 750' will not be inundated. Will some areas higher than that still be inundated? What about the triple junction plate near Petrolia and the lost coast? In another vein, will there be any return to normalcy after the shift? Reestablishment of production/supply lines or use of fossil fuels? What about international travel? Also I read that the next time PX goes by the Annunaki will only see what appears to be a dead planet. Does that mean that Mother Earth will in fact perish? Will density change within an incarnation or will we just evolve between this and our next incarnation? I used to be so scared of what was to come, this did not help me. Now I in some ways feel lucky to be a witness. My biggest fear now is that my young son may somehow suffer and I wouldn't like that for him or any child. I only hope to have the resources materially and spiritually to make this shift.

The majority of California will end up above the flood in the Aftertime, though the rubble of what was formerly densely populated cities along the coastlines and in the lowlands of the central valley will not be habitable due to flooding as well as earthquake damage. The key to survival in the Aftertime in California is not merely escaping the high tides, which will wash over and around the coastal mountains because of the force of water from the compressing Pacific, but life afterwards. California is basically a desert region, turned green because of irrigation and piped water. This will stop. Be near a water source such as a stream, and be prepared to garden and farm. As with the rest of the planet, distribution of foods and supplies will stop. The electric grid will be down. The phones dead. Fossil fuels will cease to be pumped or refined or distributed and will in all likelihood be burned up during the shift, ruptured and burned. International travel will fall back to the days of Columbus. Those alive in human form when the Earth is ready for her leap to 4th density will move with the Earth, and scarcely notice the change.

Current winning model of economy and life is STS type - it works well and "market" rewards best STS individuals who are pioneers and leaders in their field. They keep constant focus and control on their STS activities. But at the end they deliver best service to the society and get paid for that. So its kind of mixture of STS -STO models. There were attempts in history to establish STO governments but that never worked well. For example in early days of USSR (1917-1942) successful STS individuals have been killed and that was done according Soviet party policy to liquidate all rich individuals who are against "Bolshevism" - STO ideas. Then only STO type of individuals should be remaining according the plan, but that type of rule has failed. Where from got this "bloody" ideas founders of "Communism"? Why there is such failure to deliver true and honest STO form of model for human society? Jesus did huge work trying to implement this as well as Buddha and Mohamed but at the end of the day that remains on spiritual level only?

Although one would find more Service-to-Self individuals running large corporations or in the seat of power in governments than in the general populace, it is not true that innovation and distribution of goods and services is done best by these individuals. In almost all cases, the inventor or inventing team have had their work product stolen from them, and those who make the company profitable are underpaid and work at the whim of a dictatorial boss or CEO. It is thus not true that society benefits from Service-to-Self activities, but the contrary. The common man would benefit more if those who are Service-to-Self in management merely refused to take such big salaries, and productivity would increase if the Service-to-Self management with their inconsiderate rules were eliminated. It is likewise true that those who are Service-to-Self prefer not to work and if allowed would be perpetually idle, while demanding more than their fair share. The reason communism did not work, and capitalism does not work, is not due to the overall philosophy but due to the Service-to-Self among you!

I've seen alot of questions relating to requests for more specific information regarding safe locations. I understand from ZetaTalk that Ohio fairs relatively well, especially eastward toward the Appalachian Mountains. I am asking about SW OH and how far up is the Ohio River expected to rise, along with how far in the Mississippi is likely to flow.

Of the major cities in Ohio - Columbus, Cincinnati, Toledo, and Cleveland - only Cleveland will find its elevation sufficient to prevent itself from being in the muck of floodlands in the Aftertimes. It is not a case of the waters topping over buildings, but if basements are hopelessly flooded and the building rotting because of this, they are not habitable. Thus the major population centers in Ohio will be looking for high ground, on the move and moving IN with those who live on high ground whether they have been invited or not. The Ohio River will not push water up into Ohio during the hour of the pole shift, though the Ohio River will not drain efficiently for months, but in the Aftertime, the river will merely prove to be an outlet into a long bay into the greatly flooded Mississippi Valley. Thus, in essence, an ocean bay.

Legend

Highways (I and US)	Elevation	601 - 700	901 - 1,000	1,201 - 1,300	1,501 - 3,109
IR	416 - 500	701 - 800	1,001 - 1,100	1,301 - 1,400
US	501 - 600	801 - 900	1,101 - 1,200	1,401 - 1,500

Pakistani plane crash that killed all 152 people on board the Airbus 321, belonging to private airline AirBlue, crashed on Wednesday into a steep and heavily-wooded hillside in Islamabad shortly before it was due to land after a flight from the southern port city of Karachi. What caused this crash? [and from another] Pakistani plane crashes, 152 dead [July 28]

http://news.yahoo.com/s/afp/20100728/wl_sthasia_afp/pakistanairaccident A Pakistani airliner carrying 152 people crashed in a ball of flames Wednesday into densely wooded hills outside Islamabad amid heavy rain and poor visibility, killing everyone on board. The plane was flying very low. Then a loud noise. Officials suggested the flight had been diverted due to bad weather, but it was unclear why the jet was flying so low and close to the Margalla Hills -- off the normal route for aircraft arriving from the southern city of Karachi. One pilot said that a Pakistan International Airlines flight from Karachi had been diverted to Lahore only half an hour before the Airblue plane crashed because of bad weather in Islamabad.

On the face, this looks like a case of a diverted plane, flying in unfamiliar territory, with poor visibility and perhaps in a terrain unfamiliar to the pilot. Open and shut case. But the evidence suggests that the pilot was flying too low, and were it not for poor visibility would have been alerted to that by his view from the cockpit. Were the instruments miscuing him? This has been an issue that pilots have increasingly had to deal with, where some of their instruments malfunction, so they need multiple sources of information in order to puzzle out just what their altitude is, just where they are on the face of the Earth, and most certainly which way is north. This is hidden from the public because pilots who want to retain their jobs dare say nothing, and airlines are eager for the public to clamor aboard their unsafe planes to keep the revenue flowing.

The East Field ?? seems to me enough interesting, I think that it shows us approach of the Planet X - at East Field, near Alton Barnes. Reported 29 th July.

<http://www.cropcircleconnector.com/2010/eastfield2/eastfield2010a.html>

Eastfield July 29 (Day 1),
July 30 (Day 2) and Closeup

Despite claims that this crop circle is fake, it is genuine. Thefts from cars and false donation boxes have inspired the cries of a fraud, in an attempt to keep people from a field not closely watched and clearly a trap for the unwary. What does the progression of overlapping orbs represent? It is a growth, in a day, not only of the encircling reach of the top orbs, but of the size of the orbs themselves. This pictorially represents what we have been trying to relay regarding the new Earth wobble, which we will now start called the Earth rattle. The Earth moves in several directions at once, or in quick succession, jerking back and forth to meet often conflicting directives from the frantic magnetic field of Earth which is likewise trying to meet quickly changing directives from the dominant magnetic field of Planet X. The encircling reach represents a change from where the Earth had been only moments before, so that the past affects the future. The Earth may be in the middle of her usual Figure 8 wobble pattern and suddenly get pushed into opposition, for instance. The force and frequency of this type of rattling of the Earth will continue to increase.

I have a question for the Zetas concerning the hosing of planet earth. When Planet X hoses the earth, will that be the cause of the 7 out of 10 event that you saw in your holographic movie in the fall?

Planet X has been hosing the Earth with magnetic particles, which is the primary reason for the Earth wobble, present since early 2004. As the magnetic N Pole of Earth comes over the horizon, it is pushed away, what we have called the polar lurch. This has gotten increasingly violent, thus the extremes in weather and tides. What will cause the 7 of 10 will be something additional. The closeness of Planet X has caused more than a press of magnetic particles from the N Pole of Planet X, it has forced the Earth to begin contorting to come into alignment with the magnetic field of Planet X in some way. Since the start of 2010, the Earth has at times been in a temporary lean to the left, falling to its side a bit. And lately, during July of 2010, it has even been moving into a position of opposition where the N Pole is pointed toward the Sun beyond what the seasons would dictate. We have described the end of the Serpentine Dance, so popular in crop circles. This slow steady daily roll, the well measured and recorded Figure 8 Earth wobble is now ending, to be replaced by something far more violent. In addition to this daily Figure 8, there will be erratic times when a sudden lean to the left or into opposition occurs, violent jerking around of the Earth. This has the effect of jerking the Earth plates against each other, so they move. It is this that will create the 7 of 10 scenarios.

Mail this Page to a Friend.

ZetaTalk: GodlikeProduction Live

written January 12, 2008 on the GodlikeProduction live chat.

NASA recently said that a new sun spot will disrupt cell phones, CA TV, power systems and ATMs. Is this yet more cover up of the effects of the tail of Planet X pointing towards the earth?

Absolutely. We have been stating for some time that the tail is pointing toward the Earth, and that it will hose directly at the Earth soon. Given the electromagnetic disturbances that occurred in August-September of 2003 they know what to expect. Brownouts and blackouts occurred worldwide in 2003 to the extent of totally blacking out New York City at one point. The establishment also wishes to cover the extent of the wobble, which is steadily getting worse. We have warned that satellites will fail, going into the pole shift, and fail utterly. Just what that point is in the timeline we have not specified. Beyond the effect that the electromagnetic surge will have on the electrical and satellite systems, there are those times when satellites are not where expected and communications fail. All this is to be blamed on the Sun, which we warned at the start of ZetaTalk would be used as an excuse.

Was Bank of America forced to buy Countrywide lending in order to prevent a financial collapse this past week?

Bank of America has long been cooperative with subversive elements of the US government, by this we mean the CIA and national security agencies. One should bear in mind how much the gratitude of the US government can mean to a bank. Agree to launder money and support front operations for the CIA and the regulatory agencies will forgive all kinds of sins. Who would buy Countrywide? They are gutted with debt, held up from total collapse by string and a promise. The debts will be absorbed into the massive accounting shenanigans that are conducted by Bank of America and get lost! Suddenly it's rosy again!

Is martial law still a possibility in America? I am still a little confused how it would be maintained for any length of time in the rural areas where most people are well armed and antagonistic to government anyway.

We have stated that martial law is unlikely to occur in the US because the citizenry is so used to freedom that they would not cooperate for long. By this, we mean cooperation would likely be counted in days. Citizens would sit home and fear being out on the streets, and all work would come to a halt. Schools would not be attended, utilities not maintained, and unless escorted to work by armed guards, emergency work would not be attended to either. Knowing this, the Bush administration is loathe to call martial law too early. However, this past year, seeing their fortunes falling rapidly, Bush did try to declare martial law via the Emergency Action Network, and the fire in Cheney's official offices at the Executive Office Building was done to destroy a phone network Cheney had established there for a second such attempt. Bush and Cheney are being blocked, effectively, from declaring martial law. This all is in the hands of man, and could go in many directions, as we have stated, so predictions cannot be made with certainty.

Is the pole shift going to happen during this magnetic trimster? Iit doesnt seem violent enough.

We have stated that the last weeks will occur within a magnetic trimester. The current trimester started at the end of December and lasts until the end of April. The last weeks include, counting backwards, a week of rotation stoppage, some weeks of rotation slowing, 6 days of sunrise west, 3 days of darkness, a lean to the left, and a severe wobble. We also predicted that emergency management teams would be so exhausted that at the state and local level they would not be listening to the Bush White House regardless of what they say. We did not specify where in the timeline such a situation might exist, so there may be overlapping with the last weeks, or there may not be an overlap so that this point occurs before the last weeks. It is up to you to count how many days are involved in the last weeks or to watch the signs. We will say this. You will not be taken by surprise.

Did Hillary make some kind of deal with Rove and the Bushes? Did she know the machines would be hacked to give her a false victory? What about Obama: is he aware of the vote fraud? Any chance the recount will tell the true story, or have they carefully covered their trail? And finally, how do these people justify this kind of activity? Don't they realize they are bound for a prison planet in committing these crimes? Especially the Bushes and Cheney: are they resigned to going to a prison planet following their deaths?

The Clintons and the Bush family chat with each other all the time. Matters are discussed in code talk, but each understands what the other is saying. The Clintons were offered the Republican machinery in New Hampshire, and gave the nod. The Republicans also want Hillary to be the candidate as they feel they could beat her due to her negatives, and polls bear that out. The Bush family feels that should Hillary win, they also will have won, so vote fraud in New Hampshire had the support of many who have used this avenue in the past. Since there are buffers between those who switch the votes and those who call the shots, the ringleaders do not fear prosecution. The low level technicians who do the actual vote swaps get paid in a manner that leaves no fingerprints, by shadowy figures.

I'm not asking for a date of the Passage of Nibiru since I know you're not going to tell one, and I respect that. But let me point out a thing: you said that telling a date would mean helping the elite to fulfill their evil plans towards humanity, imposing martial law, blocking the roads etc., but they already monitor the sky everyday (that's what the ISS is all about, for example). They watch Nibiru as it approaches the Earth and are able to determine a probable period for the pole shift, even without a Zeta warning. So hiding the date is more damaging to the populace than to the establishment, am I wrong?

If the elite knew a date certain, they would and could call martial law effectively. We are not speaking only of the US here, but of many countries where those in charge of the government wish to kill many of their citizens. The elite in Indonesia, for instance, have little regard for their citizens. It is not true that the US government knows when the pole shift is about to happen. They can approximate the distance of Planet X from Earth and the distance from the Sun, but many maneuvers will occur before the last weeks. Currently, Planet X is almost directly between the Earth and Sun, moving only slightly to the right in the view from Earth because Earth is trying to evade the Christmas Hammer. But as we have detailed early in the ZetaTalk saga, the point of passage during the pole shift places Planet X much more to the right. NASA does not know what the factors are in this dance, and can only surmise. And they are surmising badly, we might add.

A lot of whistle blowers are trying to be heard, but are being gagged. Sybil Edmonds has offered to tell her story to the world with only foreign countries offering to cover her story. She has already posted pictures of top officials in the government as clues on her website. Will someone/anyone in the US media give her story airtime? Is she being blocked by the Puppetmaster? Is she protected by the Zetas?
<http://www.justacitizen.com/>

Clearly, the US media is being gagged by national security mandates. Not many editors want to be dragged off to Gitmo, and that is the level of the threats they are given. By posting her website, she has told her story, as anyone going into the details discovers. The Puppet Master is unconcerned with who in middle management under him gets caught for their crimes. He is well above such minor scuffles.

Can Zetas comment on any asteroids hitting the Earth? Will Planet X have a role in this?

Asteroids as Near Earth Orbit missiles have been talked up for the last several years to give the establishment an excuse for running to their bunkers. Movies such as Deep Impact or Armageddon, where NASA must rescue the Earth from extinction, and the president of the US runs a lottery to see which citizens will be saved in deep caves, were in theatres so the public can get used to the idea. Asteroids have been around for a long time, but the scars of any recent hit cannot be found. Those scars that do exist reflect the years when Earth was a water planet in the Asteroid Belt, which was composed of many small water planets that were pelted to pieces in the past when Planet X made its passage out there. The Sun shrank in size since then so now Planet X makes its passage closer to the Sun, near Earth's orbit. There is of course trash in the tail of Planet X, debris as large as trucks, which will land on Earth. We have stated that the Council of Worlds has plans for Earth, and would not allow the planet to suffer an Extinction Level Event (E.L.E.) due to an asteroid impact. But the falling debris this will not encourage/embolden NASA et al. to warn the public about Planet X, as the elite at NASA and the White House need their excuse to escape to their bunkers, leaving you to suffer the pole shift without advance warning.

Any accidents or explosions or EQ's in the Nevada Desert lately you may want to comment about?

4.0 2008/01/05 04:03:36 39.905N 118.351W 16.0 32 km (20 mi) SSE of Lovelock, NV

4.2 2008/01/05 03:54:25 39.483N 117.933W 16.0 26 km (16 mi) SSE of Dixie Valley, NV

3.8 2008/01/05 02:42:35 39.543N 117.647W 16.0 19 km (12 mi) W of Petersons Mill, NV

<http://www.godlikeproductions.com/forum1/message484351/pg1>

We have explained that a bowing effect is in place along the west coast of the N American continent. This N American continent is held rigidly along the northern border with Russia, so it cannot roll. As the Atlantic widens and the Pacific shortens, N America is pulled diagonally. Mexico pulls west, the East Coast drops in elevation, and the New Madrid Fault line is stressed. We have explained that such incidences as the Utah mining disaster were caused by the bow formed around the area of San Diego. This fractures rock all throughout the West, all the way up the coast of N America to Alaska. These quakes are an example of the stress the bow is causing.

We have some evidence that the so-called Puppet Master could be a woman from the Rothschild family, although the Rothschild(s) are often considered as only one of the 13 royal families of the Illuminati. On Zetataalk you Zetas said that the famous list leaked to the populace is false (Astor, Bundy, Collins, Dupont, Freeman, Kennedy, Li, Onassis, Rockefeller, Rothschild, Russel, Van Dуйin, Merovingian), but I'm not really sure about that. Any comment from you Zetas will be appreciated.

You could speculate endlessly and you would not discover the identity of the Puppet Master or his close family. Those who are out in the public have several generations behind them who were not the Puppet Master in this male dominated lineage. You are wrong. Nor will we entertain endless attempts to get us to bless your guess. You cannot guess, as the Puppet Master and his immediate family are not known to the public, and are not on the books. Your quest is futile, thus, so don't waste our time.

There have been numerous incidents at the San Francisco zoo starting on Christmas day with an escaped tiger killing a young man. Last week a wild polar bear almost escaped. Recently another caged cat tore open the cage it was in. Can the Zetas comment on this spate of incidents (ie - have these intelligent beings had enough?) and the ethics of holding animals in zoos in general?<http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?f=/c/a/2008/01/12/MNGQUDP11.DTL>

The public is alert to restless zoo animals because of the San Francisco tiger incident, as the horror of a 350 pound tiger on the loose, chewing visitors up, is something they had not considered. But such incidents where an animal mauls its handlers is not new. We ourselves do not keep zoos, as we go to the native habitat to observe an animal by preference.

What repulsive power are Moon of the earth? Why do Venus inverse rotation comparing other planet in solar system? How did Moon be created?

The Repulsion Force, as we have explained in the Science section on the ZetaTalk website, occurs between objects of equal size and mass. A tiny meteor does not invoke the Repulsion Force of Earth, thus thuds to Earth. The Moon has invoked the Repulsion Force of Earth, and thus despite its massive size and slow orbit around the Earth, it stays aloft. Mathematically, it has been proven that the Moon should not be aloft, but men refuses to deal with that issue as they have no explanation. The Repulsion Force is a factor of gravity particle flows, which float slowly back to a gravity center, and thus like an umbrella pull objects toward that center. When the gravity particles build up in that center, they explode outward like a laser, cutting through all they pass through so rapidly they have little effect on that matter. When large objects come near each other, these laser beams of gravity particles abut each other, like two fire hoses pointed directly at each other, and thus they do not approach each other. The Moon attached itself to Earth when the Earth was ejected from the Asteroid Belt long ago. It is not of the Earth's substance. During a pole shift, which affects the inner planets of the solar system such as Venus and Earth, these planets can have their rotation disrupted. When they start to rotate again, it can be in an opposite direction. This can and has happened to Earth, where rotation is not from west to east as it is currently, but in the other direction from east to west.

There are many things which concern me but mostly I am concerned about the subject of chem-trails. We are hearing of a great decrease in bird species lately. We hear of a greater incidence in asthma cases especially in children. Can the Zetas comment on the increase in spraying and the effect it is having on human, animal and plant life?

Obviously it is not healthy for various fogging agents to be sprayed into the air, but this is the lesser evil contributing to any decrease in bird populations or asthma cases in children. Cities are horrifically polluted, but the air seldom shows the poisons it carries. The pollutants are well known to affect the lungs of the residents of cities, and eat away at statues, curtains, and cars. This is no secret. Birds are sensitive to methane gas, which is on the increase due to fracturing rock. The canary taken into the coal mine is used to detect the presence of methane gas, for this reason.

I wanted to ask, is the increasing and decreasing nature of the reddish glow/hue that permeates the cloud cover at night, as is being reported worldwide, due to the wafting nature of the tail?

Red dust was present in 2003 when the tail of Planet X wafted past the Sun toward Earth, and has returned. What was present in 2003 and present today is but a light dusting, on occasion, here and there. If the red dust becomes too obvious, the establishment will have documentaries on how volcanic activity can bring red sunsets.

Will the recent voter fraud in New Hampshire mean that Hillary is going to have her dirty laundry exposed to the public to counter this deceitful act?

Of course those responsible for the integrity of the election process will do everything possible to cover up what has happened in New Hampshire. It is not Hillary that is worried here! They are seeking explanations for the difference in the counts to the polls beforehand and the exit polls which are historically accurate. New Hampshire has a law that allows out of state visitors to vote if they claim on the registration form that they have an intention to move to the state. No follow-up is done to ensure that this is the case. Since it was observed before the election that Hillary's rallies were attended mainly by those from Massachusetts and New York state, many cars in the parking lots with those license plates, this is one possible excuse for the discrepancy. They will claim that her sudden rush were these voters. Be aware of who will be observing the counts and compiling the totals. It will be the election officials in the state whose reputation would be smeared. Unless there are outside observers, no change in the current count will occur!

When the final weeks arrive and Nibiru will be clearly visible in the sky, large as our Sun, will the cover-up fall down and the true nature of the event be exposed to the people through the media? Do you see riots in the cities, panic, chaos or a little more justice throughout the world?

We have predicted that the last weeks will not entail riots, though this is what the establishment fears. Those who are strong enough that they do not need to deny what they can see will either make preparations for their families, move them to safety and the like, or if trapped will say loving goodbyes. Those in denial, who are often in the majority, will try to continue their jobs and tasks as though nothing were wrong. Shrill arguments may ensue between these groups, until those trying to prepare and take steps for safety simply leave those in denial to their self-chosen state. Of course there will be those who will loot what has been left behind or in stores, but they will be ignored by the police who will themselves be trying to think of their families or wandering around in shock. We have stated that we estimate 43% of humanity will be going insane to some degree. This too is a factor. Insane people do not riot. They sit and stare or plunge into frantic activity or argue with imaginary beings. They also can get despondent and commit suicide, taking their loved ones with them. These times will be a challenge for all!

Are the animals at the San Fran zoo reacting to an impending earthquake? There are stories of animals sensing earthquakes and lord knows San Fran is due for one.

Nancy can tell you that animals are sensitive to earthquakes, as she keeps a Peking duck she calls Mildred who is an excellent sensitive. Mildred has been quaking in the dead of night lately, at 2-3:00 a.m. when the Christmas Hammer stresses the N American plate. The Chinese use their Peking ducks as earthquake predictors for this reason. When an animal senses the rock about them is stressed they get an uncontrollable urge to flee. Clearly this is a factor in San Francisco, which sits on the San Andreas Fault line.

The history of humans shows alien interaction, and yet aliens state that they can not interfere with humans on this planet. From technology to knowledge of languages, writing, mathematics, agriculture, and religions, they've certainly interfered. If aliens want to help us, why don't they just reveal themselves to the public? Why the deception and secrecy?

Does your teacher interfere with your high school exams by telling you the answers? You are in school to learn, and part of this learning process is to live with your mistakes, to learn the outcome of your mistakes. Earth is a spiritual schoolhouse, where you are to learn by your actions and migrate, spiritually, to either the Service-to-Other or Service-to-Self spiritual orientation. We have stated, endlessly, that we are not your parents! We are allowed to counsel you but not to interfere. We are not here to rescue you, but must allow you to make your own mistakes and take action as you see fit.

Since last October I ve noticed a lot of weird behaviour from people. They get aggressive, hostile, arrogant, even persons who usually behave normally act in an abnormal way. Also criminality in Holland where I live has risen lately as I learned. Personally I experienced the same period "energy symptoms" which led me to hyper ventilation. I got medical treatment for that and the last weeks I feel better but surprisingly the last time I visited my doctor he told me he found it strange that I felt better as according to him the treatment he gave me would give results in longer period. Do you think those "symptoms" I had are related with the earth changes and the Planet X passing? There was another period in my life when I noticed and faced similar odd behaviour by people: August 2006. For me it was a period when I felt depressed and weaker. At that time a war began from nowhere: Israel invaded Lebanon. Nowadays, we had Bhutto's assassination. Do you think all this people's strange behaviour has to do with the whole changes which are taking place? If yes, how does that happen?

People react to stress in many ways. Hyperventilating is certainly one such reaction. The nature of the stress is not always understood. Certainly, if someone is holding a gun to your face and threatening to shoot, this might be the source, but many times the problem is masked. A caring mother can smother a child, creating stress, but who would say the mother is the villain. Most often stress is not something at a distance but it is something close at hand in the family setting, the job situation, or in the neighborhood. If the person were suddenly removed from their life setting, the stress lifts magically, but can return if the problem is something the person carries with them and builds into their life. One must examine their interpersonal relationships, to see their own hand in the problems that emerge.

Earlier today I noticed that you posted some links to the early days of Zetataalk and afterwards some posters were positively vitriolic toward you. Will such vicious behavior increase toward you as we get closer to the shift?

ZetaTalk has what many have described as the ring of truth, as it is cohesive and answers logically so many questions that human science simply avoids due to contradictions in their theories. This is instantly perceived by those open to the truth of what we say, and our track record on predictions thus does not scare these individuals. Those who are threatened in some way by the truth, either due to the position they hold in human society or because they are frightened at the thought of their lives being torn apart, attack. Some of those who know we are telling the truth are attacking to make life easier for themselves until they can run to their bunkers, or are hiring people to attack for this reason. Those who are themselves so fearful they cannot contemplate the awful scenarios we paint are by far the majority of those disparaging Nancy and ourselves. They will only get more shrill as matters get worse. The elite will stop attacking or having their minions attack. As matters get worse as they will be packing up and leaving for their enclaves or bunkers.

About emanation illness -- is it possible that feelings of time slips or parallel universe slips are aspects of this?

Illnesses coming from the swirling core of the Earth or from the chemicals in the tail of Planet X dropping into Earth's atmosphere account for dropping immune systems, nausea, dizziness, menstrual problems, and an increase in albinism.

Any sense that time has changed and the like are due to stress causing a sense of dissociation, a common reaction among those under stress.

Can the Zetas give us a date for when the Second Sun will reappear ? This does not give any clues as to the timing of the shift so they shouldn't have a problem with this .

We have often explained that we wish to keep the establishment off kilter, so that the cover-up breaks. Of what importance is this detail to you? Minor importance, compared to what the establishment would do with this information. They would have a handy explanation in the media, timed with the emergence of the Second Sun. We wish for these anticipated events, and others the establishment has not even thought of as yet, to be a surprise!

The Christmas season has gone. Can we know now what should be happen in that time?

When we indicated that some sort of surprise would happen during the Christmas season, something global, we were very careful not to indicate what that might be. The Christmas Hammer of course emerged December 19-22, and will return at an unnamed date. This should suffice, but there is more that is coming shortly. The Earth has moved left, placing Planet X to the right in the view toward the Sun from Earth. This is certainly a factor that would bring back the Second Sun sightings. We hinted that the light towers seen in Iraq, caught on video in Iraq at night, are a taste of things to come. We have frankly stated that an increasingly violent wobble can be expected, bringing exponentially increased earthquakes. Look to any and all of these things to be occurring, on just what date we will not say!

What do the Zetas have to say about the racial calamity that will inevitably unfold once systems really start breaking down in the US - i.e. prolonged periods without electricity due to extreme weather or earth changes? Seems this is a ticking time bomb as the Mexicans and blacks are filled with hatred for whites and would love a situation of lawlessness to descend into total anarchy. I don't see the Zetas address racial issues much and am really interested in what they have to say on this.

When people anticipate a time when the grid will be down, phones down, roads torn up so that travel is virtually impossible unless on foot, they imagine reactions to this environment as though nothing in the lives of the common man had changed except the disruptions. The police and military will be afflicted with their own internal worries. Orders will be given and not acted upon. Posts will be deserted. Gut wrenching fear will afflict many, who will react by running, frantically, or becoming despondent. If someone is not reacting with concern for their person, they will be reacting with concern for their families. Do you think a Hispanic family man is going to take the opportunity to go shoot his boss, or will he save his family? If hatred were that strong to begin with, it would have been acted upon before that point in time. Each individual, and each family, will be beset by anxiety. If hostilities break out, it will be over blocked roads, or a refusal to help when requested. You will find a car out of gas with the owner just sitting in the driver's seat, catatonic. Steps to be taken might be to share gas or push the car out of the way, or to attack the driver. These circumstances have nothing to do with race, but with panic.

Mail this Page to a Friend.

ZetaTalk: GodlikeProduction Live

written March 22, 2008 on the GodlikeProduction live chat.

McCain Conflates Shiite Iran And Sunni Al Qaeda, Needs To Be Corrected By Lieberman [Mar 18] <http://thinkprogress.org/2008/03/18/mccain-iran-al-qaeda/> Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) has spent a majority of his presidential campaign trying to convince voters that he is the most qualified to tackle foreign policy issues. Of course, McCain's supposed prescient understanding of foreign policy has been proven faulty over and over. Today, as the Washington Post's Cameron Barr and Michael Shear report, McCain further undermined his claim to be the best qualified on matters of foreign policy, when he repeated a mistaken claim that Iran was training al Qaeda fighters. He made the same assertion on right-wing Hugh Hewitt's radio show last night [March 17]. The "common knowledge" McCain cites is simply false. Far from working together, Iran and al Qaeda represent opposing sides in the Iraq civil war. Al Qaeda is a Sunni Muslim extremist group, while Iran is ruled by Shiites, where they make up 90 percent of the population. McCain, the so-called foreign policy expert, is confusing reports that Iran was aiding Shiite insurgents in Iraq - one of the groups that virulently opposes al Qaeda. [and from another] Green Zone Follies [Feb 25] <http://www.tbrnews.org/Archives/a2818.htm#001> Here is just a personal vignette of an experience I and my psychologist buddy had with the Republican probable nominee, Senator McCain. There was the Senator all by himself, sitting on a folding chair by a card table. Then his lips moved but he said nothing. He looked up and smiled. (My wife's grandfather did just that.) And the Senator may have been sitting right near us but believe me, he was somewhere else. Then he began a conversation with someone who wasn't there. We started to go back the way we came when some civilian came in. "It's time to go to the meeting, John," but McCain just smiled and kept on talking to the table. The civilian said, "All right, gentlemen, time to go. The Senator is very tired and has jet lag." And when we left, the Senator was talking complete nonsense. Later, one of the staff personnel told both of us that the Senator had "a little accident" and he had to change his pants. My friend, who is a pro, said he was very obviously suffering from pre-Alzheimer's and believe me, although I am not trained, this one was a pure space case. They must know this.

John McCain has been protected from exposure during this campaign. The early dropout of most of the Republican candidates has allowed him to escape the hard campaigning knocks that Clinton and Obama are throwing at each other. The earlier debates are notable as a chance for each candidate to air a view, not truly debate. He has not had to answer charges as Obama has, nor had to evade them actively as Clinton has had to do. Media clips are of McCain making a statement, at most. As those close to the campaign of McCain are aware of his mental lapses, they will try to protect him from exposure by limiting debates with Obama going into the general election. They will try to assuage any concerns Republicans have about McCain's obvious senility with a strong vice president on the ticket.

Senility is most obvious when a sufferer is in new or strange places, not grounded. When on familiar ground, the sufferer has many mental pathways to rely upon. Thus when in his home state of Arizona, or in the Senate, or talking about issues familiar to his senate role, he seems solid. But when away from home in the Middle East, he has been befuddled and caught at this. In that the general election will bring up subjects he is not versed in, like the economy, and force him to at least a few debates with Obama, there is a strong likelihood of more slips where his early senility will express itself.

Obama Campaign Demands Probe into State Department Passport Records Breach [Mar 20] http://rawstory.com/news/2008/BREAKING_Obama_demands_probe_into_passport_0320.html Two contract employees of the U.S. State Department's Bureau of Consular Affairs have been fired, and a third has been disciplined after it was discovered that they accessed Sen. Barack Obama's passport records without a specific need to do so ... occurring on January 9, February 21, and March 14 of this year. [and from another] Maura Harty: State Department Official In Charge During Two Of The Breaches An Ambassador Under Clinton [Mar 21] http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2008/03/21/maura-harty-state-depart_n_92693.html MSNBC noted a Clinton connection to the story. The network reported that Maura Harty, the State Department official in charge of the Bureau Of Consular Affairs during the first two breaches of Obama's passport, had served as an ambassador under Bill Clinton. Harty was a consular affairs chief until the end of last month when she retired from foreign service work. Before her stint as the assistant secretary of state of consular affairs, Hardy was an ambassador to Paraguay under President Bill Clinton.

Maura Harty, the former Bill Clinton ambassador to Paraguay, was leaving anyway. If her suppression of the first two breaches into Obama's file had been discovered, she would have been excused a few weeks early. What did she have to gain? Another Clinton appointment! If one examines her bio, it is clear that her ambassadorship was the highlight of her career. For anyone doubting that the Clinton campaign was behind this breach, examine the facts. Once this Clintonite, Harty, was no longer the supervisor, the next breach was properly reported. Three individuals, not connected to each other, were "curious" enough to take a risk. Each had been assured they would be financially compensated, and if they stuck to their story about being "curious" they could not be prosecuted. They were all promised a healthy financial payment for any information they gleaned. Harty covered herself by terminating these contractors, and for some slight that would not get them into trouble. Thus they all thought they had the crime covered.

But after Harty's scheduled exit as supervisor, the Clinton campaign still did not have enough information and pressed yet another contractor. This time, without a Clintonite at the helm, the whistle was blown and Obama was informed of the breach. Will there be a prosecution? Not unless one of the co-conspirators confesses, which is unlikely. What was the Clinton campaign looking for? A passport file contains personal information on place of birth and social security number, none of which is that difficult to come by. It also contains the stated reason for any foreign travel, and this is what the campaign leaders were looking for. Obama traveled extensively to Africa, the Middle East, and Russian satellite countries. Did Obama intend to contact any organization with terrorist ties? The Clinton campaign certainly hoped so. Hillary is losing and is desperate to start a smear campaign against Obama, but this episode will prove to be disastrous for Hillary.

Now that Eliot Spitzer has been "contained", will someone else within the legal system continue his investigations of Wall Street, the sub-prime debacle, etc. leading to arrests in corruption cases? Will the new governor of NY be as aggressive in crime and corruption fighting?

Spitzer was taking delight in playing cat and mouse with those on Wall Street he pursued, being ruthless even when the target was basically innocent. Spitzer was tough, yes. Fair, no. As governor, Spitzer was not the prosecutor in any case. Someone else has been in charge of investigating Wall Street for some time.

Cheney seems to be stuck on the old script regarding Iran. Does he honestly think people take him seriously when he raves about the "Iranian threat" these days? Has he not noticed the change in demeanor of the Bush3 clone on this matter?

Put yourself in Cheney's shoes. He is dying of heart disease. He could go for a heart transplant but fears not surviving the surgery or being killed while on the table. Both are very real possibilities. He is trying to go out with a bang, achieving as much control and dominance over the world as he possibly can in order to pad his resume going into the next world, which will surely be one of the prison planets. Thus he continues to beat this drum, which he hopes will put the US in control of all the oil fields in the Middle East, and keeps trying to incite martial law in the US so he can remain in power. Has he noticed the Bush clone switch? Frankly not, as he and the Bush persona, regardless of which clone it was, have never been close!

Will we soon observe any regular, patterned disruptions to earth like the periodic sweeping arms of the sun that used to magnetically jolt the entire earth? The regularity of such events was beginning to cause many to wonder.

As we have explained the Earth is currently in lockdown with Planet X, which is coming at the Earth like a crab with pincers on either side. The Earth is more crowded in this pinch than formerly, with Venus and the Dark Twin both in the pinch, so a ricochet is not occurring because movement is not possible. In the past, it was this ricochet, bouncing around in the pinch, which caused the sweep dynamics. Instead, we have a tightly held Earth being jolted back and forth in a violent wobble. This has manifested weather wobbles, severe weather changes with tornadoes and hurricane force winds out of season and occurring in places not expecting them and occurring more frequently. The Earth plates are under more stress, and earthquakes are on the increase as are stretch disasters.

The Puppet Master appears to be supporting the US financial system directly now with loans to banks that have negative reserves and improperly valued collateral. I assume that he deems this obviously a better option than letting our economy explode as it allows for a more orderly transition to a state of at least partial preparation for Planet X. Has the House of Rothschild been allowed or even encouraged to rise and flourish over the centuries for just such an eventuality? The need to confront and control national tyrants as they rise up and threaten stability or the need to maintain stability in a Planet X caused societal collapse?

We have explained that the Earth at present is a schoolhouse for young souls to sort out their spiritual orientation - Service-to-Other or Service-to-Self. As such, those who are adept at Service-to-Self practices do rise to the top of corporations or countries and acquire wealth. It should be noted that the Bush administration is the one stepping in and rescuing hedge funds such as Bear Stearns, not the Puppet Master. The Bush administration's alliances are with Wall Street. To the extent that banks would be forced into failure, the Puppet Master cares, but these matters are primarily resolved by having stronger banks acquire the weaker ones. No rescue by the Puppet Master has in fact occurred, as yet! This is the Bush administration, trying to rescue "their base".

During the shift, will human-kind experience an awakening? Will we shift into another dimension?

Several things are going on simultaneously. The Earth is scheduled for a Transformation, which entails only allowing those souls who are highly Service-to-Other to reincarnate on Earth while removing those souls who are highly Service-to-Self to prison planets and taking those souls who are undecided in their spiritual orientation to another world to continue their deliberations. This new planet is a water planet, and their next incarnation will be into a type of octopus. The Transformation is happening now, and will continue apace for about the next 100 years. Simultaneously the Earth is experiencing an Awakening to the alien presence. Mass sightings are increasing, more contactees are reaching out for contact with the aliens, and during the chaos of the pole shift conscious contact with benign aliens will occur to some extent. A switch to the next density, 4th density, will not occur until the inhabitants of Earth are almost 100% Service-to-Other, which requires many humans who will survive the pole shift to live out their lives and then leave the Earth for either a prison planet or their next home, the water planet.

A lot of people have been talking about HAARP and seem to blame everything on it. The major flooding in the Midwest, they blame HAARP. The 7.2 earthquake in China, they blame HAARP. I'm sick of everyone blaming HAARP for these natural disasters caused by Planet X's arrival, can you please put HAARP to rest? Didn't you already say that HAARP failed years ago?

HAARP is a legitimate program that measured the Earth's magnetic field and is primarily located near the magnetic N Pole of Earth in Alaska. There is disinformation about a program under the same name that supposedly can control weather or create earthquakes, manmade disasters. For instance, Hurricane Katrina was supposedly caused by man, not by nature. These theories are patently untrue. Man does not have this control, as we have stated early in the ZetaTalk saga.

The last week, myself, and many others have felt very different. At times it almost feels like my head is a pressure cooker, eyes feel weird, agitated and nervous at times for no reason. A lot of us feel like we have come to the point where we are sick of all the BS in this world and can't wait any longer for things to change. At times it just feels like all the energy is sucked from you. Many reports of ears ringing, ringing a lot actually. It is hard to explain but there is a strong feeling that something is happening, can you please comment on the feelings we are having? It is very hard to describe but I can't help but feel we are on the verge of some major changes.

Physical symptoms due to the presence of Planet X have been reported since this rogue planet arrived in the inner solar system in 2003. Some of these symptoms are due to the swirling core of the Earth, which is roiling because of the interloper. The White Buffalo of legend and the increase in albinism among animals lately is not an accident. It is an emanation from the core that causes this albinism, as we have explained. Cave creatures do not have coloration, because none is needed. The signal is an emanation from the rock, and this emanation has increased to affect surface creatures. We have stated that illness in general will increase due to the core roiling, and it has. Another illness is caused by the tail of Planet X, which wafted the Earth in 2003 when it first arrived in the solar system, and will increasingly be wafting the Earth as we approach the pole shift. There are petrochemicals in this tail, creating the light towers that emerged and were caught on videotape in Iraq and on film in Germany, and Canada. More than a year ago many were noting, and posting on message boards, a ringing in the ears, a dizziness and nausea, with women reporting disrupted periods. Then there are those who are earthquake sensitives, and sense when the rock is under stress beneath them. We can only say that all these symptoms are temporary, and most will be relieved when the pole shift happens and the interloper rushes out of the solar system.

I have been watching the sunset and the Moon's location casually the last couple months and have noticed recently the sun setting way to far toward the northeast. Also it seems the Moon has been out of whack. I'm no astronomer but took an astronomy class in college, so I have a basic understanding. My question is, has the Sun recently begun setting much farther North? And has the Moon's orbit been heavily affected recently?

One will notice the Earth's wobble depending upon where one is on the Earth's surface. The Moon has had an extreme tilt since early 2004, as it has been trying to evade the heavy traffic lane of particle flows around the Earth's equator. Only at the full and new moon points will the Moon be close to where expected. The wobble will continue to get more extreme, and violent, as we approach the last weeks.

I saw Dick Cheney in Iraq giving his speech, he looks near death. Very near death. Is he one stroke away from death?

It is no secret that the Cheney heart is in failure, and another heart attack would kill him. He will in any case die from heart failure unless he gets a transplant, which he will not allow himself to do.

So the pole shift won't happen during this current trimester? Not enough happening so I assume the next candidate would be the August trimester for a possible pole shift?

We have given enough description on the last weeks - the sequence and timing - to allow mankind to gauge the timing of the pole shift when the last weeks commence. Nancy has computed the whole sequence to be approximately 7 weeks, and this is accurate enough. That we have previously stated that the Planet X complex would be seen in the skies, undeniably, 7 weeks before the shift is another clue that this guess is not far off. We have stated that the pole shift would happen at the end of a magnetic trimester, at the end of an April, an August, or a December, approximately. Thus, for this particular trimester, it would be accurate to say that the pole shift will not happen at the end of this April. Correct.

I've read in the aftertimes that the Pacific NW would be good as there would be fish for food. I was wondering if the Olympic forest was safe enough to ride things out as there are 6-8000ft peaks and freshwater and does not seem volcanically connected to the Rainier / St. Helens range. Also will there be any warnings before a big one hits here?

As we have explained, we are not allowed to warn mankind about the exact timing or location of earthquakes or other natural disasters. General guidelines are OK. Specifics are not OK. We are obliged to operate in compliance with these rules. Your description of the safety factors - high peaks and fresh water sources and the lack of active volcanoes - is a good start. Consider evidence of recent mountain building, as this would indicate instability in the area. Remember that we have stated that all volcanoes active within the last 10,000 years are likely to become active again during this pole shift. Also, consider the direction of the winds, after the pole shift, and ensure that your fresh water will not be under volcanic dust.

There are various books about the highly sensitive people. For what I read their nervous system is more sensitive than others. Only these books don't speak about aliens and so. And that those people always existed. That they were the advisors to the kings and so. I also read that this is also common in the animal kingdom, sensitive animals and so. I wonder if the Zetas could say something more about this issue, and if this has to do with the genetic engineering that was done and so?

A naturally nervous nature, being high strung, does not indicate contactee status. Animal species differ in this regard, depending upon whether being nervous and high strung increased the species' chances of survival. Within a species, this is likewise true. Such characteristics are bred into or out of a species by natural selection. Being nervous can allow a creature to escape danger and hover over its young, thus enhancing survival. Or it may merely torture the creature so it cannot seek food or a mate, decreasing those genes among survivors.

If the Zetas wish to answer, what kind of weather (climate, geology, astronomy) can we expect this spring and going into summer?

We have predicted that the weather will get more extreme on all fronts. Temperature swings, extreme enough that it will seem that the seasons are blending into one another. Drought and deluge swings, which will switch about unexpectedly. Absolute unpredictability, so the weathermen throw their hands up. You can also expect an increased wobble, the stars not where expected and the Sun and Moon seemingly out of position. Earthquakes will increase in severity and frequency, but in particular the stretch zones will be active, silently adjusting and creating chaos in mankind's infrastructure.

Why do the Zeta's waste their time with political questions or talking about politics? They themselves state that politics is in the hands of man, and they have no control over it whatsoever. I distinctly remember when Obama was running that the Zetas said that he could not possibly win. He wasn't one of the candidates that the PTB was fronting, so the Zetas said he would not survive. They also stated that Hillary would have skeletons in the closet that would prohibit her from becoming a viable candidate. Obama and Hillary are both very viable. It is very obvious that either one of them will most likely be president of this country. The Zetas should not comment on any politics since this is indeed in the "hands of man". Just about every topic the Zetas discuss is in the hands of man, so they should not comment whatsoever. The year 2003 was in the hands of man, as is the present year upon us.

Our statement was that the Democratic party would not want to risk running with a black man or a woman as a first time event, as they desperately wanted to win the White House. This may still be the feeling but they hardly have a choice as the people's vote has pushed this choice upon them. Hillary does have skeletons in her closet, and some of these have emerged, such as her advocacy of NAFTA. She is only beginning to be caught in lies. The reason we comment upon US politics is because

1. humans ask these questions, as you have here, and
2. control of the White House is important as the US is the most powerful country in the world due to the size of its military.

What really happened in Columbia-Ecuador-Venezuela regarding the FARC massacre and the Laptop with "proof" Venezuela aided the FARC's?

Venezuela, as a country, is not officially aiding the FARC's, but individual citizens cannot be controlled completely. It is common practice for rebels to run across a border in order to evade capture, and this is nothing new. In that the Bush administration has been trying to achieve a coup in Venezuela, to remove Chavez from power, and has failed in these attempts, they have been trying to get a neighboring country to create turmoil in Venezuela. Thus, many of these accusations are false, laid out by the CIA or their ilk. Chavez is no fool, and is countering these attempts effectively, thus "proof" disappears.

Some time ago, when asked about FBI agent John O'Neil and his death at the World Trade Center, the Zetas said he was set up. This article discusses the NYPD's counter-terrorism unit and how the FBI has frozen them out of critical information, much as they did with O'Neil. Is this the same internal FBI group that set up O'Neil and are they aligned with the Bushes and in the know about Planet X?

<http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/23751950/>

The FBI wishes to protect itself. It has many dark secrets to hide. Consider that for 40 years Hoover was at the helm and was a flamboyant gay man, dancing about in a pink dress on occasion. Yet publicly he prosecuted the gays. There were of course insiders in the FBI who allowed 911 to happen, just as there were insiders in the military and other federal agencies. None of them has been removed! They operated with impunity because those around them or above them were of the same mind-set. They were assisted from within the NYC government by those knowledgeable and looking the other way, for instance. This was a fairly vast operation. This was also true of the JFK assassination, the Martin Luther King assassination, and the Iran Contra operation. Those in the know keep their mouths shut or are killed, and those who suspect are terrified of asking questions.

There has been talk in our local military circles that there will be a call-up in September or for sure October. With everything going badly for the top administration, are they planning a new Iran assault now that Fallon has been moved out of the way? What types of "October surprise" should we prepare for? Isn't it prudent to bring possible plans into the open many months in advance so the risk of knee jerk election reactions can be minimized?

Of course the Bush administration is expected to get more desperate as their time in office shortens. They have already tried, numerous times, to invoke martial law and to start a conflagration with Iran. They realize they are boxed in, blocked on many fronts, but continue to hold out hope. What is known is that the contingent blocking them has held and is effective. Fallon felt comfortable enough with his backups to resign, for instance. Another source of comfort is that the third Bush clone is now in the Oval Office, and is not inclined to start a war with Iran as the prior two clones were. Yet another source of comfort should be that voter fraud has been prevented during the 2006 elections. And since the New Hampshire primary, which Hillary stole, voter fraud has been prevented during the primary season also. The good guys are winning! Take heart!

On a scale of 1-10, from the level that the earth changes are today, how much "worse" will it get in 2008?

If you consider that you are perhaps between a 2 and a 3, it could be considered to rise to a 6 by the end of the year. 10 being the pole shift, of course. This is taking into consideration all Earth changes, such as weather, winds, floods, earthquakes and stretch zone accidents, and political and economic upheaval.

Can the Zs comment on the fact that the "big one" in California will occur before the 7 week period of seeing Planet X and the pole shift occurring?

California will have several big ones. The San Andreas Fault line runs along its coastline, and many fault lines run inland from the major fault. We have stated that an adjustment will occur from the San Diego area up toward Yellowstone and that this will happen well before the shift. We cannot be more specific than this and stay within the rules we are obliged to honor!

The Sun's output is higher in microwave output on us right now. Can you comment on how much more radiation is coming through and will this be continuing to go up?

In 2003 when Planet X arrived into the inner solar system, it was noted that sunlight had increased in intensity. This was due to the tail elements being spread about between the Earth and Sun, causing reflected sunlight to bounce back toward Earth. Crops matured weeks earlier than expected, and people commented that they became sunburned more readily. As this situation has continued since 2003, it has become "normal" for this brightness to be present, and discussion of the "white Sun" has diminished. The tail has now returned, but a smearable oil has also arrived, also caused by the tail. This creates atmospheric oddities, such as halos around the Moon. An ultrabright Sun will not be the issue as the pole shift approaches, as much as increasing debris arriving on Earth - fireballs, meteors, hail and red dust. Volcanic gloom will at some point also increase and add gloom, not brightness, to the skies.

Another Mississippi River bridge is suddenly showing signs of strain. Will there be more dramatic bridge disruptions along this river? [and from another] As recently as January, an engineering review found no deficiencies in the bridge. It was previously inspected in September 2003, August 2004, and twice in August 2007, according to MnDOT. <http://www.finance-commerce.com/article.cfm/2008/03/22/> [and from another] Officials Close Steel Bridge in Minnesota After Bent Plates Are Found [Mar 22] <http://www.nytimes.com/2008/03/22/us/22bridge.html?> A 51-year-old steel truss bridge over the Mississippi River in St. Cloud, Minn., was abruptly shut down on Thursday after inspectors found that its gusset places were bending - a problem similar to the one believed to have critically weakened the Interstate 35W bridge that collapsed in Minneapolis in August. Inspectors examining the bridge that carries Highway 23 in St. Cloud found a problem similar to the one on a collapsed bridge. [and from another] Via Email 3/22: Another large bridge was closed yesterday in Minnesota. This one also crosses the Mississippi, and is located in St Cloud. This bridge follows that geographical fracture line 'split' through the state, which is mostly solid granite. I am somewhat directly between the two areas of concern, located at K-17 on the map. The rotten egg/sulfur smell is back, and I'm picking up a high pitched frequency in my teeth, akin to a sonic dental tool. This frequency is different than the one I could feel before the 35W collapse, I could feel that through my whole body, this one I feel in my mouth and sinus cavity.

This is clear evidence of continuing adjustments affecting Minnesota. It is the diagonal pull on the N American continent which is causing this stretch adjustment, which is silent but just as deadly as an earthquake. The infrastructure is pulling apart! We stated that bridges on the Mississippi would be devastated when the New Madrid Fault adjusted, and that such adjustments would occur in steps, not just a single large quake. Here's more proof of the accuracy of our predictions!

The gamma rays that are reaching Earth next Wednesday, will bring a problem?

We have stated that the Sun's seeming increased activity is nothing more than ruffles on its surface, due to the presence of Planet X which disturbs particle flows in and out of the Sun. Thus, you can anticipate that any emanation from the Sun will not exceed prior emanations from the Sun. The establishment may on occasion try to use the Sun as an excuse, claiming it is responsible for some problem the Earth is struggling with, rather than be up front about the presence of Planet X. This is certainly likely to be the case if satellites start having extreme problems, or electromagnetic surges or brownouts occur on Earth as they did during late summer of 2003. This is not the Sun causing this, but the presence of Planet X and its charged tail.

Since Bush 2 is gone, and Bush 3 in place, will we see the cover-up beginning to break quickly or at least beginning? From the Zetataalk: Market Freefall June 19, 2004, ./index/zeta116.htm

Replacing clone Bush 2 with Bush 3 was done primarily to ensure that a war with Iran would not be pushed. The clone now in the White House should basically be considered a sleeper cell, to block the worst that the other clone would have approved of and expedited if given a chance. Bush 3 will act much like the other clones, so as not to incite suspicion. The market is not under his control, as matters are far worse than publicly presented. We have addressed the steps we anticipate for this to be controlled, such as price controls and reduction in bank services and the like. A breakup of the Planet X cover-up is also something he may be able to effect, but if he shows too much enthusiasm for this, he will be countered by his own people! His role is not an easy one, for this reason. He can take action, but once this is done, his cover is blown!

Mail this Page to a Friend.

ZetaTalk: GodlikeProduction Live

written February 20, 2010 on the GodlikeProduction live chat.

What is America's fascination w/ large families now and putting them on TV (18 kids and counting, Jon and Kate plus 8, Octomom, etc)? The one mother (18 kids and counting) "I'll have as many kids as the Lord gives me" and they're actually up to 19 kids now. Coincidentally, they're also hyper-religious. It seems that in the coming times there's not going to be enough food for everybody and deciding to have extremely large families right now is kinda selfish. What's going on here?

Many industrialized countries are reaching a zero population growth curve, for instance Japan, Russia, and even the United States. Without immigrants the populations of these countries would shrink. This is an issue for governments who feel they must plan for the youth to care for the aged, whether physically or via financial support such as the Social Security system. Quite frankly, these shows featuring massive families who worship having children as though it were their religion are promoted by those in government who feel the population must be encouraged to have more children. Some countries, such as Japan, have tried to bribe young mothers to start their families, without much success. This is another approach.

This year, Siberia is awaiting a large flooding and in this connection and write to you, hoping to help my people living near Siberian rivers. What could you Zetas to advice to local governors (and rescue teams) of Siberia, to prevent flooding? My friend from local government of Tomsk city hard works on that, right now, and your message will forwarded to him fully, including this text. Your GLP-chat published answer would be much helpfull to all Siberians.

We have warned that during the hour of the pole shift there will be tidal waves rolling inland, so that one should plan on being 100 miles inland and 200 feet above today's sea level in order to avoid being overcome by these tides. At the coastline, the tides can be up to 500-600 feet high. Rivers will also backwash during such sloshing of the oceans, such that rivers will go over their banks, not being able to drain. This can cause immense flooding inland, beyond what is in the memory of man, so even inland the populations should anticipate being 200 feet above sea level. All this will subside within weeks of the pole shift but be replaced by an even larger horror. Within 2 years after the pole shift, the sea level will rise 675 feet above today's level, due to the swelling of the ocean floors from heat due to friction from the sliding crust. This will flood Siberia, almost entirely, so those who survived the high tides of the pole shift must take to boats, perhaps houseboat complexes, to migrate to higher land.

Just as clarification on an answer from last week's session. It involves the quarantine in between the Anunnaki and Earthlings. It was said that they are quarantined from interacting with each other. Does this mean visually as well? I can only surmise that the Anunnaki can see the Earth very clearly. Is NASA able to see their ships and some of their endeavors?

Yes, the Anunnaki are aware of man's probes and shuttles. No, man is not allowed to see the Anunnaki ships or settlements as the reason for the quarantine is so that man does not have inordinate fear that their old slave masters will return. Many souls on Earth recall those days, from their past lives.

What are the odd shapes at different angles showing up on SOHO images that look like laser beams, specifically these pictures:

http://api.ning.com/files/./20100220_0142_c3_1024.jpg?width=721

http://api.ning.com/files/./20100215_0054_c2_512v1200.jpg

http://api.ning.com/files/./20100208_121630_n4euB_284.jpg?width=721

These are yet another example of Moon Swirl sightings, as is the String of Pearls phenomena. The L shape, sometimes with addition lines coming from the central point of juncture, is due to minor swirls stemming from a single large Moon. These swirls are within a charged dust cloud, and when the charge differs, they attempt to stand away from each other, as static will make your hair stand on end and separate.

Is this PX proper, one of its moons, or something different, in the movie It can be seen moving around:

<http://api.ning.com/files/./aheadcrop2.jpg?width=718>

http://api.ning.com/files/./ahead_20100218_euvi_195_512.mpg

The tail of Planet X is composed of dozens of moons the size of the Earth's Moon, much debris, and charged red dust. Depending upon the angle, sunlight can blaze off a portion of the dust cloud around a Moon Swirl, so it looks like a splash of light with a drifting tail. Or it can blaze off the individual moons in a swirl, each surrounding by its own dust cloud, so it appears as a String of Pearls. Or under close inspection, the individual moons may be visible.

Can the Zetas offer a current comment regarding the masking of PX now? (Simulating seasons, limited masking of PX sightings, etc.). This relates to the willingness of TPTB to be more open I understand but as the elite are driven by fear of people's reaction to the knowledge of PX whereas their real concern should be the rage that will be forthcoming at the cover up and its perpetrators. Do they not understand that the continued denial on their part serves to dig their graves deeper? This rigidity of thought will not serve them well in the end. The zetas continue to be reluctant to disclose certain issues and tend to carry on the concept of the white lie in many areas apart from the timeline of the shift. This statement is not meant as a criticism. There is benefit in many of these misdirections as someone who is aware of the greater chess games afoot can divine the long term greater good that will come about as a result of how the Zetas play this game, but individuals could benefit if selective messages are tempered by their own insight or interpretations from their guides. Are many of the statements by the Zetas meant to trigger individual meaning and revelations that are appropriate for each specific individual?

This is an extremely complicated situation but you are asking for simplistic resolutions. Give us the information, is your plea. We have stated, repeatedly, that the Awakening, to either the alien presence or the truth about Planet X and its pending passage, is paced. We have explained the Element of Doubt necessity re the alien presence, as many worlds which do not have this element present during their Awakening end up savaging those among them who are eager for contact. Your world is not far from the days when supposed witches were burned at the stake, and some members of the Christian religion are still calling aliens "demons" and suggesting that those who talk to aliens should be "stoned" to death. The issue with Planet X, as we have repeatedly explained, is that those in the establishment, with political power who fear the panic of the populace, would be inclined to mow down innocents in the street if the absolute knowledge of the pending passage were to be known before they are dislodged from power. What is starting to happen, and which is a trend that will escalate soon, is that those in power are retreating to their bunkers, leaving their jobs, to avoid this day. You are making your demands for the truth to be absolutely known because you want your personal comfort facilitated! Not because you are contemplating what this would do to the general welfare.

Given that the Zeta/human hybrids will replace humans on Earth in 100 years or so, would it be accurate to say that the human experiment has failed to fulfill the hopes of its master geneticists? Or, did the human experiment work during an earlier time, but it needs to be modified now to function well on the Earth of the future?

Would you say that the early models of the telephone were a failure? They served during their time, as they were intended to do. 3rd density models are not sufficient for 4th density existence, as we explained in the Hybrids section. They were not a failure during 3rd density. Did we say that?

Since Zetas are in regular, conscious contact with discarnate beings, they must have an accurate sense of what life in non-physical form is like. Thus, do Zetas fear death like most humans do, or do Zetas consider death simply a different type of opportunity to learn and grow spiritually?

Death is merely the passage from one incarnation to another, and not a source of fear. We have explained that those humans who express a fear of death are actually stating that they fear the critique they are about to undergo with their Spirit Guides. If they failed to complete their mission, failed to resolve and learn their lesson so that a repeat will be necessary, then they are reluctant to die. Some Service-to-Self souls also fear death, or express a reluctance, if their current life has offered them a soft spot - wealth, power, good looks, and freedom from pain - and they know that the next incarnation is unlikely to be as advantageous.

A few Saturdays ago it was said that close observation was being done to see if Nancy was going to be allowed more media attention. Can the Zeta's comment on how this is coming along?

There were no adverse reactions. Expect more exposure in the future!

Last chat I asked you about when PX entered our system and when it stopped. Your answer "in early 2003 it entered the solar system at a rapid pace" is obviously says me nothing because "early" is not a concrete date. Look:

1) During GLP session on 8.08.2009 you stated "Planet X was visible in the evening sky in late March, 2003, and then moved within Earth's orbit so it was lost in the glare of the Sun", and so we do not have CDD images after April 12.

2) But in the article "Planet X Distance Guide" ./teams/rogue/jdistanc.htm PX is calculated to be only near Jupiter in April 12.

3) And in the article "A Twirling Wobble" it is said that only around 15th May "... Planet X was just coming into the inner solar system".

So, here is a contradiction of 3 statements and I would like you at least confirm the accurate date of when PX entered Pluto's orbit and then the Earth's orbit, because scanning ZT I collided with general phrases and such contradictions.

Your point 2) was written by a human, not by us. You are splitting hairs to say just when the glare of the Sun affected visibility - after April 12, around May 15, and this is petty. This will be the last such petty question from you that we will address. What on Earth are you doing with your time?

How many moons does PX have?

Dozens of large moons, and countless smaller moons. We do not take an inventory, as it is irrelevant.

The Zetas mentioned that getting a message in a person's subconscious is more effective than actually spelling it out to them. How exactly does that play out? For example, if a person knows the message in their conscious, then they will also know it in their subconscious. Basically, how does a person's subconscious lead the way? For example, I was thinking of a person who I haven't seen in almost a year, then a few days later, during a snow storm, I forget my wallet, forces me to a building where a friend works, stayed in the building because of the weather, stand in an awkward part, wait, and I see the person. Intuitively I feel like my subconscious made me forget my wallet on that particular day, because I guess an outside force knew it would play out that way, as oppose if it didn't happen on a snowy day. Is that basically how the subconscious works? I've had the Zeta Talk Shamanism page open in my browser for 2 weeks, so it's a topic I'm very curious about.

The subconscious knows and remembers all. The conscious is very selective about what it wants to remember, and will diminish or remove a memory that is distressing. It is also possible for the conscious to segment, so it has no links between memory segments, which are after all only chemical roadways. This allows a distressed human to have multiple personalities or sides, a well known psychological phenomena of humans. We disconnect the conscious during visitations so the visit is recorded only in the subconscious. This is why contactees must build a bridge between their subconscious and conscious during recall. If someone has an intention, or a memory, that is in the subconscious, and the conscious is balking, then such actions as you describe can occur. Consciously, you told yourself that you did not desire to meet this friend again, but subconsciously, you very much desired this.

What's the Zetas take on the Dali Lama and his visit to the White House? His answers at the press conference were very fun to watch. He seemed wise and funny.

The Dali Lama is an old wise soul who knows what to expect from the political arena. He did not get more from his visit than he expected, but then this is seldom the result. He was also not disappointed and very much likes Obama. They have an understanding, but just what this is cannot be explained without revealing Obama's thinking, and as we have stated numerous times, he has asked us not to do this during these chats and we are honoring his request.

Would the Zetas care to comment on whether there is an awakening of contactees currently in progress?

Continually. Many contactees are what we have described as sleeper cells, deliberately not being consciously aware of their status as contactees until the time is such that they need to take action on their subconscious knowledge. This can be because conscious knowledge would threaten their job and the job is needed to support the family, or because they have small children and conscious knowledge would cause a rift in the marriage resulting in divorce. There are few contactees who can have full recall of their status and what they have learned during visitations that will not show this somehow during their daily life, if only by being more dreamy, less conscientious about earning a dollar, or less attentive to a spouse or boss. But as the Earth changes continue to bring clear evidence of the pending passage into the conscious, contactees are making the switch.

What is the difference between soul to soul communication and telepathy, and when is one preferred over the other?

Clearly, telepathy is a brain wave based communication between physical minds, the brain, and soul-to-soul communication does not require a physical brain. The reasons for one method over another, or for face-to-face visits over mere telepathic conversations at a distance, is so varied that no general guide can be given.

Zeta's have said no exact dates for PX's passage but can they share when PX will be visible to the public's naked eyes?

Since we have stated that Planet X will be visible to all some 7.3 weeks before passage, the answer to your question is clearly no, a date will not be given. Please stop trying to game us into an answer as we resent this.

Why are things so quiet? Seems not much going on with the earth changes or in people's personal lives. Over past few weeks things seem to be at a lull for Zeta's response on the chat. Is this some kind of calm before the storm? I put out the Call last Fall and everything seem to be rocking and rolling. Meeting people of like mind, connections coming through, etc. But now since the xmas holiday and the shift to 2010, seems like it's all gone dead. The energy and movement being blocked at every turn. Is there a reason for this the Zetas can share? Have I personally been deemed somehow unworthy and need to accept the fact I will die without being of assistance?

Is this your reason for living? Excitement, and an active social interchange? This may be the complaint of a man now married who used to have a different babe to date every week. What happened to the energy and movement? The question you should be asking is what you have done with what you have been given? Obviously, you don't think in terms of your responsibility to take action or make things happen. Just being the center of attention. Grow up!

Many CEO's and government people around the world are quitting their jobs in the last month or two. Will there be other tell tale signs that something is happening?

If resignations are a clue that those who have heard the rumors and taken them seriously are preparing for a dash to their safe locations, then the actions of those in government or those who are wealthy should be watched for further clues. What is the reaction when disasters such as earthquakes or floods occur? Is the response limited, as though more such disasters are expected at any minute, or is it the traditional response with promises to rebuild everything? Are wealthy people found increasingly in mountain retreats, inland, where formerly at the beach?

Despite the gloomy future, it seems that love is beginning to bloom, like the Zetas said it would. Would they agree this is, indeed, happening?

Constantly. For the reasons we stated: "Love may have a blooming going into the shift, as it ought, those with great love in their hearts responding to the realization that little else matters".

The Zetas said a long while back that the Transformation was going better than expected. Still the same view today?

Our view has not changed.

The magnetosphere is acting up often. Even today, and it also occurred a few times that not only the south pole but also the north pole seems to be gone. The reason for the south pole missing has been explained already by the Zetas but could the Zetas share a light on why the north pole of the magnetosphere is also acting up. From 8 February <http://api.ning.com/files/.../28102.jpg?width=721> Today <http://poleshift.ning.com/profiles/blogs/becoming-more-often-now>

We have stated that Planet X dithers during his 270° roll, such that at times he points his N Pole more directly at Earth, at other times swinging away. Magnetic fields merge in different ways. When the S Pole of Earth seems to disappear, as we have explained, it is because the magnetons are being pulled to the S Pole of Planet X. This lack of returning magnetons is what is causing the radar circles in Australia, as we have explained. And when the Earth's magnetosphere is twisted, it is due to the magnetic field so joining that magnetons from Planet X wrap all the way around the Earth's magnetic field to enter into the Earth's S Pole. Until the Earth begins her severe wobble, there will be no way to determine timing by examination of the magnetosphere. The last weeks will begin when the Earth can no longer chase to the left, trying to avoid Planet X, so that Planet X appears in the sky to the right of the Sun with some regularity - Second Sun sightings. Until then, all is just the result of a dithering relationship between the two planetary magnetospheres.

Maxim magazine has written an expose' of the demise of Karl Rove's IT Guru. In it, he has referenced an anonymous hit man who provides documentation of the black ops. "It ends with the words: 'Connell was not NST' (national security threat)", as if in apology. Who ordered this hit? Rove would not have the authority for a Black Ops. If it was Cheney, why hasn't he just been outed as the dangerous criminal if it was his hand. Why doesn't it raise a lot of eyebrows in agencies if assassinations were/are condoned? <http://www.maxim.com/humor/stupid-fun/86265/mysterious-death-bushs-cyber-guru.html>

Cheney and Rove went off the books constantly, running black ops out of Cheney's office. Just follow the trail of dead bodies. The problem with black ops is that there is no solid proof by which to prosecute, which is why this route is used by the unscrupulous. But the flip side of this is that those who participated fear being eliminated to avoid an expose. This can, in fact, include Cheney himself, and Rove! There is no joy in this camp these days.

Recently a man who'd gotten fed up with the IRS crashed his plane into an IRS building in Austin. Was this man STO Or undecided and just frustrated? Or was he just another STS individual trying to create a body count for himself? Why did he do what he did?

Those who try to avoid paying taxes most often get caught, and with the fines and compounded interest the bill can be a blow. For those who hoped to avoid taxes altogether, this can enrage. He snapped, and committed suicide, which is anger turned inward.

I hit a mental road block when preparing for the shift, which leads me to think there must be more of an awakening to occur in the human conscious, otherwise, all I do is in vain. For instance, in my town, my neighbors, many of which are good of heart, won't even entertain a hint of what may be in our future. All these people, with small, children. Something big has to happen for them to get them motivated to do something to prepare. I am doing what small things I am able to do to prepare, and will share when the time comes, but if I understand ZT correctly, most places won't be able to return to gardening for years after the shift, and you can only live on weeds for so long. I just feel that unless something occurs in the mass consciousness, we will all starve in my town before more food can be grown. (same with most other towns). Seems to defeat the purpose of preparing unless there is a mass awakening of sorts, or something to get people motivated.

Certainly the last weeks will be an awakening. It is not true that gardening will be fruitless! Our statement was that commercial gardening endeavors would fail, almost consistently, but that carefully tended home gardens would not.

Do the Zetas foresee a major explosion of civil strife when Nibiru starts to show up as a large mass in the daytime sky, as George Herbert seemingly is afraid of? Will there be such a bloodletting as often is portrayed in Oahpse during the cyclic "return of the red star"? It would seem to be expected, as the strange sight of the dragon-like anomaly forces mankind to finally come to grips with what the zetas have been warning of. Many may feel a tremendous sense of betrayal, and consequently will want an outlet for their rage. If that occurs, what would be the difference between law enforcement trying to maintain law and order, and forcing the population to "shelter in place", not leaving their communities?

Though the establishment fears panic in the populace, rioting in the streets and looting, we have predicted otherwise. The common man lives in the main from paycheck to paycheck and will without other options plod faithfully in their jobs. Most will be in denial, despite the evidence or any announcements. Most will be in shock and not react. During the last weeks, when it cannot be denied, those who understood what was coming but had delayed going to safer locations because they did not want to give up creature comforts will of course attempt to dash to the hills. Any expectation that martial law will be imposed, effectively, is flawed because those who are to maintain martial law or an embargo will also be running for the hills, leaving their posts. Yes, if those in the establishment who knew what was coming and lied are discovered, unguarded, a lynching could occur. It is likewise true that opportunists might murder someone hated, though this takes place today during disasters, where the cause of death is not investigated closely. Most will be less enraged than stunned, or frantic to save themselves.

Is it possible that the realignment of funds from the huge banks to small local banks create a domino effect that could end the era of big banking, or will it have very little effect on them? [and from another] Americans fed up with the lack of financial reform and the behavior of big Wall Street banks are moving their money to smaller community banks and credit unions. Many are doing so as part Move Your Money, a project that encourages account holders to contribute to financial reform by depositing their funds into better-managed institutions. CNN profiled dissatisfied bank customers in a recent story titled "Take This Bank And Shove It." The customers who were profiled, quit their big banks for multiple reasons

Nothing will save the banking industry, which is held together by a prayer these days. We have stated that paper money, along with jewels and bonds and stocks, will be worthless during the Aftertime. Up until the last weeks, however, there will not be a total collapse of the dollar, though items will go up in price and you will not be able to sell your items for what you deem their worth, no buyers available.

The US Navy has a map of the United States showing areas that they think will be under water in the near future. How accurate is their map? How soon will these areas be under water?

If you want an accurate map, check the ZetaTalk website for the New Geography after the pole shift and land above water within two years after the pole shift.

An AP article titled "Beleaguered US to blow up its chemical stockpiles" appeared on Yahoo News (Feb 19, 2010). It seems that "Iran, Cuba and other US adversaries" are putting pressure on the US to meet treaty obligations to destroy chemicals. "The State Department acknowledges foreign pressure to show progress played a role." According to this report, over many years 90% has been destroyed, mostly by neutralizing them and then taking them to a hazardous waste dump. This process is supposed to be a relatively safe way to dispose of the many deadly chemicals. Now, the Army wants to use explosives to destroy some of these old weapons. People in the two areas where this is supposed to happen (Colorado and Kentucky) are understandably worried. What's happening behind the scenes that would cause the Army to change its tactics? Why does it take so long to dispose of these chemicals?

Disposing of pollutants, including old weapons, is never popular. Everyone has the attitude that it should not take place in their back yard. Congress bickers, and moving sites around is used for political purposes, for bribery or punishment. Any sense of urgency is due to the realization among those at high levels that such weapon deposits could fall into the wrong hands during the chaos of the pole shift. They may be old, but they are not useless!

Here in Ohio my husband and I have been awakened in the early morning feeling the bed shaking. This morning at about 6:30am and a day last week around the same time. These are the most recent occurrences. Yet, nothing is posted on the USGS charts for our area. Can the Zeta's comment that Ohio is having these earthquake shutters?

Such shuddering does not register on seismographs because the whole region is moving, as though in a bowl of jelly. This is equivalent to the whole bed being moved, so you shake, where an earthquake would be equivalent to the mattress falling into two pieces, so you fall to the floor with a single jolt. Nevertheless, this is symptomatic of the tugging and pushing that the Earth is experiencing daily, due to Planet X. 6:30 am your time in Ohio is noon or so Greenwich time, when the Sun and Planet X are positioned over the magnetized Atlantic Rift. This is a pattern long present, since Planet X came into the inner solar system in 2003.

Mail this Page to a Friend.

ZetaTalk: GodlikeProduction Live

written September 12, 2009 on the GodlikeProduction live chat.

Assume somebody would like to be an STO entity very much, but de facto he is still undecided. I would know what makes people still undecided? I mean, what deters people from being an STO entity? What is the main obstacle? Not enough incarnations? Not enough belief? Too much fear? What?

Empathy is something many animals feel for their own species, as this enhances the preservation of the species. Protecting others in the family group or herd or pack or pride is instinct, again allowing the preservation of the species. But in an entity that has enough intelligence to realize it is separate from others, to be conscious of this fact (a requirement for the entity to be capable of sparking a soul), empathy transcends instinct and becomes a conscious desire to help others. Alternatively, it can be ignored as the entity can have a conscious desire to preserve itself, to be self centered and self protective. These choices are made thousands of times during a single incarnation, and on average a thousand incarnation are required to reach the point where the entity is either Service-to-Other or Service-to-Self, consciously. Fear tends to push one into the Service-to-Self orientation, but in almost all situations fear is not a factor. Should one share one's food or hoard, for instance, most often does not involve fear. During the young soul's incarnations, there is a drift in one direction or another.

Which society is more STO oriented - Asian or European?

Neither culture cultivates Service-to-Other more than the other. These are individual decisions, not culture based. In a harsh environment, in fact, Service-to-Other leanings may increase out of horror at what others must endure. But likewise Service-to-Self inclinations might increase in a harsh environment, as the entity sees by example what brutality can accomplish. A society that shares goods and has plenty likewise can influence Service-to-Other tendencies as generosity is presented as a role model, but likewise Service-to-Self tendencies can increase as those who are Service-to-Self will be spoiled and encouraged to dote on themselves.

I have read information on your webpage. You claim, the earth will lean to the left before the pole shift and the sun will rise in the west. But sunrise in the west is not possible, even if the earth would stand upside down. Therefore the earth will have to stop first and begin to rotate in the opposite direction. So there is something wrong with this information. Look at this picture for example. Here stands the earth upside down, but people in Florida could see the sunrise still before it could do people in California.

You are incorrect and not thinking this through, but confusion is understandable. Nancy has reviewed our ZetaTalk on this matter and there is a missing piece of the puzzle, which we are giving you today. You are correct that the Earth continues to rotate in the direction it does today. When the globe is tipped almost upside down, and turning in the same manner as today, land is still moving from what was formerly west to what was formerly east. Sunrise west occurs just after the lean to the left with the globe then sliding its N Pole away from the Sun into the 3 days of darkness. These steps occur because Planet X is approaching from the right, in its retrograde orbit. Even during the 3 days of darkness and days following when the Earth is trying to right itself from being almost upside down, the N Pole is thus still leaning somewhat to the left, avoiding the approaching N Pole of Planet X. The time when the Earth is almost upside down is very brief, not even the span of a day, with the remainder of the 6 days of darkness occurring when the Earth is righting itself from the position it was in during the 3 days of darkness. Thus, the N Pole of Earth is pointing north more than south during these 6 days. These gyrations of Earth occur as the Earth is rolling with Planet X during its 270° roll, in which it moves from having its N Pole nosed into the S Pole of the Sun to pointing its N Pole outward toward Earth (a total 180° turn) and then standing upright with its N Pole up (the remaining 90°). Planet X has been doing the first part of the 270° roll for some years now, ever since it passed the S Pole of the Sun in 2004 and began moving outbound.

The last weeks begin because Planet X moves to station itself almost directly between the Earth and Sun. Before that point the Earth merely has a wobble, allowing its N Pole to be pushed away daily. But as Planet X moves between the Earth and Sun, the Earth comes into the grip of Planet X completely. During the last weeks, the Earth changes from being in an end-to-end alignment with Planet X to being in a side-by-side alignment. It is during the end-to-end alignment, when Planet X is pointing its N Pole directly at the Earth, that the lean to the left and 3 days of darkness occur. But as Planet X continues in its retrograde orbit, its N Pole is no longer coming from the right, but is located to the left of the Earth, and the Earth adjusts by slinging its N Pole to the right. Thus, during the 6 days of sunrise west, the Earth still has its N Pole tipped away from the Sun and the approaching Planet X, but rather than a lean to the left, it has a lean to the right. It is at this point that the Earth switches from being in an end-to-end alignment to being in a side-by-side alignment with Planet X. When Planet X is just at the Ecliptic, it stands upright in alignment with the Sun, the dominant magnet in the solar system. As it switches from pointing its N Pole at Earth, as it had during the many years of the wobble, to completing its 270° roll and pointing its N Pole upward, the Earth follows suit. It is then that the Earth is drawn closer to Planet X, so that only 14 million miles separates them. It is then that the Earth slows in her rotation to a stop, for the week of rotation stoppage.

In the Revelation you can read about a holy city, New Jerusalem, which is placed on a big mountain and which will appear after or during the apocalypses period. Where is this mountain and when we will be able to see the golden city?

We stopped doing Bible interpretations long ago, as it is a waste of time to keep telling people that God did not write this book, nor did Jesus. It is speculation or lies to keep control of the faithful, whom the religious elite feed upon.

You have mentioned after the pole shift lots of volcanoes will erupt. I've found a very good global map of volcanoes on the Smithsonian Institute Global Volcano Program website. http://www.volcano.si.edu/world/find_regions.cfm You can find there every volcano in the world. I've checked my country there and discovered few old inactive volcanoes. And my question is, will even the very old and inactive volcanoes erupt?

Our statement has been that as a general guide, one can assume that if a volcano has been active in the last 10,000 years, it is a candidate for eruption during the coming pole shift.

Can the zetas comment on the water main breaks in Los Angeles and the cracked bridge in SF?

There was a spate of water main breaks in LA and the San Diego area recently. There were multiple breaks in both locations, almost simultaneously. There has also been a rotten cabbage smell in San Francisco as well as a new crack on the bridge to Oakland that had a collapsed section during the quake in 1989, and which was thoroughly inspected afterwards. Nancy is in fact featuring all this in her newsletter tomorrow, so check the archives later re this. We have repeatedly mentioned the bow stress that the N American continent is under, where the Aleutians and the tip of Mexico are force toward each other while the continent is held rigid by its flat top. The stress is showing.

Fox news seems to be pushing gloom and doom (financial, earth changes, etc...) a bit more these days. Is this due to a desire on their part to give the Obama admin a hard time?

Yes. Enough time has passed since the Bush administration left, so they feel their comments will not be associated with the administration that CAUSED the mess in the first place. But the public does not forget that easily.

Still no punishment on the horizon for the 911 murderers after 8 years? Truth agendas seem to be heating up ...

The JFK conspiracy has been alive and well since JFK was assassinated by the CIA, and there will be no revelations on this matter either. The excuse given for these types of cover-ups is that the public cannot handle the truth, would panic or be so disenchanted that they would fail to support the government, fail to pay taxes and the like. Thus, the guilty escape punishment.

What exactly does channeled info mean - that they're talking to the inner plains?

Nancy is in a telepathic conversation with us, and this is not a channeled conversation. Channeling is understood to be where the human body is vacated by the soul incarnating it, and allowed to be possessed temporarily with another soul or group of souls. These temporary incarnations allow the soul or group of souls to utilize the human body's memory and facilities such as vocabulary and language skills or on occasion musical or mechanical skills. This is a simplistic explanation, as most often the incarnating soul does not leave at all but steps aside, so to speak, allowing another to influence the body. The incarnating soul is a participant, thus - part of the team.

I had two remarkable contacts lately through the internet, one with an elf and one with a mermaid. Why do these creatures exist in this world in such a secrecy although they live among us?

They don't. You're a fool.

Our scientists counted repeatedly that about 80 - 90 % of those, who claim they ran across UFO or aliens' observations, have mental violations or great imagination or just want to attract attention. Is it right, that only less than 10 % of "UFO observers are mentally normal? Another percents our scientists counted, when tried to track true UFO observations. Modern ufologists and also UFO-sceptics state that 90 - 98 % of all cases can be explained as "usual phenomenon", and all the rest are still remain unexplained. Are these calculations right?

If I say that 80-90% of scientists are mental cases, would that make it so?

Hello to all of the Kursk! Interested in the question: They say that man is by force of will can do everything, but he can not do something very global (like the Earth to move), and whether there is a limit to the power of the will and ability of man?

Who is "they" and why should you believe them? If you want to believe what "they" say, make them prove it. It would be easily done. Just have one of "them" sit down and with a force of will and do something that they claim can be done! Don't ask us to comment on nonsense that can be proven or disproven easily!

Recently scientists found out so to say "gene of religiousness" - it means that some people genetically are more inclined to be religious, than others. How can you comment that? The same Q is about recently found "gene of altruism" - how can one who have such gene well developed, became more STS? Does this gene change in this case?

Certainly genetics plays a part in the person's ability to be courageous or have a tendency to be fearful, and these tendencies would incline a person to be insecure, thus cling to religion as a savior or for salvation. If the person were not fearful, they might be inclined to be altruistic, forgiving of others, rather than vengeful. Souls are given the opportunity to be incarnated in both types of human bodies during their learning experience, so the souls are not unduly influenced by genetic tendencies, just as they are given the opportunity to be born into poverty or wealth, disability or physical beauty and prowess, and mental retardation or high intelligence.

*I was watching Bob Dean at exopolitics summit barcelona reveal photos for Apollo mission of UFOs near the moon and a ET base on mars and a UFO in the rings of Saturn are these true photographs?
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=_ngVIP0Za9M&feature=channel_page*

Yes, in the main. The Apollo missions recorded many UFO's which swarmed around the shuttles like mosquitoes. That the Annunaki were on Mars is something we have commented about repeatedly and from the start of the ZetaTalk saga. There is no reason, however, for a UFO to try to hide in the rings of Saturn, as this would be problematic as a 3rd Density port. Space is more convenient.

Could the Zetas please comment on the phenomenon known as "compassion fatigue"? In these months before the pole shift and in the Aftertime, many individuals might become afflicted by this puzzling ailment. In fact, I am already suffering from it. I have done social-welfare work for almost 25 years, having felt called to offer myself in service. For many years, I was motivated, empathetic, energetic, and optimistic. However, in the past few years, I have at times felt disillusioned, depressed, confused, exhausted, and even angry. Also, my physical health has suffered. I have honestly considered giving up and isolating myself from the never-ending problems, creating a life where I am the only one to worry about. So, the question for the Zetas is: how do those of us suffering from compassion fatigue get back on track in time to be of service in the upcoming tumultuous era?

We have often stated that to be Service-to-Others means that the entity considers others as often as the self. This means the self is considered, and not just when the self becomes so exhausted that it is at the point of a physical and emotional breakdown. What do you supposed an emergency room team does when they have been without sleep for days, literally? What do you supposed those tending public hospitals in New Orleans did when the flood waters were rising and terminal patients were clearly not going to be rescued by the authorities? Did they allow themselves to drown with these patients? They saved themselves, considering that they would be of service in the future. If you have allowed yourself to become fatigued, then you engaged too much and did not consider yourself as important. Fix this, and you will find your motivation returning.

In last week's GLP Live Chat, the Zetas asserted that, "If you are concerned about yourself in your Call, this is a Service-to-Self Call, no matter how you might wrap your desires." This statement was in reply to a question about praying for healing for oneself. In other words, the Zetas seemed to be saying that when one prays for wholeness for oneself, the Call is given to Service-to-Self entities even if this is not the intent. As a personal example, my prayers in recent months have focused on my own spiritual, emotional, and physical healing rather than on healing the world, though I certainly still do pray that love, forgiveness, and harmony prevail in the world. Am I giving the Call to Service-to-Self entities?

The exact nature of any given Call is difficult to address on a chat board. One can state that the Call was about the ability to help others, when in truth, in the heart of the person giving the Call, it is all about enhancing the person's status or power base. Likewise, a person can think their Call was about themselves, when their heart was filled with worry about others dependent upon them. Thus, this question cannot be simply answered in a chat without being personal counseling, which we do not do.

The Zetas have stated many times they can easily read human souls, auras, thoughts - no secrets for them. Could they describe in simple human terms what do they actually see, when they see the "soul" or the "entity". How do they perform a soul-to-soul contact?

This is a mere curiosity question, thus we will in the main decline to answer. Reading the minds of humans is a matter of telepathy, which is a known phenomena and well studied by your governments and often experienced by humans. The animal kingdom is obviously telepathic, tuning into each other's brain waves as pets do to their owners. We see auras where most humans do not. This is also a known phenomena as those humans who can see them describe the colors and appearance. Soul to soul contact is likewise not a mystery to those who have experienced this, meet another whom they feel almost instantly they knew in the past, and adjust this to be a soul contact with the others. This is something the soul does, and thus is not something the human body or mind can comprehend, nor does it need to.

We may be on the cusp of a banking change that will see most of the worlds currencies go to being gold or silver backed. The US dollar (federal reserve note) is to be exchanged one for one for the new gold backed dollars (printed by the US treasury as the constitution dictates). Can the Zeta's comment on whether or not this may come about?

Not before the pole shift, and after the shift it will not matter as money will be worthless, as will precious metals.

This website <http://www.angelfire.com/trek/caver/index.html> has a rather long blog about a small group of guys who supposedly went searching some cave and decided to dig a small opening and crawl inside to explore and had some strange experiences like strange screams and moving bolders and herioglyphics on the deep inner parts of the cave. The blog ended years ago and never finished. I was wondering was this just a silly hoax or did something really happen to these guys? It has been mentioned before that mankind is not alone in 3rd Density as we have the MIB , 4th Density STS, Bigfoot and the reptile/amphibion races coexisting with only the MIB not quarantined so I was wondering if they could elaborate any insight on this. [and from another] I have seen her square off with dogs twice her size, but now she acted as if Satan himself was lurking in the darkness. <http://www.angelfire.com/trek/caver/page5.html>

Service-to-Self aliens who are often burrowed in the Earth are not in 4th Density, as we have explained, but in 3rd Density, as they do not handle density shifting well, not being able to work as a team well, and often destroy themselves and their equipment in the process, ala the movie The Fly. Thus, their masters force them to stay in 3rd Density where they are available to respond to Service-to-Self calls for contact and to manage their dogs such as the Chupacabra and Brujas of Monterrey. This is what was encountered, and the postings ceased because the posters were frightened and wanted to avoid calling attention to themselves.

I've been obsessed with Gandhi my life. Can you comment on the clues on how to figure out if one is a Star Child?

If one is a Star Child, one is aware of this fact.

What is going on in the Mediterranean area. Torrential rainfall in Northwestern Turkey and parts of Greece. And why was the temperature in Europe in most parts above and around average, while Europe is also in the Northern Hemisphere. Does this have something to do with the fact that the wobble occurs when the sun is above America? Or is there another factor?

When Europe is facing the Sun, the magnetic N Pole of Earth is hidden beyond the horizon. Thus, the globe is allowed to bounce forward, with the northern hemisphere leaning toward the Sun. It is when the Sun is over the Americas that the push of the magnetic N Pole of Earth occurs, creating the irregular high tides along the eastern seaboard and the large algae blob that floated all the way to the Arctic up along the West Coast. We have stated that an increase in weather irregularities would continue, due to the atmospheric turmoil caused by the wobble. The atmosphere is shared by all the world, and thus there is an impact even in those areas not experiencing a violent wobble.

The Zetas have stated there is no growth for the human soul without long, painful incarnations. Why is it so difficult to learn to act STO and love others while remaining in the Spirit World?

When the soul is incarnated, it experiences physical and emotional pain, despair and hopelessness, while in disincarnate form this would only be an intellectual observation.

Would the zeta's agree that while free will is what makes us human. And it's a wonderful thing, that it could quite possibly be the great flaw in the grand design.

We cannot speak to God's plan, as we don't understand it anymore than you do.

I suppose what I am curious about is we have to choose right, that seems to be a theme within ZetaTalk. Choose to be STS or STO etc. Does this choice come into play on a sub conscious level at any point in regards to the dark forces that seem to be pulling the threads on this planet. For example, in order to be programed or harmed we have to give our permission, on some level. That's why they call TV program's programs. For give the ramble I am not sure how to express this question, I can hear it in my head but am having a difficult time translating it onto the page.

You are stating, in your question, that the decision to become Service-to-Other or Service-to-Self is programmed into a person, but this is not correct. It is a choice, and in fact hundreds of thousands if not millions of choices. Yes, this is subconscious in the main, but eventually the spirit becomes aware of the choices they are making and this is a conscious choice.

Lately Billy Meier has released information about 2012, saying "Besides all this, the year 2012 brings other unpleasant events, like e.g. an unknown, invisible, dark and huge space wanderer that is threatening from the fringe of our solar system and could wreak tremendous havoc regarding Earth." Is he still being a real contactee now?

Billy Meier is a genuine contactee, as we have explained, but could not give up the stage and enhanced his claims. He is getting some information about Planet X, but is not interpreting this correctly, so should not be taken as a truth teller.

The Zetas often stress the importance of "Empathy" and the need to cultivate the empathetic love of others. The term "empathogen" is often used to describe MDMA and other closely related phenethylamine "empathy drugs", substances that generate a sense of "touching within" or "produce a feeling in one's innermost being". MDMA can promote an extraordinary clarity of introspective self-insight, together with a deep love of self and a no less emotionally intense empathetic love of others. Could these substances really help to become a little more STO?

No. Drugs are not a shortcut.

Warm greetings from South East Asia. Is it possible to have a STO immature soul? Or are immature souls more STS generally?

There are gradations in both orientation. Service-to-Self is in and of itself immature, as the soul does not want to give up its primary or original stance, that being like a newborn baby, just focused on the self. Service-to-Others is sharing the focus with others. There are highly Service-to-Others entities and those who parse out their attention to others sparingly. The rule is that if the soul thinks of others 50% of the time, they are Service-to-Others.

When the ZetaTalk says 'on a subconscious level', does it mean on a soul level? E.g. the contacts are being made on a subconscious basis.

The human brain has both a subconscious and a conscious. The soul speaks to both. The conscious is only partially aware of what the subconscious knows, as it wants to be politically correct and exclude messy matters. The subconscious and conscious, being brain matter, are only aware of what the soul knows when the soul desires to share information with them. Since the subconscious knows and remembers all that the human body experiences, it of course is fully aware of what the soul has shared, where the conscious might be selective on what it choses to include in conscious memory.

Some personal quirks like mysophobia, is it more related to the soul incarnated? Or is it something the conscious mind (as opposed to the soul) develops throughout its life?

The soul does not have phobias, though might have reluctance to engage in certain situations where it has had problems in the past. For instance, it may have difficulty with confrontations, standing up to strong personalities, and want to avoid such confrontations during an incarnation. The soul's reluctance is related to interpersonal relationships, thus, not physical phobias which cannot affect the soul. The soul does not want to fail in its mission, and if it fears it has a weakness, may try to avoid those situations that may cause it to fail.

If the earth is wobbling why don't I lose my satellite TV signal since the satellite orbits the center of mass of the earth and would not follow a wobble?

The atmosphere drags with the Earth in the main, though not completely. Satellite signals do not require an exact connection but a range, in any case. Breaks in the connection are an increasing problem, which those providing satellite service will confirm, however.

Chinese government scientists who were observing the latest solar eclipse captured something other than the intended celestial event on camera. The group of scientists claim to have seen a UFO traveling across the sky, filming its course for forty minutes. The UFO world is abuzz at this latest claim. The observation took place at the Purple Mountain Observatory in Nanjing, China. Several news sources are reporting that students in the area also reported seeing the strange object moving across the sky. The reported event took place on July 22 of this year. Since then, scientists at the observatory have been studying the video before speculating openly on what the object actually is. The observatory's director says such a process will take at least one year to complete. Recently there has been an explosion of UFO sightings in China. One notable event was when some students in Deqing captured a UFO on video. They released the footage to the Chinese media, who aired it nationally. The object in the film seems to change shape as it moves across the sky. <http://ufoghostmysteries.org/modules.php?name=News&file=article&sid=1030>

We stated that there may be surprises during an eclipse, not quite what the authorities expect. This is an example. Cover-ups, over the alien presence or of the presence of Planet X, can be tripped up during such events, which the public cannot be dissuaded from watching.

With rising ocean levels, Bangladesh- is in serious trouble. Is this level 6.5?

Bangladesh has been in trouble since the beginning, since it is lowland subject to inundation during storms or heavy rainfall. With the Indo-Australian plate being pushed under the Himalayas, all of India is being pushed below sea level, steadily. Bangladesh will be the first to suffer. However, this does not change the overall rating for the status of the Earth changes prior to the pole shift, the 6 of 10 rating. This is a local issue only, for Bangladesh.

Would the zetas care to comment on the Bigfoot seen and picutred this past week in a Kentucky garden? I can't attach the site from the Rense program. Sorry!

Since Bigfoot is quarantined, there will be no photos of Bigfoot that develop. This is your answer on authenticity.

Greetings from Colombia, South America. Can the Zetas comment about the military bases US Government are going to use in Colombia with their authorization and the reactions this agreement between this two countries are producing in Venezuela, Ecuador etc. Are any secret agendas here, what do they want, etc.?

The Bush administration was intent upon invading S American lands due to the personal ambitions of the Bush family to have influence there. They envisioned themselves as being in control of both Americas after the pole shift. This has all fallen by the wayside lately, but the worry about Venezuela's alliances with Russia and Cuba and Iran have remained. This is a worry that the US military has, primarily. Venezuela and Ecuador are not going to fall or be subject to a coup, although there are those planning such matters, because the White House is not on board with such plans.

During Obama's speech on healthcare a Republican senator, Wilson, disrupted his speech with "You lie!". What was this person trying to achieve? It appears to have backfired. What might be the consequences of this?

This representative virtually lives on funds from the health care lobby, and has refreshed his coffers since his outburst. His motive is strictly financial!

Are Israel's plan for greater Jerusalem - 500 settlements - going to succeed?

Israel will be distressed long before the last weeks arrive, as the Earth changes will require each country to focus on its populace. This includes Israel's allies, such as the US and European countries. Aid will stop, the US military will bring its troops home to help on the home front, and Israel will find the Arab nations reacting with more than quiet rage during their attempts to take land from their neighbors. During the last weeks, there will often be revenge, though we have predicted that both Arab and Israeli will cooperate in the Aftertime, forgetting what their politicians inflicted on both cultures.

Say there are two best friends, one's next incarnation is an octopi, the other's next incarnation is a hybrid. Will the souls of the two friends remain in "eternal contact" with each other? Do souls rendezvous with each other after their bodies physically die?

This is possible, yes. The Spirit Guides can arrange such meetings if both desire it.